BISHOP CANNON, AIDE ACQUITTED IN SMITH PLOT TRIAL

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP.)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and Miss Ada L. Burroughs were acquitted today of conspiracy to violate an election law in the churchman's 1928 campaign against Alfred E. Smith.

The jury had been out three and one-half hours.

In the closing prosecution argument Leslie C. Garnett, the district attorney, pictured the Southern Methodist churchman as "like a ward heeler passing out money from the pockets of his bishop's robes" during the campaign against Alfred E. Smith.

In his closing argument to the jury Garnett shouted:

"When a bishop unfrocks himself and goes into a political campaign under the banner 'It is a blessed thing to love the Lord' he should at least keep his skirts clean, his hands unsoiled."

Justice Gordon, as he neared the end of his charge, told the jury that these questions were to be considered:

"Was there a political committee?

"Did Edwin E. Jameson (New York insurance official) make contributions to that committee?

"If he did, did these two defendants by a combination or conspiracy make up their minds that they were not going to report this money?"

Newspaper Mailers Defy Union, Strike

Defying officers of their own international union and refusing proposals to arbitrate, mailing room employes of the three Pittsburgh newspapers went on strike today for an increase in wages.

A strike vote was taken last night despite messages from Gen Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, and the National Labor Board asking that no summary action be taken until plans for conciliation could be put in operation.

Publishers of the three papers had submitted to the union a written offer to arbitrate the dispute through any person selected by both sides or chosen by President Roosevelt, Gen. Johnson or Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the National Labor Board.

UNION PEACE PLEA

The international union's request that the men refrain from a strike was brought to the men before the meeting by Munro Roberts, international secretary-treasurer of the mailers' union.

After the strike was called, Roberts, in a written statement, deplored the walkout and volunteered aid in providing employes to man the mailing rooms.

PUBLISHERS' OFFER

The publishers' proposal to the union follows:

April 26.

Pittsburgh Mailers Union No. 22, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Gentlemen:

The Pittsburgh Publishers Association offers to you the following proposition:

1—In an effort to compose the present differences, the publishers suggest that a committee representing the mailers' union and the publishers, go to Washington tomorrow to confer with President Roosevelt or Gen. Johnson or Senator Wagner, chairman of the National Labor Board, and that conciliation be conducted under the auspices of any representative that they may suggest; or

2—That the publishers are willing to conduct meetings in

DEFENDANT ON STAND AFTER PROSECUTION RESTS ITS CASE

Tom Davis, schoolboy, took the witness stand in Criminal Court today to deny that he had murdered State Highway Patrolman Herbert Brantlinger.

Ivory said that Davis will testify that on the night last September when Brantlinger was slain by a bandit at the Melrose filling station, near Bridgeville, Davis was putting down a concrete floor in the home of a neighbor, in Banksville road.

When the prosecution rested its case, at 1:30, Ivory made a brief opening argument.

He said he would show by the testimony of disinterested witnesses that young Davis was not near Bridgeville the night of the murder and that at the time of the shooting he did not have in his possession the gun exhibited by the commonwealth as the murder weapon.

Ivory said he would show that the young defendant attended school regularly for about three weeks after the shooting and that he left home only because he had a quarrel with his father.

RANSOM CASH DRAWN FOR CHILD HEIRESS

International News Service.

TUCSON, Ariz., April 27.—The safe return of 6-year-old June Robles to the arms of her father and mother seemed very near today when it was learned that Bernabe Robles, the child's rich grandfather, withdrew $8,000 from a local bank in bills of $20, $10 and $5 denominations as was specified by the child's kidnapers in their original note demanding a ransom of $15,000.

Shortly after obtaining the money, the elder Robles and his son, Fernando Robles, father of little June, disappeared from their home in what was believed to be an attempt to contact an intermediary of the kidnapers.

Returning from his mysterious trip, the elder Robles asserted:

Spain Worries.
Marconi Rests.
A Hitler Nightmare.
Real Estate Idea Wanted.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

SPAIN HAS officially declared "a nation-wide state of alarm." We have had that here since 1929.

Whether Spain will succeed in this latest of several attempts to get along without a king for a figurehead is uncertain. There is comfort in the fact that the Spanish are a proud, sensitive people, and their President might well resign for reasons that would seem trifling here, conditions may not be so bad.

Meanwhile, ex-King Alfonso, who liked being king in spite of occasional shots fired at him, is interested.

LAST WEDNESDAY, Guglielmo Marconi, "hard at work and in the best of health," celebrated his sixtieth birthday. The great scientist, whose achievements benefit the world and reflect glory upon his native Italy, read messages of congratulation, did his work, "then took the usual Roman siesta."

He knows, what the late Dr. Murphy, of Chicago, told all patients, that every man past fifty should interrupt the day's work with a complete rest, and, if possible, a few moments of sleep.

The American businessman of sixty, who works steadily as long as he can stay awake, often on top of a heavy luncheon, and then goes home, "gets ready for the evening" with the help of half a dozen cocktails, need not wonder at the physical difference between himself and Marconi.

"THE STORMER," a Nazi newspaper that boasts itself "the greatest anti-Semetic newspaper in the world," distributes throughout Germany huge red posters, promising to reveal in its May-day number "a Jewish plan to murder Hitler, Jewish ritual murders, Jewish secret laws."

THIS LOOKS like an attempt to foment widespread attacks on the Jews in Germany, without the slightest excuse or provocation. Every German Jew knows that an attack on Hitler would probably result in an outrage against the Jews, no matter by whom the attack might be made.

John Gunther, in "The New Republic," publishes a statement made long since by Captain Himmler, chief of the Munich police:

"The firing of any shot — whether it hit the mark or not —against our leader (Hitler) would provoke unequalled

Hollywood Jail Keys Found on Dillinger 'Moll'

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—(AP.)—A report that keys to the Hollywood Police Station had been found in the possession of Evelyn Frechette, alleged aide of John Dillinger, stirred police in the movie city today.

The Times said keys found in the woman's possession had been tried by Department of Justice agents in the locks of the police station and that they fitted the door to the detective bureau and "other strategic places."

The newspaper said police officers were shown pictures of the Frechette woman, who is credited with supplying Dillinger with the wooden gun with which he bluffed his way out of the Crown Point (Ind.) Jail, but none recognized her.

No one could offer a theory as to how the keys might have come into her possession.

A "thorough investigation," was promised by Chief of Police James E. Davis. He said:

'PROPHETESS' APPEARS TO WARN CONGRESS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—As the House neared the end of memorial services for deceased members today, a woman rose in the gallery shouting that she had "a message from God to deliver to Congress."

She told attendants who quickly ushered her from the gallery that she was Mrs. Ida Anderson, of Medford, Mass. She said:

"Our country is in trouble. I have a message from God to tell the truth about the cause of our trouble in this country."

Mrs. Anderson, neatly dressed and mild-mannered, said that she was born in Sweden, is the mother of two children and has been in the city for three days.

Congress paused briefly from its legislative labors to pay tribute to 15 deceased Senators and Representatives.

Following the singing of hymns and the reading of Scriptures and prayers, the names of four Senators and 11 Representatives who died while serving as members of the Seventy-third Congress were read.

HELEN KANE 'BOOPS' FOR COURT IN LAWSUIT

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP.)—Helen Kane pursued her lips and lustily "boop-boop-a-dooped" today for the benefit of Supreme Court Justice Edward J. McGoldrick.

Miss Kane's $250,000 suit against Max Fleischer, cartoonist, the Fleischer studios and the Paramount-Publix Corporation on charges of "unfair competition" began April 17, but this was the first time she was permitted to sing in court.

She alleges that the Betty Boop cartoons of the screen imitate her unique song technique. Fleischer contends "Betty Boop" is a product of his own imagination.

Her attorney, Samuel R. Waltz, asked his client to describe the manner in which she sang. Miss Kane smiled at Justice McGoldrick, pouted in the manner necessary to proper "booping" and uttered one.

Miss Kane gathered momentum. She sang:

"Boop-boop-a-doop."

And in answer to another question, Miss Kane said:

"I'll sing it for you! Boop-boop-a-doop!"

The Spirit of '76

WHEN THE country learned the other day of the protest to Congress from the citizens of historic and immortal Lexington —criticizing the invasion by the federal government of the time-honored immunities and liberties of Americans, it was everywhere felt that something of the greatest importance had occurred.

The protest was signed by 1,200 citizens of Lexington. Its language was simple—its sentences short and direct. Truth, deep feeling, fixed but patient resolves are usually so expressed.

Its effect was instantaneous. It brought to the surface of contemporary consciousness, as perhaps nothing could have done so well, the pure faith in freedom which animated the founders of the nation.

We could see once more with the mind's vision, "the crude bridge that arched the flood—the flag which the embattled farmers unfurled to April's breeze."

ONE COULD almost hear James Otis, as he arose in court to denounce the writs of assistance, saying:

"I now appear in behalf of the inhabitants of this town who have presented a petition, and out of regard to their liberties."

We could sense the scorn of the austere and upright men of those early days for the small tyrannies "which cover our waters and darken our land," and place "the liberty of every man in the hands of every petty officer."

Not only was the protest presented to Congress, but it was read at the same time on the "battle-green of Lexington."

In terms, which recalled the grave speech of colonial days, it protested against federal interference in business under the guise of promoting social reform and economic recovery. It assailed the indefinite extension of legislation originally designed solely for emergency purposes.

"We are resolved," it concluded, "that the individual's rights of private enterprise must continue free from unreasonable interference by the feredal government, and we demand their preservation at your hands."

IT WAS a fine action by the men of Lexington—altogether in keeping with the memory of their forebears and the traditions of the past.

In days to come it will be recognized as having been a factor in our emergence from the sad period of confusion and incapacity through which we are passing—a contribution to our recovery from the medley of parlor tricks, infantile thinking and reckless improvisation which passes at the moment in Washington for "governmental policy."

The Lexington protest may not have been "a shot heard round the world"—but perhaps it was something more—a message that stirred the heart and quickened the thought of every patriotic American in the land.

KILLER FOR DILLINGER FLEES TRAP IN WOODS

BULLETIN.

SULLIVAN, Ind., April 27.—(INS.)—Three carloads of gunmen, with machine guns, sawed off shotguns and pistols, and driving new automobiles with Texas and Minnesota license plates, stopped for gasoline at a filling station here today. It was believed the gang consisted of John Dillinger and his newly-recruited members.

ST. PAUL, April 27.—(AP.)—Indications that George (Baby Face) Nelson, Dillinger machine gunner, might have tried to reach St. Paul was given today when St. Paul police flashed squad cars to pick up an automobile bearing the same license plates as the car which Nelson was reported to have used in escaping a posse near Fifield, Wis., early today.

The Department of Justice has announced it was Nelson, wanted for various crimes including robbery of the Security National Bank at Sioux Falls, S. D., who shot and killed a federal agent in the gunfire with the Dillinger gang at Mercer, Wis., Sunday night.

Nelson was the object of a widespread search in the vicinity of Fifield early today after authorities were told he had been seen driving a Plymouth sedan, the same car that the St. Paul gun squad were asked to pick up.

BREMER RANSOM CASH LINKS KIDNAP 'BRAINS'

International News Service.

CHICAGO, April 27.—Solution of the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, last January, apeared immiment today with the capture of a man in whose possession was found $2,665 of the Bremer ransom money.

Admissions made by the prisoner to Melvin H. Purvis, head of the division of investigation, sent every available federal agent on a search through Chicago for an individual described as the "brains" of the Bremer plot.

This new development served to link the Bremer kidnaping with the John Dillinger gang, which already had been closely connected by the reported discovery of much of the ransom money in the gang's Spider Lake (Wis.) hideout last Monday. The reported discovery, however, has been denied by authorities.

William W. Vidler is the man in whose possession authorities said the money was found today. Vidler's admission, federal men said, came after a night of grilling.

Purvis refused to reveal the name of the person who is said by Vidler to have engineered the Bremer kidnaping.

Vidler was arrested yesterday in a Chicago Loop booking place. The prisoner's only record as yet discovered is an arrest in 1920 on a charge of auto theft.

Federal operatives said Vidler had $2,665 in $5 and $10 bills, positively identified as part of the Bremer ransom. Altogether Vidler had $3,185 in currency when arrested.

BIG WEIRTON STEEL EARNINGS CREDITED TO FIGHT ON NRA

U. S. TO SPEED SUIT CHARGING VIOLATIONS

Company in Line for PWA Cash If Victor In Court Fight

E. T. Weir's National Steel Corporation made as much money in three months after its fight with the National Labor Board as it did during all last year, according to announcement today of its first quarter earnings.

Seventy-six cents a share on its 2,156,832 shares of stock outstanding were earned during the three-months period, something of a surprise to steel circles despite the rumors that many firms were giving Weir steel orders because of sympathy with his Labor Board stand.

GLAD HE DIDN'T QUIT

In fact, Weir's concern and the Inland Steel were the only two large companies to show a profit for the latest quarter.

Weir, who was offered a position some time ago by another steel concern at a reputed salary of $1,000,000 a year, today said:

"I'm glad I didn't take it."

But from Washington an Associated Press dispatch announces Attorney General Cummings tomorrow will file in the Federal Court at Wilmington, Del., affidavits counter to those recently filed by the Weirton Steel Company, which is being sued for steel code violation.

MAY GET PWA CASH

If the courts clear the Weirton company of violating the collective bargaining provisions of NRA, the company is in line to get some Public Works Administration money—by an indirect route, it was revealed in Washington.

PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes announced a loan of $2,500,000 to the New York Central to buy and lay rails, of which amount the railroad intends to spend $47,402 for tie plates from Weirton.

Many other orders brightened the steel picture in the Pittsburgh district today. Companies going into production on them include Carnegie Steel Company, National Tube, American Bridge and McClintic-Marshall.

TROLLEY WAGE TALKS DELAYED

Unable to agree after a conference yesterday, representatives of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and the wage scale committee of Division No. 85, Streets Car Men's Union, today awaited a call to resume the effort to draft a contract to replace one which expires at midnight Monday.

According to Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president and general manager of the railways company, negotiations may extend beyond Monday, in which event the old contract would carry over until the conferences end.

The parleys started after employes in a secret ballot rejected the company's offer of a 3-cent-an-hour increase by a vote of 981 to 30.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 27.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Japan, you got to admire em. They are so ambitious, and they just got everything that all the other nations have, but a sense of humor, their papers took great satisfaction and glee, and screamed it in headlines, "The American fleet cant get through the Panama Canal in 24 hours." They never figured that the size of the fleet might have something to do with it.

Will Rogers

Twenty-nine new ships have been authorized, and so when the fleet comes back through there, and it cant get through in a day and a half, that will be a scream to Japan.

Republicans coming out pretty strong now against administration, looks like if the Democrats dont get Dillinger, may lose this fall's election. Yours, WILL.

SPAIN TO FORM NEW CABINET

MADRID, April 27.—(AP.)—President Alcala Zamora today named Ricardo Samper Ibanez, resigned minister of industry and commerce, to form a new government.

The President's action came after three days in which Spain was without a cabinet, and Monarchists commented upon the fact that such a situation was unheard of in the days of the king.

There were no immediate indications as to what step Samper Ibanez would take to organize a new government, and the President's difficulties in naming a new premier were considered as an indication that Samper might have troubles of his own.

The appointment came while some factions still clamored for the reappointment of Alejandro Lerroux, who resigned with his cabinet Wednesday.

FAZIO GETS BAIL IN BOMBING

Philip Fazio, freed in the "Barrel Murder" mystery three years ago, today posted $10,000 bond through his attorney, Frank J. Zappala, and was released from jail to await grand jury action in connection with the bombing of the home of Dr. George C. Seitz, Woodstock and Ardmore avenues, Swissvale.

The bombing occurred Tuesday night.

Previously Dr. Seitz, a member of Swissvale Borough Council, had received three letters warning him to cease his drive against rackets.

Fazio and Nick Consolo, 23, of Wilkinsburg, were held for court last night at a hearing before Justice of the Peace S. H. Willson, of Swissvale, on charges of possessing explosives and malicious destruction of property by explosives.

Fazio was acquitted three years ago in the murder of William J. Gregory, whose decapitated body was found in a barrel in Penn township.

BOMB IN MINE, BEER FEUD

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 27.—Residents of Smock were rocked early today by the second bomb explosion within a week, in what is believed a beer war reflecting bitterness between rival miner groups.

The blast shattered all windows in a one-story brick building being equipped as a beer garden by Oscar Borz and William Spranik, reputed sympathizers of the Miners' Brotherhood, rival organization of the United Mine Workers of America.

The grocery of William Beck, adjoining, was damaged, and windows in the garage of Edgar Sparrow, across the street, were blown out. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

Two beer gardens operate in Smock under ownership of persons reported favorable to the United Mine Workers. The new place had been bombed a week ago and had been repaired ready for opning.

State police are seeking the perpetrators.

COMPANY UNION FIGHT RENEWED

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP.)—The high command of the American Federation of Labor, working quietly within NRA, had underway today a new drive to block official sanction of company unions.

The A. F. of L. effort has run counter to the views of Hugh S. Johnson, creating an undercover struggle which both sides have been seeking to settle before it breaks into open controversy.

The labor advisor; board has been under the command of William Green, president of the A. F. of L., and has been solid with federation officials since Leo Wolman, long-time chairman, was put in charge of the Detroit automobile board. For the past three weeks, without publicity, the labor board has taken a militant angle.

When the labor advisory board got to talk of staging a walkout on NRA, Johnson sent aides to confer with them in search of a peaceful understanding. At a meeting yesterday the board decided to continue conversations.

STEEL LEADERS MEET ON CODE

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Proposed changes in the steel code to meet recent objections of alleged monopolistic practices under the NRA were discussed behind closed doors today at the Iron and Steel Institute with Donald R. Richberg, counsel to the NRA, and Kenneth Simpson, district administrator of the steel code, in attendance.

It is understood that new bases for making prices are under discussion at today's meeting. Under the NRA, "Pittsburgh plus"—the method of making prices long warred against by the Federal Trade Commission generally came back, according to the commission's report.

As a result of today's meeting, Richberg announced, it was decided to hold a series of conferences between a special committee of institute members and NRA officials in the near future.

Among those attending today's meeting were Thomas Girdler, chairman of Republic Steel, the largest of the independents; E. T. Weir, recalcitrant head of the National Steel Corporation against which the Federal Labor Board is moving in the courts; William R. Irvin, president of the United States Steel Corporation, and Eugene R. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel.

M'CARRAN ASKS 'CONSTRUCTIVE' AIR POLICY

Build Up, Not Tear Down Aviation, His Plea

By DON EWING
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—A plea by Senator McCarran (Dem.), of Nevada, to rebuild the nation's aviation, rather than tear it down with makeshift legislation, was on record in the Senate battle today for passage of his bill for a permanent federal aviation commission.

Shortly before taking the floor to seek substitution of his bill for the pending McKellar-Black bill, McCarran received unexpected support for his principles from Senator Norris, Nebraska insurgent Republican.

Norris demanded of Chairman Black of the investigating committee, why control of "matters of public interest" should remain under "political control" as proposed in one-year contracts provided by the McKellar-Black bill.

Black unexpectedly proclaimed himself favorable to permanent commission control.

Declaring he held no brief for or against the air mail contract cancellations, McCarran said:

"A court of competent jurisdiction will decide on that in time, but are we building in the proposed legislation here or are we tearing down?"

McCarran, whose bill takes the air mail out of politics and puts it under a commission with power to award contracts to qualified carriers at fixed rate, declared "no Postmaster General should have the power to throttle the commerce of the nation."

U. S. TO AWAIT JAP STAND IN CRISIS

Tokio to Make Clear 'Hands Off China' Policy

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The United States will await clarification of Japan's "hands off China" policy before taking any steps in the Far Eastern situation, either singly or in concert with Great Britain or other powers.

This was ascertained today following President Roosevelt's conference with Secretary of State Hull, and almost daily conferences between State Department officials and the diplomatic representatives of other powers having interests in the Orient.

STATEMENT WITHHELD

A dispatch from Tokio today reporting that the Japanese government had decided to yield to foreign pressure and amplify its new policy toward China was read with interest by State Department officials.

Ambassador Grew at Tokio has been trying unsuccessfully for some days to obtain the clarification which Japan now proposes to make. Grew has been unable even to obtain an official copy of the foreign office statement which so aroused the powers signatory to the nine-power Pacific pact.

WAIT CLARIFICATION

If the forthcoming clarification bears out earlier reports of Japan's new policy, namely, that Japan proposes to pass upon foreign loans to China, and to some extent say what foreign goods may be sold in China, and what technical assistance may be rendered China by outside powers, then it is believed the United States will certainly call Japan's attention to the fact that such a policy is in violation of the open door, and in violation of the spirit if not the letter of the nine-power treaty.

If the clarification "softens" the earlier foreign office announcement, it is doubtful if any protest will be made from Washington.

Munro Roberts, secretary-treasurer of the Mailers Trade District Union, made this statement:

To the Pittsburgh Publishers' Association:

Gentlemen:

It is with much regret that I must report to you that my efforts to have the mailers of your city conciliate further with you have proven futile.

While the organization has voted not to report for work Friday morning, I want you to know that this action does not have the sanction of the Mailers' Trade District Union. It goes without saying that I exceedingly regret I was unable to forestall this, especially in view of your conciliatory attitude.

SILVER PROBE COLLAPSES

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—A proposed Senate inquiry into silver speculation virtually collapsed today after a trio of reports from the Treasury failed to disclose the existence of a "ring" of silver gamblers.

The reports, on the contrary, proved that the largest traders in silver futures, both long and short, were great banks and business concerns, operating to protect their investments against a fluctuating market.

The Senate Banking and Currency Committee met, however, to pass upon the suggestion of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau that some further steps be taken to ascertain secret holdings of silver.

COUNTY RELIEF NEEDS MILLIONS

A minimum of $16,000,000 from public funds is needed to finance unemployment relief in Allegheny County for next year, it was reported today by a committee of experts who, at the request of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, have prepared an estimate of relief needs here.

This figure is exclusive of the amount required by the agencies financed through the Community Fund, none of which draw support from public funds.

There is an acute necessity for planning of the unemployment relief program on a long-time basis, the committee stated.

The committee includes F. F. Stephan, director of the bureau of social research of the Federation of Social Agencies; Ralph J. Watkins and J. P. Watson, of the University of Pittsburgh's bureau of business research, and George E. Doyle, statistician of the Bell Telephone Company.

Vacations Restored For Postal Men

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP.)—Restoration of vacations for postal workers was ordered today by Postmaster General Farley.

Farley said improvement of business conditions resulting in increases in postal revenue made the vacations possible.

JOBS OF 18,000 LOST AS RWD SUSPENDS

Cathedral Project One Of 400 Hit by Fund Lack

Orders suspending work on 400 Relief Works Division projects in Allegheny County, throwing more than 18,000 men out of employment, went out to all parts of the county today.

Work was suspended at noon.

James L. Stuart, county administrator, blamed exhaustion of funds supplied for projects here and the failure of state RWD officials at Harrisburg to advance additional funds.

The only exemptions will be watchmen guarding suspended projects and office personnel in the RWD headquarters in the Oliver Building. There is no provision for paying them however.

Time slips turned in after noon today will not be honored, Stuart said.

Before issuing his order Stuart made an effort to comunicate with state RWD officials, but without success. He added:

"The administrative staff there refused to answer the telephone when we called. Apparently they forgot there are 18,000 or more men in Allegheny County who have to eat. There's no sense in men working if they don't get paid for it."

He finally contacted with state officials however and was told to suspend work until May 3, when a definite date of resumption of work would be given him.

One of the largest projects affected is the Cathedral of Learning, where 2,200 men were notified this morning they would not be needed after noon today until further notice.

About $244,000 of a federal appropriation of $349,000 for labor has been spent, according to University of Pittsburgh authorities. From 12 to 15 months more will be necessary to complete the cathedral they said.

TARIFF BOARD 'RUBBER STAMP'

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Under existing law, the United States Tariff Commission is virtually a rubber stamp for the White House, Robert L. O'Brien, chairman of the commission, told the Senate Finance Committee today in urging enactment of the administration bill to allow the executive to negotiate reciprocal tariff agreements. He said:

"All tariff making is Presidential. Of course, the Tariff Commission makes reports, but the reports are not courageous."

Describing the power of Presidents over their tariff commissions, O'Brien said:

"Every President has his views, his theories and beliefs; often he receives the reports of the commission and sends them back for reconsideration.

"The President appoints the commission. For instance, during this administration President Roosevelt will fill five of the six places on the commission."

GLESENKAMP'S SUIT FOUGHT

Denying that the removal of former City Paymaster Louis Glesenkamp violated the Civil Service Act, Mayor McNair and the city Civil Service Commission have filed an answer to Glesenkamp's mandamus action seeking reinstatement.

The answer challenges the legality of Glesenkamp's appointment, declares that he has not been refused the right to appear before the commission and states that under the plan for taking care of the payroll work since his dismissal the city will save $1,000 a month.

An answer to the mandamus action of Harry Sikov, another ousted city employe seeking reinstatement, also was filed.

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—President Roosevelt apparently has abandoned all thought of asking Congress to renew his power to license industry under NRA, which expires June 16, under present law.

The President's decision was made after a study of all factors involved, including a survey of NRA operation during the past year. It was heartily approved—and for that matter, suggested—by Recovery Administration Hugh S. Johnson.

Mr. Roosevelt and Johnson felt that the drastic licensing power—which incidentally has never been invoked—was no longer necessary. This was the surface reason for the decision not to ask Congress to renew the power. Back of this reason was another and more vital one, however.

Congressional action would be necessary to renew the power. In effect, the NRA act would have to be thrown open for amendment. This the President and Johnson distinctly do not want at the present time.

Of problems resulting from the NRA coal code, he said:

"We have reached no conclusion as to that, but it will be settled within a day or two."

Lake cargo shipments from northern and southern fields is estimated at 35,00,000 tons. Including frieght charges and additional costs, the price of this coal in the northwestern and Canadian markets will be about $4 per ton, a total of about $140,000,000.

Pittsburgh district men attending the conference are Joel T. M. Stoneroad, president of the Carnegie Coal Company; Hal E. Booth, vice president, and Joseph Simpson, Pittsburgh Coal Company, and Byron H. Canon, secretary-treasurer, Clinton Block Company and the Fort Pitt Coal and Coke Company.

Boom in Coal Shipments From District Seen

Predictions of greatly increased tonnage shipments from the Pittsburgh area were made today as representatives of large bituminous coal producers of the Tri-State District continued negotiations in the Duquesne Club. At sessions yesterday it was revealed that Pittsburgh's share in the $140,000,000 worth of lake cargo business this year will exceed the total for any of the last few years.

Part of the increase is due, it was said, to general business improvement.

E. G. Mathiot, of Cleveland, vice president of the Valley Camp Coal Company, said after yesterday's meeting:

U. S. CLOAKS SEARCH FOR LINDBERGH RANSOM IN SECRECY

40 AGENTS SET NET OVER 3 STATES

Mysterious Activities Linked With Report Of Tracing $30,000

Universal Service.

BOSTON, April 27.—Despite lack of official confirmation of reports that approximately $30,000 of the $50,000 Lindbergh baby ransom money was banked in Northern New England over a six months' period, federal officials hinted today that the appearance of "Lindbergh money" was the reason for a concentration of Department of Justice agents around Rutland, Vt.

More than half of the money had been checked out, officials said, before it could be traced through the Federal Reserve Board to the bank where it was passed.

100 QUESTIONED

After questioning 100 residents of Rutland, Vt., 40 federal investigators today were scattering their forces throughout the mountains of New Hampshire, Vermont and Northern New York.

The sudden arrival of the Department of Justice men, summoned from various parts of the country, followed secret activities begun by a small group three weeks ago. The operatives set up headquarters in the United States Marshal's office in the Federal Building here.

Among the Rutland citizens questioned were a number of caddies from the Rutland Country Club and several high school boys, all of whom were asked to print a message on a piece of paper concerning a sum of money to be left at the union station.

Samples of stationery were taken from every store in the town and two local job printers were called for questioning.

BOY TELLS OF SHOOTING

One boy, after being questioned, told of seeing a piece of paper on the golf course, weighted down by a piece of sod. Starting toward it, with the idea of turning it over to the authorities, he was startled by three federal men who leaped out of the bushes nearby, firing their pistols into the air.

All trains southbound to Boston from Northern New England were reported under federal surveillance.

Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel, deputy superintendent of the New Jersey state police, said from Trenton his organization had no knowledge of a Lindbergh investigation in New England.

MACHADO HIDES, MAY SURRENDER

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Gerardo Machado, ex-president of Cuba, was still among the missing today although the impression prevailed that the exiled statesman was merely biding his time before surrendering to federal authorities.

Machado has been sought since Wednesday on a warrant charging him with murder, growing out of political deaths which occurred during his regime in Cuba.

Henry G. Gray, an attorney, admitted last night that he had been engaged to represent Machado in the event the ex-president should decide to surrender. He declined to divulge the identities of those who retained him, however.

The lawyer insisted that he had no knowledge of any plan Machado might have to surrender and said he did not know of the former Cuban executive's whereabouts.

Driver Splits Funeral On Talmadge Errand

ERIE, Pa., April 27.—(AP.)—Speeding East with luggage for Norma Talmadge's honeymoon trip, Allen Levine, the screen star's chauffeur, was arrested last night, charged with reckless driving.

Levine was accused of breaking up a funeral procession. He pleaded guilty, paid a $10 fine and costs, and continued eastward. Miss Talmadge was married to George Jessel several days ago.

School Strike Broken In South Brownsville

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., April 27.—(INS.)—The strike of South Brownsville High School students over failure of the school board to re-elect John Sepsi as teacher and assistant athletic coach was on the wane today as all but 50 of the strikers are reported to have returned to classes.

School officials took an active hand in efforts to break the walkout, as four pupils, whose names were withheld, were expelled.

M'CREADY WILL CHARGE DENIED

On grounds there had been no proof of fraud, Attorney William A. Wilson today sought the dismissal of Dr. R. J. McCready's suit to break the $1,500,000 will of Mrs. Matilda McCready, his wealthy wife.

In arguments before Visiting Judge J. W. Dawson, in Orphans' Court, the attorney representing the executors and trustees of Mrs. McCready's estate denied Dr. McCready's charges of concealment by which the 82-year-old physician sought to share in more than a $12,000 annuity in his wife's fortune.

Attorney Wilson argued that Mrs. McCready had given the doctor power of attorney in a $100,000 bank account, besides paying all household expenses and traveling expenses. This, the attorney said, did not indicate she sought to conceal her wealth.

R. T. M. McCready, cousin of and attorney for Dr. McCready, supporting his argument of inadequate disclosure and concealment, said that at the time of her death Mrs. McCready had $360,000 in cash on deposit in 10 banks, real estate worth $300,000 and $800,000 worth of stocks and bonds of which her husband knew nothing.

CHILD HEIRESS' RETURN SEEN

have June back safely before sunset today. I am ready and anxious to meet the demands of the kidnapers for $10,000 as soon as possible."

Due to threats of violence to the child if his actions were revealed, Robles refused to make any further statements regarding his plans for contacting the abductors, or exactly when he expected the return of the child.

There was no confirmation of rumors that the ransom had already been paid and that the child was being returned secretly to her home.

The Robles family's movements were wrapped in secrecy. They were unaided by local officers, who this morning called off the gigantic manhunt for the girl's kidnapers in an effort to effect the safe return of June.

Upwards of 2,000 volunteers, together with Sheriff's forces and local officers who had been combing the city, desert and mountains, were held in check while the negotiations proceeded.

DYING 'MOLL' NAMES GANG

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—In a half-delirious moment of frenzy when informed her life was hanging in the balance, a confessed sweetheart of a slain gangster today gasped out the name of the man who sent a bullet through her breast to seal her lips.

She sobbed into the ear of a Department of Investigation agent at her bedside in Delaware County Hospital, Upper Darby:

"I knew too much and they were afraid I'd talk."

The woman, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Fontaine, 30, cofessed that she deserted her husband, a Montreal steel worker, for the love of George Phillips, who was shot to death in a gun-battle with Washington (D. C.) police on April 12.

She told detectives she had been kidnaped and brought here after Phillips death because "they thought I knew too much" about the silk hijacking racket. She named two men and a woman who held her captive in an apartment in suburban Upper Darby.

AID TO MANKIND SEEN AS DOG BEATS DEATH

Doctor Hopes Animal's Brain Will Return To Normal

BERKELEY, Cal., April 27.—(AP.)—The pink tongue of a dog, revived from death, lapped eagerly as milk was poured into its mouth, and Dr. Robert E. Cornish said today he hoped the animal's increasing strength eventually would enable it to survive and thereby advance his revivication experiment to aid mankind.

Dr. Cornish, young research worker at the University of California, believes his theory of revivication some day may be applied successfully to human beings who have died from heart failure, shock, submersion and aphyxiation.

The animal, now known as "Thirteen" because it was put to death clinically on Friday, April 13, appears to be in a deep stupor, and Dr. Cornish explained the dog has not recovered his mental faculties. He said:

"I hope the dog's brain eventually will become restored to the condition it was before death.

"The dog was dead four minutes by medical standards. It was asphyxiated, the heart had stopped beating, it ceased to breathe and its blood had halted its circulation. There is no question that the dog was dead.

"Then I injected heparin to start its heart and defibrinated blood into its veins and within a minute its heart was beating, but too rapidly.

"This rapid heart movement which reached 220 beats a minute, quickly wore out the hearts of two dogs on which we experimented previously. To give the heart something to pump back into the arteries, we injected a salt solution and the beating slowed down to normal."

Death for Kidnapers Law in Delaware

DOVER, Del., April 27.—(INS.)—The little, almost crimeless State of Delaware today took its place among the growing list of states that have made kidnaping punishable by death.

With a sweep of his pen, Gov. C. Douglass Buck signed the death warrant for any criminal convicted of abduction in Delaware. The measure provides that kidnappers die by hanging.

Lindy Ransom Cash Discovery Denied

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP.)—J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Justice Department's division of investigation, today described as "without a scintilla of truth" reports published in Boston that a large amount of the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom money had been found in New England.

SALLY RAND DRESSING FOR HER FAN DANCE . . . . SHE WEARS A COATING OF WHITE CLAY

Sally Rand Arrives In State of Indignation

VOLIVA YIELDS ON PORK BAN

ZION, Ill., April 27.—(AP.)—Wilbur Glenn Voliva decided today that an occasional pork sandwich or after dinner cigar wouldn't keep anyone out of Heaven.

Therefore, he announced in a decree that startled the residents of this religious colony, neither eating of pork nor using of tobacco would henceforth be grounds for expulsion from the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church of Zion.

Alexander Dowie, founder of the sect, had always called hogs scavengers of the earth.

Voliva included a warning that such things as "beer guzzling and whisky soaking" never will be tolerated.

His campaigns to make trains stop shrilling their whistles at Zion crossings and his teachings that the world is flat also will be continued.

Slights Fan Dancing Art to Speak Mind On Jap Question

Miss Rand reached Pittsburgh today for a week's showing (yes) in a downtown theater in state of indignation and a stateroom. She clouded her pretty face in a frown and announced:

"You see, my maid is Chinese and I'm pro-Chinese, and whatever the Japanese are doing in Manchuria I'm against."

But what about fan dancing?

"Well, there are enough fan dancers in the country now to win an election, and I'm glad I've supplied work for all these girls. I have more imitators than Chevalier. And I'm still against the Japanese policy in Manchuria."

But is there a future to fan dancing?

"Well, perhaps there's not much of a future but there certainly is a swell past."

Does Miss Rand like apples?

"I just love apples. Give me one and I'll prove it."

REV. J. D. HILLS DIES IN AVALON AT 77

Noted Church Leader Served in Episcopal Ministry 54 Years

The Rev. John Dows Hills, rector of the Epiphany Episcopal Church, Avalon, died at his home, 330 Home avenue, Avalon, at 8:30 this morning.

He had been in the ministry 54 years and held the longest continuous service in the Pittsburgh diocese of the Episcopal Church.

Recognized as an outstanding leader of his church, Dr. Hills came within a few votes of being elected bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese 12 years ago following the death of Bishop Cortlandt Whitehead. He was known as an advocate of church unity.

Dr. Hills, born in Syracuse, N. Y., on July 9, 1857, was the son of the Rev. Dr. George Morgan Hills and Sarah Dows Hills. He received his B. A. in 1878 and his M. A. in 1881 from Trinity College and in 1907 obtained his D. D. at the University of Pittsburgh. The year after his ordination, 1883, he married Clara James Rogers, of Burlington, N. J.

SERVED HERE SINCE 1909

Before taking up his present pastorate in Avalon in 1909, Dr. Hills served in a number of churches throughout the country. From 1880 to 1882, he was first curate of St. Mary's Church in Burlington, N. J. From there he went to St. Andrew's in Mt. Holly, N. J., where he served as rector for seven years.

The Pacific coast was his next post, for from 1889 to 1892 he was with St. Luke's Church in Tacoma, Wash., going from there to Philadelphia to become associate rector at St. Mary's.

For the next 10 years he was connected with the Christ Church in Dayton, O., then with Christ Church in Oil City. Since that time he has been rector of the Epiphany Church in Avalon. In addition to his local duties, Rev. Hills was an examining chaplain for the district of Washington from 1890 to 1892, and for Pittsburgh from 1904 to 1907, and 1929 to 1930.

DIOCESE OFFICIAL

He was also a member of the diocese standing committee from 1907 to the present time and president of it from 1910 to 1914 and 1920 to the time of his death. Included in the other organizations to which he belonged were Phi Beta Kappa, Thirty-second Degree Mason, Knight Templar, Grand Chaplain, Grand Lodge Pa. F. and A. M., Sons of the Revolution, and Founders and Patriots of America.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Clara Rogers Hill, Dr. Hills leaves one daughter, Adrianna Hills, also of Avalon.

CRASH SPARES NEWLYWEDS

CHARLEROI, Pa., April 27.—Two Dunlevy youths were injured seriously by an automobile here last night, but a newly-wed couple escaped unhurt in the same accident.

Elmo Niccolai, 17, brother of Lundo Niccolai, Duquesne University football star, and Robert Cowell, 23, were serenading the newly-married Mr. and Mrs. Michael English by hauling them in a spring wagon when the automobile crashed into it.

Niccolai and Cowell were rushed to the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital, where physicians said Cowell may die.

The driver of the automobile, Adam Culler, of Belle Vernon, said there were no lights on the wagon.

M'CLOY NAMED IN REVELS

Ten-day sprees and happy marriages cannot go hand in hand, Mrs. Harriet Flannery McCloy, socially prominent Pittsburgher, told Judge Thomas M. Marshall today at the hearing of her divorce suit against Albert W. McCloy, Jr., insurance broker.

Mrs. McCloy, member of the noted Flannery family, accused McCloy, her second husband, of extended revelries and other indignities. They were married in 1916 and separated in 1930. Sometime ago she was given the legal right to transact business in her own name.

Mrs. McCloy maintains a home in the Iroquois Apartments. McCloy lives in South Linden avenue.

Mrs. Pinchot Sees Wagner Bill Doom

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—(AP.)—Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the Governor, predicted last night that the Wagner labor bill will not be passed during the present session of Congress. She said:

"The President told me that possibilities of the Wagner labor bill being passed were for the present somewhat remote."

HART JE TRUST AIRING NEAR

Arguments on the $103,000 trust fund account established by the late Augustus Hartje, millionaire Pittsburgh paper manufacturer, for his former wife, Mrs. Mary Scott Howard, of Atlantic City, will be heard next week by Judge H. Walton Mitchell in Orphans' Court.

The trust fund was set up by the paper manufacturer in a property settlement at the time the then Mrs. Hartje obtained a divorce. It was to provide Mrs. Hartje with a $6,000 annuity for life. Following Hartje's death in 1922, the heirs contested his will and in settlement of the contest, Edward G. Hartje, a brother, and John Scott Hartje and Mary Louise Rambach, children of Augustus Hartje, agreed to make up any difference if the trust fund failed to yield the $6,000.

The fund now does not earn the annuity and the other heirs of the manufacturer brought suit to protect their interests in the trust fund.

Court Upholds Editors In War on Auto Races

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—(AP.)—Two automobile racing drivers today sought probation on their pleas of guilty to assaulting a newspaper reporter and photographer.

On May 10 they will appear for sentence before Judge Charles S. Burnell who yesterday told them "you took the wrong way about it when you attempted to tell the editors what they could do."

Babe Stapp, originally indicted for kidnaping James Lee, Examiner reporter, and Louis Tonai, charged with felonious asault on John Bennus, photographer for the newspaper, pleaded guilty to the reduced charges after their counsel explained they realized they were "wrong" in the methods they chose to express their opinions.

Lee and Bennus were abducted from the funeral of Ernie Triplett, famous driver killed in a race track crash, by a group of men who objected to the Examiner's campaign against what it called "legalized murder" in automobile racing.

The group took the reporter and photographer to the editorial rooms where spokesmen told the editors to stop their campaign.

Amateur Sleuths Back Of Millen's Death Trial

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

DEDHAM, Mass., April 27.—But for the unsung amateur detective work of three Boy Scouts and two private citizens, Murton and Irving Millen and Abe Faber probably would not be on trial today for the murder of two policemen in a machine-gun holdup of the Needham Trust Company.

On February 6, four days after the Needham bank was raided and Policemen Forbes McLeod and Frank Haddock were shot down, police discovered a burning car on a snow-crusted road off the Providence turnpike.

Johnny Maloney, 16; Charles Parsons, 16, and Philip King, 19; all Boy Scouts, hiked to the fire scene and scoured in the snow. They noted a slit in the whiteness and dug. They found a brass plate from a stolen police radio set. At another spot they dug and found pieces of number plates from the burned car.

Carl N. Snider, another curious citizen, found a cartridge which also figured as a clue.

An even more important piece of detective work was accomplished by Walter H. Mills, salesman, of Norwood, who examined the machinery of the burned machine. He noted that there were different types of separators in the battery, obviously it had been repaired.

Mills took the battery to a mechanic who verified his theory. He then informed Needham police, who sought information on the repair job.

William and Alfred Laverge, Boston battery shop proprietors, came forward to tell of performing such a job.

And so from the tell-tale debris state police identified the burned car as a stolen machine and established various links in the case against the defendants.

DILLINGER PAL ELUDES TRAP IN WOODS

The trail of the Dillinger marksman, who momentarily, at least, stole the spotlight of notoriety from his chief—who is still being hunted by 5,000 or more officers—was first picked up in the village of Lac du Flambeau, northeast of Fifield, when an automobile was stolen there by a man the authorities are convinced was Nelson. He apparently had been hiding in the vicinity of the Lac du Flambeau Indian reservation, having escaped from the Sunday night fighting at Mercer in the car in which Baum rode to his death.

Apparently having supplied himself with a new car the fugitive sought to make his escape to some other section when information, coming from an undisclosed source, tipped the officers as to his whereabouts, and the hunt was on.

HIGHWAYS GUARDED

All highways and bridges in the vicinity were closely guarded by the officers, who called upon woodsmen and guides to help.

At Ladysmith, some 75 miles southwest of Fifield, a posse was stationed to head the fugitive off in that direction, but he failed to put in his appearance.

U. S. Sleuths Promise Early Dillinger Roundup

International News Service.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 27.—Heartened by new clues federal operatives and police intensified their hunt in the Twin Cities today for John Dillinger, America's No. 1 outlaw, and his band of killers, convinced by fresh developments that capture of the gang may be imminent.

The officers said they were certain the net was drawing tighter around the hiding place of the Indiana phantom mob leader.

United States Attorney George Sullivan prepared to go before the federal grand jury today to present charges against five persons who are alleged to have given assistance or medical treatment to the fugitive.

PROSECUTIONS LOOM

Sullivan announced that the information he had concerning the charge that Dr. N. G. Mortensen gave medical treatment to Dillinger and his first lieutenant, John Hamilton, would be presented to the grand jury. Dr. Mortensen was suspended from his post as city health officer for treating bullet wounds of the two gangsters on March 13, last.

In addition, Sullivan will lay before the grand jurors the evidence he has against Evelyn Frechette, Dillinger's Indian sweetheart; Mrs. Beth Green, widow of desperado Eugene Green; Dr. Clayton J. May and Mrs. Augustus Salt.

Evelyn Frechette is alleged to have been with the gang leader March 31 in a Lexington avenue apartment when it was raided by federal agents. Authorities charge that it was she who backed an automobile from a garage while Dillinger held the officers off with machine gun fire and then drove the wounded desperado away from the ambush scene.

Dr. May and his nurse, Mrs. Salt, were said by police to have treated the fugitive on several occasions for the gunshot wound Dillinger received in the March 31 battle with officers.

FUGITIVE TREATED

The physician claims that Dillinger forced him and Mrs. Salt at the point of a machine gun to treat a bullet wound in the leg, just above the knee, at the home of Mrs. Salt.

Beth Green is charged with having aided Dillinger and Miss Frechette in obtaining the Lexington avenue apartment.

The indictments will be sought under a comparatively new federal law which provides for up to five years' imprisonment for anyone convicted of harboring, concealing or helping a person known to be a fugitive from justice.

Dr. Mortensen, who up to a few days ago was city health officer, was suspended from duty by Commissioner of Safety J. H. MacDonald. MacDonald charged the physician with treating Dillinger and Hamilton for bullet wounds without notifying police that he had done so.

CHECKS CHEER PRIZE WINNERS

There were hundreds of happy persons in the tri-state district today as the winners in the Sun-Telegraph $1,500 cash prize "Know Your Own City" contest received their checks.

"Do I feel elegant! I've been out of work for nearly four years and I have about 1,000 places to spend that dough."

On getting the $200 second prize, Mrs. Rose Walsh, of 5330 Holmes street, mother of two boys, gleefully exclaimed:

"I'm all agog! It's the first prize I ever won—though I play bingo regularly."

LIFERS KIDNAP TWO OFFICERS

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., April 27.—(AP.)—Two desperate convicts, heavily armed, today held the fate of two kidnaped policemen in their hands.

The pair, Wanda T. Stewart, 29-year-old robber, and Walter H. Wyeth, 40, robber and forger, escaped from San Quentin Prison yesterday after slugging a guard. They fled in an automobile in which the policemen had been seeking them with their intended captors as hostages.

Arms known to be in the possession of the convicts include three revolvers, two rifles, a shotgun, a hunting knife and many rounds of ammunition.

Summoned by the prison alarm, Officers A. M. Dewey and Phil Lecornec, of San Rafael, found the convicts hiding in a freight yard, where they had fled.

Prison guards, county officers and state highway patrolmen spread throughout the northern part of the state in an attempt to corner the fugitives.

Both of the convicts were serving five-year to life sentences.

DILLINGER TRAIL IN STATE LOST

HARRISBURG, April 27.—(AP.)—If John Dillinger actually was in Pennsylvania he has disappeared without trace.

Chief of Police L. E. Yoder, of Everett, Bedford County, said a "prominent citizen" of the town had reported seeing a car containing a man resembling Dillinger except for lack of mustache, speed over a road near Everett. Yoder reported last night, however, that neither his force nor state police with whom he checked had found any signs of the small sedan in which the suspect was seen.

DAVIS ON STAND, OFFERS ALIBI DEFENSE

fession about the shooting of Brantlinger and that the school boy signed it "after numerous incidents of the kind that would make anyone confess."

The former senior at South Hills High School earlier in the day sat in court listening to the last of a long line of witnesses produced by Prosecutor Roy T. Clunk.

One of these was Vincent Murray, states attorney of Clinton County, Ill., where Davis was finally arrested after, Clunk charges, he had slain Brantlinger and then fled West on a criminal expedition.

Murray testified that when Davis' father, Thomas A. Davis, Sr., former justice of the peace, came West to see his jailed son, the boy told his father he had been tortured into signing a confession. And Murray added:

"I told him to remove his clothes (to exhibit any signs of a beating) and he just dropped his hands."

TELL OF RE-ENACTMENT

Following Murray to the stand were four Bridgeville residents, Charles Johnston, William A. Keller, Clarence Collins and Philip Dietrich, who told of watching Davis re-enact the crime after he had been arrested. Johnston owns the filling station at which Brantlinger was slain.

Between 30 and 35 witnesses, including about 10 from the vicinity of Bridgeville and several from Illinois, will testify in Davis, defense, it is said.

ARMY'S PLANES IN CRIME HUNT

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP.)—The War Department agreed yesterday to allow the Justice Department to use its airplanes in chasing criminals.

The decision came shortly after the House Judiciary Committee had approved two more of the series of bills designed to strengthen the hand of the department legally. One approved, which will be passed by the House probably today, would make it a capital offense to transport a kidnaped person across state lines.

There was no immediate indication the Justice Department would make use of Army planes in its search for John Dillinger, the prevailing Indiana irritant.

Attorney General Cummings disclosed the War Department had made such an offer as he was returning from the funeral of Special Agent W. Carter Baum, who was killed Monday in a fight with the Dillinger gang.

TRADERS HERE RANK THIRD

The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce is given third place among the 13 major cities of the country in the 1933 Inter-Chamber of Commerce Health Conservation contest, according to announcement today.

Only two other cities, Baltimore and Chicago, top Pittsburgh, which is given honorable mention. Pittsburgh has jumped from seventh place to its present place in four years.

A standing committee co-operates with the city Health Department in various public health activities and compiles data from hospitals, health and welfare organizations.

IN CALIFORNIA, traveling from Los Angeles to Santa Monica, just east of the Pacific's edge, you pass a pit of sticky asphalt, containing almost every possible kind of antediluvian monster, from carnivorous dinosaur to ichtyosaurus. This antique deposit, that requires a regular bill of fare to enumerate its attractions, is said to be valuable to California real estate, showing that a California lot may yield anything, oil, gold, dinosaurs, or a valuable gasoline station.

JAPAN HAVING SAID, "I am the boss of Asia, if you want to do any business with China, do it through me," says nothing more, leaving the western countries to interpret its statement for themselves. Britain, France and other countries are "watching the United States, to see what this government will do."

Uncle Sam, who still has his fingers well burned from pulling chestnuts out of the fire between 1914 and 1918, will, if wise, let the Europeans do their own chestnut-pulling this time.

"Japan, pretending to speak in the name of peace in the Far East, which she alone has disturbed for the past 30 years, is pursuing a policy which is the negation of peace and collaboration."

The learned Chinese should remember that Japan has adopted western ways. That of which he complains is one of those western ways.

DUST STORMS in the Middle West threaten the wheat crop and may account for last Wednesday's sudden rise in the price of wheat. Such storms might be minimized by methods of cultivation that would protect wheat field surfaces from action of the wind.

The "duck-foot cultivator," developed in the Northwest with funds provided by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., cultivates a strip 70 feet wide, the cultivator blades passing just below the surface, cutting the roots of last year's dry grain without disturbing the stalks, leaving the surface with straw standing to protect it from wind and the wash of rain.

YOUNG LADIES that read about sheiks and cave-men, and think they might prefer one to their "tuxedo-adorned" young American, should read about Zoltan Viniss, of Budapest, genuine cave type, now in jail, to stay a month, for kissing a young lady so hard that he broke her jaw in three places. That is news, by the way; you have not read it before.

SOUTH AMERICA saw one able American woman climb "inaccessible" peaks that no man had ever climbed, and named at least one of the highest in her honor. Now they have seen Miss Laura Ingalls finish a 16,000-mile flight all alone, around South America, over 22 separate countries and the Andes Mountains. That should be good advertising for "the States."

Penna. Man Proposes Ban on Crime Arms

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP.)—Both purchasers and vendors of machine guns, sawed-off shotguns and bulletproof vests shipped in interstate commerce for criminal purposes would be liable to 20 years' imprisonment under a bill introduced today by Representative Walter (Dem.), of Pennsylvania.

The measure would make interstate shipment or receipt of such weapons prima facie evidence of intent to commit a felony.

Court Act Assures M'Clure Freedom

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—(AP.)—Mandates which assure the freedom of State Senator John J. McClure and 58 co-defendants in the Delaware County liquor conspiracy case have been filed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The mandates reverse the convictions and sentences, and make certain that Senator McClure and the others will not have to serve the jail terms or pay the fines imposed by the district court.

Woman Killed, 8 Hurt in Blast

CHICOPEE, Mass., April 27.—(AP.)—An unidentified woman was killed and at least eight persons were injured, several seriously, early today when an explosion shattered a cottage and damaged 20 or more nearby buildings.

The cottage was occupied by the family of Joseph Pronko. None of the family was at home at the time, neighbors said.

Kingfish 'Buried' After Rival Wins

BATON ROUGE, La., April 27.—(AP.)—What was represented as Senator Huey P. Long's "political funeral" was held last night by several hundred persons celebrating the victorious Sixth District Congressional campaign of State Senator J. Y. Sanders, Jr.

Behind an antique, horse-drawn hearse, and with a placard inscribed "Don't Laugh, It's Huey's Funeral," supporters of Sanders, a leader of Long's opposition, paraded to an auditorium to hear the representative-designate speak.

Celebrating 20 Years of Progress with Pittsburgh

A VIRILE CITY

Think back, you Pittsburghers, to 1913 when 18 feet were taken off the "Hump." (That same year, a few blocks away at Sixth and Smithfield, another excavation was begun for a great department store.) To 1915 and the opening of the Manchester bridge. To 1915, too, when the streets of Lower Allegheny were raised to prevent flooding of the business section. To 1922 and the opening of the Boulevard of the Allies . . . one more great traffic artery from busy downtown to the East. To 1924, when Washington Crossing Memorial Bridge opened up the Millvale section. To that same year when Liberty Tunnels gave quick new access to the South Hills.

Feel the indomitable spirit that cut down hills, tunneled through mountains, crossed three great rivers. Pittsburgh, seen from the air, seems to be a group of separate towns. We who live here know that it is one great community which literally removed mountains in its progress these last twenty years. Ah, we're proud to be part of such a city. Proud to do our bit in making it a great place in which to live.

As our part in Pittsburgh's progress, to celebrate twenty years of growth with her, we offer next month's great event . . . hoping that the savings, which even we could not offer during the rest of the year, will help each Pittsburgher on his own road to progress.

NOTE: Tomorrow and Monday, two great days of advance buying for our regular customers who know the advantages of shopping Gimbels regularly.

'SILVER SHIRTS' CENTER OF U. S. NAZI QUIZ

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Thorough investigation of the activities of the "Silver Shirts of America" was planned today by the House committee named to investigate Nazi propaganda in this country.

The bankruptcy of William Dudley Pelly's Galahad Press, at Asheville, N. C., furnished the committee an opportunity to probe the activities of the "Silver Shirts."

Investigators of the committee already have been assured the records of the Galahad press will be preserved so a study of the files can be made.

While Chairman McCormack (Dem.), of Massachussetts, declined to outline the committee's course he said complaints had been received that the "Silver Shirts" organization was connected with Nazi propaganda.

CALLED KLAN SUCCESSOR

The organization, which first was disclosed in Oklahoma and said to be active in many southern states, was regarded in some quarters as a successor to the Ku Klux Klan. Charges were made that an anti-Jewish and pro-Nazi campaign was being planned.

Representative Dickstein (Dem.), of New York, chairman of the House Immigration Committee, said:

"The Immigration Committee, which looked into Nazi activities before the present committee was created, receivd information that the 'silver shirt' organization was connected with Nazi propaganda."

BANKRUPTCY AIDS QUIZ

The bankruptcy of the organization was regarded by members of the committee as a "break" in the initial stages of the inquiry. They expected it to result in the disclosure of records otherwise difficult to obtain.

Many prominent citizens are said to have backed Pelly's magazine because of his interest in psychic matters.

The committee may conduct most of its investigation during the summer recess. It has been authorized to engage counsel.

The committee already has been deluged with information from private sources charging German Nazi activities in various parts of the country. All such leads will be checked and later subpenas will be issued for witnesses to testify under oath.

Strong Bill Curbing Stocks Due to Win In 30 Days

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 27.—There is a little truth in what the Wall streeters and the liberals are saying about each other on the front pages every day, but not much.

Their excited allegations are mostly old-fashioned ballyhoo for their opposing sides in the struggle over the stock market bill.

The Wall streeters probably are spending a lot of money (as the liberals say), but it is not doing them much good. The advantage is all with the liberals. They have key men in Congress with whom they work directly. The Wall Streeters are working with perhaps half a dozen congressmen (no more), who dare not openly espouse their cause.

OPERATIONS

The Whitney-Redmond Stock Exchange group operates from a downtown hotel, but is rarely seen around the Capitol. The Corcoran-Cohen liberal cheer leaders march into councils with Chairmen Fletcher and Rayburn of the Senate and House committees, respectively, even going to the extent of writing statements for Fletcher. Their ace under-cover worker, however, is Senator Jim Byrnes, the South Carolina nonpareil, who covers the floor of the Senate for them.

All this lobbying they do in the name of the people without spending a dime.

INFLUENCE

The poor little rich boys from Wall street have been doing everything they could do to beat that lineup. They started out by stirring up every employe of every brokerage house around the country to write and wire congressmen. Lately they have branched out, getting manufacturers to bring pressure on the congressmen. That is probably legitimate because every manufacturer who issued stock is affected by the bill.

The liberals recently made much of this phase of Wall street lobbying when Rayburn discovered that certain amendments offered by the manufacturers really had come from the stock marketers' mimeograph machine.

The trouble with the Wall street efficiency is that most congressmen would jump up and run if they saw a Wall streeter coming—that is, if they thought anyone was looking.

RESULTS

All the charges and countercharges will boil down in the end to exactly nothing.

A strong stock market bill will be passed within the next 30 days. Its major provisions will not be written in either house of Congress. The real work will be done later in a conference of committees representing both houses.

The way things are shaping back-stage now the House margins provisions, with some modification, will finally prevail, as will the Senate independent commission idea.

That means you may expect a minimum margin requirement of 35 to 40 per cent and the market will be regulated by a Federal Commission of three to be appointed by the President.

Wall street will not like this, but it can work under such an arrangement

MASTER STROKE

The best answer Mr. Roosevelt figured out to the Wirt flurry was to take Barney Baruch to the baseball game. Publicity experts considered it a master stroke. Pictures of the President tossing out the first ball always get wide public circulation, and, in them this year, Mr. Baruch sat at the right hand of the President. It was the first time he had been invited to the White House in a long time.

TOILING LEADERS

Speaker Rainey and Floor Leader Byrns have been working furiously on the administration legislative program since the story got out that Mr. Roosevelt might change leaders next year.

Their feverish activity not only virtually has killed the McLeod bill, objectionable to Mr. Roosevelt, but also is having an influence on silver.

Rainey always has been a brazen silverite, but lately the silver bloc has been complaining that it is unable to get a word out of him on that subject.

NOTES

You can bet your last cent that Germany will not get export credits here as long as she continues her interest-defaulting policy on her bonds. Those who are working out the export policy are agreed on that . . The Independent Stock Market Commission idea was considered a Wall street victory at first, but the liberals are coming around now to accept it. They realize Mr. Roosevelt will appoint the commission and their group will be represented on it. The House leadership failure was discussed at Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet meeting last Friday. . . The State Department continues to send up to Congress bills for payment of claims to French subjects. The House Foreign Affairs Committee knows more than to report these bills to the House. There is not a chance of French subjects getting their claims as long as the French war debt policy continues. . . Some officials in the Indian Bureau, housed in the vast new Postoffice Building, have suggested that rations and compasses be cached in various parts of the building for callers who become lost. . . . The nickname they have for Secretary Perkins in the Labor Department is "Sis."

LIQUOR TAXES AT NEW HIGH

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP.)—Liquor and beer taxes paid the government $5,000,000 more in March than in February and with the total at $28,320,000 made the best showing since repeal.

Internal Revenue Bureau reports today showed the biggest return in previous months was $24,428,000 in December. January dropped off to $22,132,000, while February totaled $23,039,000.

Beer provided nearly $4,000,000 of the February-March increase, going from $9,316,000 to $13,175,000. The distilled spirits production tax at $8,742,000 showed another million increase.

First quarter income tax payments in March of $228,525,000 served to push the month's aggregate internal revenue receipts to $390,352,000 as compared with $174,035,000 in February and $242,464,000 in March, 1933.

Uncle Sam to Aid Financing of Home Repairs

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP.)—American homes need plenty of fixing up, and the government intends to do something about it quickly.

Capitol Hill received word today an administration bill would be sent up in a day or so. Presumably it would call for a government corporation that would guarantee mortgages when private lending agencies advanced funds for home renovation.

The potential field of operations for a home improvement drive was shown in a Commerce Department survey that picked 54,300 homes in eight cities at random and found 32,250 needed some sort of repairs.

SUPER TAX BILL RATES HIGHEST

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—As the House prepared for a battle Monday over the Couzens 10 per cent super income tax, examination of the new $417,000,000 tax bill disclosed that some classes of income taxpayers will pay the highest taxes in the world.

The combined federal and state income taxes on some of the larger incomes exceed even those of Great Britain, which has been the most heavily taxed nation on incomes.

House leaders predicted the Couzens super tax would be rejected, but they were ready to accept other proposals in the bill as revised by the Senate and the Senate-House conference.

Stubborn resistance to the imposition of $200,000,000 more taxes than originally approved by the administration was planned by Republican fiscal leaders in the House.

SON BEARS NOTE OF DEATH TO MOTHER

Failure to effect a reconciliation was blamed by police today for the slaying of Mrs. Anna T. Patterson, 35, and the suicide of her husband, Walter Patterson, 38, in the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Patterson, of 507 Whitfield street, Duquesne, yesterday afternoon.

One of the Pattersons' two sons unwittingly took a meassage that summoned his mother to her death, police said. Patterson had sent the son to the home of his wife's stepfather, J. B. Shiner, of 923 West Grant avenue, Duquesne, where she had been living with her daughter, Sara Jane, since their estrangement Christmas night, to notify her that he had some money for her. Mrs. Patterson went to see him.

PAIR FOUND SHOT

Shortly after the couple had gone to an upstairs room, Patterson's mother, an invalid for 12 years, heard three shots. She called to a neighbor who went to the second floor and found the couple, each with a bullet wound in the temple. Patterson was dead and his wife died a short time later. Patterson, lying on the floor, was clutching a revolver, police reported.

The pair separated when Patterson went home intoxicated during a children's party at the Whitfield street house and waved a revolver, relatives told police.

LIVED WITH SONS

Patterson, who had been working on Relief Work Division projects until recently, lived with his sons, Walter, 16, and Jerome, 15. The children were at school when the tragedy occurred.

Walter said:

"I can't figure what prompted dad to do this. He loved mother and mother loved him. My father never owned a gun. He had one last Christmas that he was to repair for some fellow.

"He always talked about how he and mother were going to live together again as soon as he could get a job. I suppose I will have to take care of my brother and sister now."

The elder Pattersons announced that they will continue to keep the grandsons; Sara Jane will be cared for by the Shiners.

AGED SLAYER HELD INSANE

Found insane by a jury of doctors, John M. Cain, 71, former railway employe, today faced commitment to Farview Hospital for the slaying of his wife, Creen, 62, whom he shot to death six weeks ago.

Drs. E. E. Mayer and C. H. Henninger, who examined Cain for the court, reported that despite the slaying, they found no criminal tendencies in Cain's derangement.

They said his mind had been depressed by his old age retirement, aggravated on the day of the slaying by alcohol.

Pet Snakes Shown, Club Women Shriek

HOUSTON, Tex., April 27.—(AP.)—Mrs. Bruce Reed created a stir at a convention of clubwomen when she demonstrated her contention that snakes make good pets.

Mrs. Reed pulled a few snakes from her bag during her lecture on wild life. Several women shrieked. Allowing the reptiles to entwine themselves about her arms and neck, Mrs. Reed stated they are "the cleanest, most economical and satisfactory pets obtainable."

Alcohol Company Granted Charter

HARRISBURG, April 27.—(AP.)—The Secretary of State yesterday granted a charter to the Bacardi Corporation of America, located in Philadelphia.

It is capitalized at $100,000 and the incorporators are William H. Hoodless and P. P. Polakoff, of Philadelphia, and H. E. Barnes, of Overbrook. The concern is authorized to manufacture, mix and denature alcohol for beverage and other purposes.

Officer Will Wait For Easier Name

CHICAGO, April 27.—(AP.)—It looks like Officer Arthur Anderson may serve a traffic violation warrant on Robert Pyzel if he hangs on to it for a few more years.

When he first tried to serve it, he found the Pyzels had moved to the Bataafsche Petroleum Maatechappij in Balikpapan, Borneo.

Then he received a letter from Mrs. Pyzel, who had read accounts of the incident. They are returning to Chicago, she said, but not until after they complete an engineering assignment at a place even harder to spell.

Gordon Threatens Cheating Bankrupts

NORRISTOWN, April 27.—(INS.)—Dr. William D. Gordon, state secretary of banking, today was seriously considering his threat to expose cheating bankrupts, many of them prominent men, before he leaves office. Dr. Gordon said:

"I would like to publish a list now of the prominent and near-prominent bankrupts, who, in many cases, have no intention of paying their just and legal debts. Perhaps I will—before I leave office."

CATHOLICS CITE SCHOOL SAVING

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—(AP.)—Maintenance of parochial schools by the Catholic Church in Pennsylvania saves the state more than $30,000,000 a year, the Rev. Harold E. Keller, of Harrisburg, said today in a report to the executive committee of the Catholic Educational Association of Pennsylvania.

His report, made on the eve of the association's annual convention, listed 300,656 pupils in Catholic grade and secondard schools throughout the state, under the instruction of 8,100 teachers.

The executive committee condemned inclusion of religious affiliation on application blanks for state teaching positions.

NURSES' STRIKE PARLEY CALLED

CHICAGO, April 27.—(AP.)—A meeting of staff physicians at the Frances Willard Hospital was called for today to consider the discharge of 30 nurses who went on a 30-minute strike Wednesday for increased pay.

Paul Gebhard, business manager of the institution, ordered the nurses to be out of the hospital within 24 hours, but they refused, declining pay checks and refusing to pack their belongings.

They asked their monthly pay of $25 with room and board be boosted to $40, but returned to their jobs when a staff physician promised a hearing by a board of arbitration.

HAND KISSING ABROAD BORES SHOWGIRLS

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—Fed up on continental gallantry with its attendant hand kissing, a group of American chorines has returned after playing a season at Monte Carlo.

Miss Evelyn Joslyn, one of the principals of the troupe, admitted, however, that European men "have some good points." She said:

"They don't leer at you like the night club ringsiders in this country."

This attitude, Miss Joslyn said, could easily become one of apathy—an objectionable thing. She went on:

"They—these Frenchmen and Englishmen—often act bored."

She explained that such an attitude is no stimulus to that inner, artistic urge that every chorus girl has.

CHIVALRY FALLS

Miss Winifred Stark, another member of the company, said she was glad to get away from all that old world chivalry, announcing:

"We were always having our hands kissed."

Miss Stark added that this might be pleasant to the kisser, but apt to become quite boring to the kissee. Her summary was:

"It was sickening."

Miss Stark's chief objection to the attentiveness of European gentlemen is that "one suspects they are not very sincere." She believes:

"American men are more obvious."

Miss Joslyn said she liked the Englishmen better than the Frenchmen. As an endearing trait, however, she cited:

"The French are better spenders, though."

TITLES MEAN LITTLE

The chorines, about 12 in number, were members of a company which, during the Riviera season recently closed, played at the sporting club in Monte Carlo. The name of their show was a euphonious hybrid of English and French—"Les Girls."

Other observations of the European scene as viewed by a chorus girl:

Titles don't mean much over there.

Business conditions are fundamentally sound. And the girls chorused:

"Money flowed freely. It was very nice."

COLORADO, TOO, HAS COLONELS

DENVER, Col.—(INS.)—Eight "Colorado colonels" were recently appointed by Gov. Edward C. Johnson, who revived a custom unused for more than 20 years. Gov. Johnson created a personal staff with Neil Kimball, adjutant of the Colorado national guard, at its head.

The newly appointed colonels were chosen from men prominent in national and state affairs.

Three Washington men and one New Yorker and four Denverites make up the personnel of the new staff. They are: Renah F. Camalier, secretary to United States Senator Alva B. Adams; William (Wild Bill) Lyons, of the Postmaster General's staff; George Sanford Holmes, Washington correspondent; Simon E. Berg, of New York City; C. L. (Poss) Parsons, Denver sports writer; Russell Randall, head of a military school in Denver; Jacob L. Wolff, Denver businessman, and Paul P. Prosser, Attorney General of Colorado.

Colorado Traders Invite Roosevelt

DENVER.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt has been invited to spend next summer in Colorado and nearby states. The invitation, sent by the Chamber of Commerce, is said to have been prompted by rumors that the President was contemplating a western vacation.

Valedictorian

BETTY MARK

Miss Mark, Franklin co-ed and editor of the student newspaper, valedictorian of the class of 147 that Grove City College will graduate on June 13.

CUPID HELD AID TO COLLEGIANS

BOSTON.—(INS.)—Wedded life and scholastic achievements seem to go hand in hand at Boston University.

As outstanding examples there are Earl Kaller, of Long Island City, N. Y., and Clark S. Larsen, of Belmont.

Keller spent the first two years at B. U. as a bachelor, and then married. His school marks for the last two years are much improved. He said:

"I never have a chance to waste my time. The minute I let up on my studying, my wife is right behind me."

Dr. David D. Vaughan, of the school of theology faculty, is a champion of student marriage, provided there is sufficient financial background. More than two-thirds of the students in the theology school are married, and a special course in marriage adjustment is offered at the school. Dr. Vaughan, however, stressed the fact that there should be a good financial background. He said:

"There is much truth in the saying that when poverty enters the door love flies out of the window. Love is not enough; an adequate income also is necessary."

There are 12 married couples studying in the school of theology.

M'LEOD BILL OPPOSITION WEAKENS

By JOHN P. COWAN
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Opposition to the McLeod bank depositors' payoff bill weakened today when 82 signatures had been obtained to the petition for the discharge of the Rules Committee. Upon gaining 145 names the measure can be brought before the House of Representatives for a vote.

Many Representatives who have been out of town returned today and were ready to sign as soon as the House convenes.

Opponents of the measure among House majority leaders showed signs of throwing up the sponge, despite their efforts to hold their followers in line. Letters were written by Speaker Rainey and Majority Leader Byrns to first-term Democrats urging them to stand by their "accepted leaders."

This argument does not set well with members who are swamped by letters and telegrams from their constituents appealing to them to aid distraught bank depositors in their respective districts.

"FISHING" CONFERENCE

It was learned today that one of the baits held out to unsophisticated first-termers is an invitation to Former President Hoover's fishing camp on the Rapidan River, Virginia, for a "conference." The conference consists of a pleasant automobile ride, a day in the woods, a big feed at the mountain resort and a chance to sleep in luxrious beds, where Hoover used to entertain prime ministers as well as domestic bigwigs.

William M. Berlin, of the Westmoreland (Pa.) district, who is in Congress for the first time, is one of those who took in the glories of the Rapidan.

Yesterday when a number of Michigan, Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia Democratic members were asked to sign the petition they suddenly disappeared from the floor. It was learned later that a hurried "conference" had been called at the old Hoover camp and the invitation was irresistible. The greatest secrecy guarded the arrangements and the names of those who were whisked away could not be ascertained.

Pittsburgh Given Honorable Mention

Honorable mention in the 1933 inter-chamber of commerce conservation contest was given Pittsburgh, according to word received from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington. The public health committee of the chamber has received co-operation from the Department of Health, hospitals and 60 health-welfare organizations, it was announced at the chamber. The contest object does not determine "healthiest cities," but those with best balanced health progress.

Many Escape Death As Cornice Topples

Several pedestrians narrowly escaped death when a section of the cornice of the old Keystone Brewery in Carson street, near South Thirty-fourth street, fell to the sidewalk last night.

The stone fell shortly after several pedestrians passed by the building. Police roped off the pavement in front of the building and notified the City Building Inspectors.

Pay Bank Depositors

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS:

As an important help toward national recovery, the undersigned urge passage of the bill introduced by Representative McLeod, now before Congress, which provides for paying in full depositors of closed banks which belonged to the Federal Reserve System.

Toward this end we urge that the RFC make loan arrangements with the closed banks.

This procedure would give positive stimulus to business by converting frozen, idle and at present useless bank deposits into immediately available purchasing power.

PLAY HELD BOON TO CONCRETE

People now have more time for play, and they'd rather have their recreation at home than anywhere else, J. W. Lewis, of the Portland Cement Association, Chicago, told members of the Builders' Exchange here last night. He urged concrete contractors to make use of newspaper advertising in establishing a market for permanent play facilities in and around the home. He said:

"No better means has yet been discovered for starting the ball rolling. Concrete contractors can build tennis courts, paddle wheel courts, shuffle board courts, swimming pools, garden pools and basement recreation rooms which will far outclass other materials now used by many contractors."

Insurance Men Open Convention

More than 100 life insurance agents are attending the thirteenth annual sales congress of the Pittsburgh Life Underwriters' Association, which opened today in the William Penn Hotel.

E. C. Sparver, of the Reliance Life Insurance Company; Manuel Camps, Jr., of the Penn Mutual Insurance Company, and Dr. George V. Van Arsdall, of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of U. S., are the principal speakers. Lawrence C. Woods, Jr., is chairman of the program, which includes an address by Lowell Thomas.

JAIL CHEERS 3 IN BANK HOLDUP

PINE BLUFF, Ark., April 27.—(AP.)—Willing captives after trudging through miles of Arkansas swamp lands in a futile flight from posses, three men accused of robbing the Merchants and Farmers Bank of Dumas, Ark., rested in jail today.

J. O. Hiltibrand, 24, of Little Rock, one of the weary trio, said:

"We were ready to quit. I'll bet we walked 48 miles through those swamps."

Hiltibrand and his companions, William Cantrell, 18, of Harlan, Ky., and Thomas Richmond, 26, of Conway, Ark., were overtaken near here last night.

Officers said $815 of the $954 taken in the robbery was recovered from the trio. They were held for a hearing May 2 on bank robbery charges.

Mail Carrier Held On Forgery Charge

John Alvin Shelar, 40, mail carrier in Beaver Falls and World War veteran who was awarded a Croix de Guerre for distinguished military service overseas, today faced arraignment before the United States Commissioner. He is accused of forging and passing seven government checks, which were in letters he was alleged to have taken from mail pouches of other letter carriers.

M'LEOD TO TALK AT BILL RALLY IN NIXON

Demands on Congress to pass the McLeod bank pay-off bill grew today while arrangements were being completed for the noon mass meeting in support of the measure at the Nixon Theater next Wednesday.

Congressman Clarence J. McLeod, of Michigan, author of the bill that will free 25 million dollars frozen in closed Federal Reserve banks in Pennsylvania, will speak at the meeting.

Petitions to Congress asking passage of the measure have increased by hundreds daily while supporters in the House of Representatives battle for the life of the bill.

MEETING WEDNESDAY

The meeting at noon Wednesday is intended to consolidate the public support behind the proposal. An organization similar to groups formed in Detroit, Philadelphia and other cities will be set up to press for legislative relief for millions of depositors whose funds are tied up in closed banks.

Congressmen supporting the bill hope to bring it out of committee for a vote in the House on May 14. If a sufficient number of Representatives sign the petition to force the measure out of committee. Congressional leaders say the bill will be approved.

BROOKS HAS NOT SIGNED

Representative J. Twing Brooks, of Sewickley, thus far has been the lone Allegheny County Congressman who has not signed the petition to save the McLeod bill from defeat.

The number of petitions sent directly to the Sun-Telegraph urging enactment of the McLeod bill total 4,886, with other thousands sent directly to Washington from this district.

A large number of those who sent these petitions were expected to attend the mass meeting Wednesday. Representation from throughout the tri-state district was sought in order to form an organization representing Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

Maj. E. Lowry Humes will preside at the meeting and Congressman Clyde Kelly, of Allegheny County, will introduce Congressman McLeod. The author of the bank pay-off legislation, in addition to his address at the mass meeting, will speak on the Sun-Telegraph Globe Trotter program at 2:15 p. m. and will make a second radio address over Station WCAE at 6:15 p. m. Wednesday.

Maj. Humes will present the plan for formation of a league to work actively in behalf of the legislation. Congressman McLeod urged organization of public groups supporting the bill in order to insure legislative action at this session of Congress.

Tricked Into Vain Work for Parole

ERIE, April 27.—(AP.)—"Slim" Young, the best window washer ever imprisoned in the county jail, was mumbling incoherently last night as he left his cell on parole.

Warden Matt Hess, it seems, told "Slim" he could have a parole if he would wash all the county prison windows. Young worked like wildfire to get the job done, and then someone let the news out that the parole already had been granted.

BOOKS REVEAL DOPE USERS

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Three red books, allegedly containing the names of scores of prominent Broadway habitues addicted to narcotics were in possession of federal agents today as the result of the arrest of a White Way drug peddler.

The suspected drug vendor, released two months ago from Atlanta Penitentiary, and a comely former showgirl were seized in connection with the drive of federal agents to stamp out the influx into New York of "white house" herion.

Narcotic Agents Robert Primrose and Charles Lightner declared that the three books listed at least a dozen theatrical celebrities and more than 60 lesser know personalities of stage, screen and night life.

Those arrested are Kitty Lawrence, 30, who once graced the front ranks of musical comedy choruses, and Johnny (Flippy) Mancuso, 30.

ANGLER FISHES IN ALL SEAS

CHICAGO.—(Universal.)—Have you ever seen a fish fishing?

Alfred C. Weed, assistant curator of fishes at the Field Museum of Natural History here, says angler fishes are found in all seas. He added:

"They have the Eskimo plan of fishing, rather than that of the white man. The Eskimo moves a piece of ivory in the water and when a trout comes to strike, he strikes with his spear.

"The angler fish have on their heads a slender rod with a fleshy tip which is used as bait.

"The angler fish waves its bait like a flag, and when some small fish or crab comes to strike at it, the angler opens its huge mouth and swallows the fish."

RELIEF STOPS FARM RIOTS

DES MOINES, Ia.—(INS.)—Farm foreclosure riots, at which irate farmers forcibly halted foreclosure sales over a period of six months during the worst of the depression, have almost entirely ceased in the midwest but occasionally a "penny auction" is staged.

Loosening of federal credit and foreclosure moratorium laws passed by several states have almost entirely halted foreclosures for the time being.

Farmers who were head-over-heels in debt under heavy mortgages have been given a breathing spell by concerted federal and state relief.

Junior Patrol

If you don't belong to a Junior Patrol club in your neighborhood already, fellows, try to join one. Or better still, start one of your own!

The Junior Patrol was organized in the first place to help others. We can all help others better when we work together. When you are thinking of helping others, a patrol should go to work just like a good baseball team. Every member should do his share and help all he can.

You know what team play means. No matter what the game is, you can't have just half the team playing ball and win the game. Every player has to be good. That's the way we would like to have every Junior Patrol club.

Another big advantage in belonging to a patrol is the fun you have in a gang together. It takes more than two or three to play a good game of almost anything. And even if you are playing a game like tennis or checkers or almost anything it's more fun if you can play a "round robin." That means that you play with every other fellow at least once.

From time to time here in the Mail Box we are going to keep on suggesting interesting things for Junior Patrol members to do. Your patrol meeting programs should be lots of fun after your business meeting is over.

The girls, for instance, can give a doll show. Every girl can bring her biggest and prettiest doll to the meeting, and then you can all dress them for a big doll party, making all the dresses yourselves. The boys can try their hand at soap carving or at making kites.

FILE TEST SUIT OVER COUNTY WORKS LOAN

Constitutionality of the legislative act creating the Allegheny County Authority was challenged today in a friendly test suit filed with the Pennsylvania Supreme Court here.

The suit was filed by Attorney Clarence Nixon on behalf of Henry Tranter, businessman, acting as a taxpayer of the city and county.

Tranter's purpose, it was said, was to expedite a ruling on the constitutionality of the Allegheny County Authority so that Administrator Harold L. Ickes, of the Public Works Administration at Washington, can reach a decision on the county's application for a $30,000,000 loan to carry out a public workst program.

The loan was to have been repaid to the federal government from tolls collected from the improvements over a period of 30 years.

Simultaneous with the filing of the suit, the county filed an answer admiting the allegations of fact but denying the conclusions of law.

The suit contends that unless the court intervenes the debt of the County of Allegheny, incurred without the consent of the electors, will be increased to an amount in excess of 2 per cent of the assessed valuation of the county's taxable property.

It also contends that property, public works and improvements of the county and city will be pledged for the payment of the debts of the Allegheny County Authority and that in the event of a default a representative of the Public Works Administration at Washington may take possession of said property.

The Allegheny County Authority was created by an act of the General Assembly at the extraordinary session in 1933. Members are Joseph C. Trees, oil man; William McK. Reed, banker, and Press C. Dowler, architect.

THIRD IDENTITY FACES SUSPECT

CHICAGO, April 27.—Allen R. Hammel, Brinks Express guard with the dual personality, who is charged with walking away from an armored truck with $39,000 last December, became a triple personality today when Columbus (O.) police identified him as a former member of the force.

Columbus police forwarded a photograph of Hammel in uniform, supporting their contention he was a policeman there until 1918, under the name of Robert Lee Hammel.

Hammel, who maintained through hours of cross-examination that he is Burt Armstrong, New York real estate and renting agent, has a tattoo mark on his left arm, also cited by Columbus police as identification of their former co-worker.

5 IN AUTO BEAT BROTHERS

Five occupants of an automobile, two of them girls, were being sought by Sewickley police today for an attack upon two Sewickley Heights brothers following a near-accident on the Sewickley-Glenfield road early today.

Chris and Neil Mulcahy told Sewickley police they were en route home in their car when the other auto forced them off the road. Occupants of both cars alighted and the brothers said they were beaten and kicked by the men. The assailants then drove away, the Mulcahy's reported.

The victims secured the license number of the auto. Police said the plates had been issued to an Erie man.

The way tobacco is cut has a lot to do with the way Chesterfield burns and tastes

There are many different ways of cutting tobacco.

A long time ago, it used to be cut on what was known as a Pease Cutter, but this darkened the tobacco, and it was not uniform.

The cutters today are the most improved, modern, up-to-the-minute type. They cut uniformly, and cut in long shreds.

The tobacco in Chesterfield is cut right—you can judge for yourself how Chesterfields burn and how they taste.

LABOR BOSS SCOFFS AT FASCISM IN ENGLAND

LEADERSHIP OF MOSLEY IN BRITAIN HELD TO BE BIGGEST HANDICAP

(Editor's Note—"Mosley isn't the man to put Fascism across in Great Britain," Herbert Morrison, boss of the Labor Party, and Mosley's strongest opponent, tells H. R. Knickerbocker in the fifth article of the series on the British Blackshirts.

While admitting that it is hazardous to make cocksure predictions regarding Fascism in light of what happened in Germany, Morrison tells Knickerbocker he is sure that Fascism will not gain control. He believes the Labor Party will step into power. And Morrison, writes Knickerbocker, is likely to be the next Labor prime minister.)

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

International News Service.
(Copyright, 1934, by International News Service. Reproduction in whole or part forbidden).

LONDON, April 27.—"It is risky to make cocksure predictions about Fascism after the example of what happened in Germany," declares the Number One Labor Party enemy of Sir Oswald Mosley, Number One British Fascist.

The Number One Labor Party enemy of Fascism is Herbert Morrison. Morrison is the boss of London's Labor Party. He is the man who for the first time in history won control of the London County Council for Labor. As its boss he has the welfare of 4,397,000 Londoners in his hands, has 72,000 employes, spends $200,000,000 a year, and controls a territory larger than Denmark or Switzerland.

His probity, energy and brains have put him in front of the field to become the next Labor Prime Minister. He and his party have most to lose if Fascism were to come in Britain. He is the one man in the Labor Party who is credited by friend and foe with the courage to put over a real Socialist program if Labor were to win a majority in the next Parliamentary elections.

ARCH FOE OF FASCISTS

The Fascists would crush him if they came to power. He would crush them if he came to power.

Many people in Britain are cocksure about Fascism in Britain. They call it out of the question. Mr. Morrison is not that certain. So much depends on events in two fields, in politics and in economics, he observed, filling his pipe and sitting forward in the big chair in front of the huge desk in the middle of the enormous room of the London County Council. He said:

"I shall be cautious in prophecy, but at the present moment I do not believe that the Mosley movement needs to be taken too seriously, although it has its significance. Some of our people are quite panicky—well no, not panicky, but alarmed and think the Fascist danger very real.

"On the whole, however, I consider that if we pay too much attention to the Fascist movement in Britain we merely increase the danger by advertising it, although its hopeless economics should be exposed.

LACKS STAYING POWER

The little boss of London took a pull at his pipe. His accent was pungently cockney. His phrases were crisp. He wore black horn-rimmed spectacles but there was an air of outdoors about him. His hair looked windblown.

"Mosley hasn't the staying power. He has been in too many movements, taking up first one thing and then another and tiring of them and dropping them. He would make a better film star than a politician.

"Then, too, I don't think the British are the proper customers for black shirts and stiff arm salutes and all that sort of thing. We have no appetite for that. I know that Mosley is a great speaker. I know he is being supported by Lord Rothermere, but in this country that can be a political drawback.

"I admit Mosley can get a meeting. But don't forget that at those meetings of his a great many people come out of sheer curiosity. He is good at advertising and furthermore if its necessary he will bring whole carloads of his people from London or from one place to another to help fill a hall.

COMMUNISM ALWAYS FACTOR

"But fundamentally I don't think Fascism is coming in this country for the following reasons: Whenever Fascism has yet come on the continent it has come in the main associated with the real or fancied menace of Communism. In Germany the Communist movement preceded the Fascist movement, but in part as a consequence of the Communist movement the Fascist movement grew up and for a long time the growth of the two movements paralleled each other until finally the Fascists outstripped the Communists and took the power.

"The struggle in Germany was plainly a race to see which would get power first, the Communists or the Fascists, with the middle-class largely as arbiters.

"The Italian experience was similar. The Communists were not as a party such a clear threat as in Germany, but the Communist tendency was there. The workers had seized factories and the middle-class was panic-stricken and begging for somebody to come along and bring order. Mussolini did it.

"In Hungary, of course, the Fascist regime now in power—a modified form of Fascism—took over as a reaction to the Bela Kun Communist regime engineered from Moscow. Austria is a special case. She had been a football of the Great Powers, but her Fascism came as a direct consequence of economic decay, political weakness and the Fascism in Germany which in turn proceeded from the Communist threat. We have not such threat in Britain.

ECONOMIC COLLAPSE NEEDED

"The next condition necessary for bringing about Fascism is a state of economic collapse. You've got to have the business of the country in such a mess that the middle-class says 'anything to deliver us' and then may turn to Fascism. Just as when the workers get desperate they may turn to Communism. Remember that Labor here has some middle-class support, and we must get more.

"Finally in order to have Fascism you've got to have the collapse of government. If the present inclination towards economic recovery should stop and the country should sink back into an economic crisis even worse than we have had, and that coincided with a weak and brainless leadership on the part of the Labor party if we were in power, that could make the danger of Fascism very real. But I don't agree for a moment with Mosley when he says that the parliamentary system in this country has already failed and that the country holds it in contempt. That has not happened."

I suggested:

"But Mr. Morrison, the argument of the Fascists now is that the Left Wing of the Labor Party is the menace that will bring about Fascism—in other words that you will play the role of the Communists in this respect."

LABOR LEADERS CONFIDENT

Mr. Morrison replied quietly:

"That is not true. It might very well be true if we went about our business in such a way as to alarm the country. If we set out to make a panic, we can make one. If we set out to scare the country into Fascism, I suppose we could do it.

"I know there are some who hold the theory that the moment we take office with a majority in Parliament we would have to pass in the first 24 hours special enabling acts to enable us to deal with panic and financial collapse.

"But this is not the way we are going to do it. We have reason to expect the loyal support of the nation's armed forces: The army, navy and police who have always been loyal to a constitutionally established government which was prepared to govern.

"In the second place we shall not permit the Fascists to reach such a point of organization, much less of arming, that they will be any danger to our government. In the third place we shall convince the country that Socialism is just plain good business.

OUTLINES SOCIALIST PROGRAM

"You know in this country we Socialists do not propose to expropriate the capitalists without compensation, nor do we expect to do it over night. We shall, I hope, go about it steadily but with all possible speed, and with compensation to the former owners of the means of production. The working classes of Britain are with us on that. I suppose it is because they have a certain sense of fair play and are thinking of the pound or so that they have saved.

"At any rate they are willing that the capitalists shall be compensated. And we shall go about it constructively with good sense, socializing industry after industry in an expedient order."

He paused, and I asked:

"Do you really think that labor will get a majority in the next election, say if it comes after the life of this Parliament in two years' time?"

He replied, reflectively:

"It is quite possible. As Parliament now stands it takes 308 seats to have a majority. Well, in 1929 we had 288 seats. So we only lacked 20 seats. We may get those in the next election.

"If we don't get a majority it is very possible that we shall refuse to form a government. We would remain in opposition and after a year there would likely be another election when we'd probably win.

COUNTRY TURNS TO TORIES

"But on the whole when this country is in trouble and people are feeling frightened, the mid-middle-class turns to the Tories. Not to Fascists. They have always done so in the past and they probably will do it in the future. So if the economic depression should get worse and the middle-class gets panicky, they will call on the Tories again and Mr. Mosley will not be their Messiah."

Then I asked:

"How about the danger of other kinds of Fascism than that of Mosley? How about the top-hat Fascism that some people call the policies of Mr. Walter Elliot?"

The question, like the one put to Mosley, related to the program of the Minister of Agriculture outlining a planned national economy, Mr. Morrison replied:

"In the first place, I am not convinced that Elliot's policies are Fascist. It seems to me to be a mistake to lump together all attempts to bring about some sort of national planning and call it Fascism. Fascism isn't planning. It is an economic failure wherever tried.

"In the second place those people would have no more chance than Mosley to resist the legal government of a legally elected Labor Party. You may be sure of one thing, that if we are elected by a majority we shall stand for not the faintest shadow of illegal resistance.

RUTHLESSNESS PLEDGED

"We shall be ruthless in the execution of the law. We shall not follow the example of the Republicans in Germany, who let power fall from their hands without a struggle. We shall not permit, as they did, the persistence in positions of power of persons openly and avowedly hostile to the constituted government.

"You can take this much as certain: That if the Fascists are reckoning on the Labor Party repeating the role of the Republicans in Germany the Fascists are going to be bitterly disappointed.

"But there is no reason for any anticipation that the capitalists will resist us by force of arms. I have had experience with many capitalists. There are I admit, some capitalists, who are downright fools and there is no use arguing with them.

"But there are others who are absorbed in the business of management, are good managers and they are quite open to the argument: Why don't you quit working for this mass of anonymous and greedy stockholders and go to work for the state!

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I just received an answer from the United States Department of Commerce relative to Admiral Byrd and Little America. Sometime ago I was asked whether the land at the South Pole was claimed for the United States of America.

The letter tells that on January 16, 1929, after a flight to 50 miles southwest of the Scott Nunataks, a range of mountains rising over 2,000 feet was discovered and named Rockefeller Range. A further flight on February 19, disclosed more mountains to the east of Rockefeller Range and outside of the Ross Dependency. This region was claimed for the United States and named Marie Byrd Land. This area lies directly east of the Ross Dependency and east of the one hundred and fiftieth Meridian West from Greenwich.

This answers the question all right, but if you are planning a visit don't rely on the above directions. Better take the admiral along for a guide.

Mrs. J. A., Vickroy street, says that she and other mothers living on the Bluff are becoming nervous wrecks because the children, who like roller skating, have no place to exercise their favorite pastime except on automobile used streets. She fears that a tragedy will result if something isn't done to safeguard the Bluff children's lives.

I'll gladly work out a plan with the city if mothers on the Bluff will tell me what streets suitable for roller skating could be set aside for the children without interfering with the movement of traffic out of the city.

HIGHLIGHTS ON AIR

Irene Beasley Bows With Phil Baker

Lovelorn Pleas Puzzle To Editors and Stations

By AIRCASTER

This job of heart-mending by radio may have its compensations, but I wouldn't care particularly to become involved in the human puzzles that it represents.

For instance if I were charged with untangling the people who are forever performing emotional acrobatics, I would be stumped by the problem that a male "Beatrice Fairfax" is faced with today.

As a sort of father confessor to his fans, he is bound to secrecy. Yet, this seal of silence only serves to make this present dilema more acute.

There is an 18-year-old boy to deal with. He is a murderer. He confessed it in a letter. He admitted that he still has the weapon with which the killing was done. Yet, in a penitentiary in his native state, another boy, his pal, is doing a long, long stretch for the crime.

No suspicion hitherto, has been directed to the actual slayer. But the young killer can't sleep nights for thinking of his victim, and the innocent lad behind the bars. He's afraid to go to the police, because he knows it means a life in jail.

In a nutshell, he wants the other boy freed, but does not want to incriminate himself.

So he asks the radio to tell him what to do.

GATE CRASHERS

Arthur La Tour is custodian of the theater which is called the Columbia Playhouse, and in which many of the major broadcasts originate. He has an interesting story to tell—of gate crashing.

You've no idea of the subterfuges which a public eager to see the radio stars in action will resort to, if they lack tickets of admission.

The favorite trick of the bolder crashers is to represent themselves as radio writers, or newspaper people.

Another device by the ambitious One-Eyed Connelleys is to obtain a musical instrument case and walk in as if the crasher were a musician.

Two youngsters recently spent the night in a washroom, to insure witnessing a broadcast the next day.

FRANK & SEDER BIRTHDAY

DEFENSE RALLY TO HEAR PLEA OF NOTABLES

A plea for adequate national defense to protect this nation during an emergency will be voiced tonight by several prominent speakers at the national defense rally to be held in Carnegie Music Hall.

More than two score patriotic organizations are participating in the meeting which is being held by the Allegheny County American Legion Auxiliary.

The rally also marks the anniversary of the birth of President U. S. Grant. Flags were to be displayed today in honor of the occasion.

The speakers at the meeting tonight were to be Princess Cantacuzene-Speransky, granddaughter of President Grant; Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, Mrs. Frank B. Emery, state chairman of the national defense committee of the American Legion Auxiliary; Brig. Gen. Churchill B. Mehard and Col. Eric Fisher Wood.

The Princess arrived in Pittsburgh last night. At noon today she was entertained at a luncheon in the Twentieth Century Club by Mrs. John Brown Heron, and later attended a tea at the Woman's Civic Club in the William Penn Hotel. The tea was arranged in her honor by the Allegheny County Council, American Legion.

Gen. Reilly arrived this morning and was greeted by Maj. J. O. Corbett and Col. W. R. Dunlap. He visited the City County Building to meet several officials and during the afternoon appeared with the Sun-Telegraph Globe-Trotter in a radio address over station WCAE.

Col. Wood was to open the meeting tonight, which will be followed by the invocation by the Rev. Grover E. Swoyer. Mrs. Emery was to extend the greetings of the auxiliary.

Gen. Reilly, of the Officers' Reserve Corps, was to discuss why America cannot obtain the peace it wants through disarmament.

Princess Cantacuzene-Speransky was to speak on the "Woman's Place in National Defense," and Gen. Mehard was to speak on military preparedness.

Mrs. Hubert W. Chapman, of Pittsburgh, is co-chairman in charge of the Allegheny County Legion Auxiliary, National Defense Committee.

Mrs. Chapman and her aides in charge of the arrangements stated that a large crowd is expected to attend the gathering here, which is similar to one held recently in Philadelphia. At the Philadelphia meeting it was said that more than 1,500 persons were present.

BRADDOCK FOES IN LEGAL FIGHT

Councilman Edward McDonough, of Braddock, will be given a hearing before Alderman Jacob G. Michaels, of 2401 Sawmill Run Boulevard, Monday night on charges of felonious assault and battery and surety of the peace preferred by Michael J. Verosky, deposed borough political boss.

The charges are said to be the aftermath of a fight last January in the washroom of a Braddock club.

Verosky was said to have been found on the floor, his face battered and bruised after McDonough emerged. Neither admitted fighting, their friends said.

Patrolman Joseph McLaughlin, a McDonough adherent, posted $500 bond after Andrew Melenick, a former Braddock patrolman, had filed an information against him. Melenick alleged McLaughlin struck him in the face Monday night. McLaughlin will be arraigned Wednesday night on an assault and battery charge.

PETITION AGAINST PARTICIPATION In the LEAGUE of NATIONS and World Court

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition:

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign entanglements," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

Vets' Ladies Auxiliary Fights Entry in League

16 Petitions Swell Protest Against Adherence

Sixteen petitions, each filled with names of local women, have been sent to the Sun-Telegraph by the Allegheny County Council, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The petitions protest the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations and the World Court. Many other petitions are still being circulated by the members of the local auxiliary.

The petitions, bearing more than 600 names, were sent in to the Sun-Telegraph by Mrs. Amelia C. Kane, secretary of the Allegheny County Council. In an accompanying letter Mrs. Kane said:

"Enclosed are 16 petitions with 608 signers from the Allegheny Council, Ladies' Auxiliaries to the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. We sincerely hope that the 600 names of veterans, their families and friends we are submitting, will go a long way toward keeping our nation out of foreign entanglements, which might plunge us into another war."

Adjt. Ross E. Kneisley, of American Legion Post 474, Jeffersonville, O., wrote to the Sun-Telegraph yesterday requesting 50 petitions which he and his comrades plan to circulate in Jeffersonville, and Adjt. S. Cruikshank, of the American Legion Post No. 505, Curwensville, Pa., also requested petitions be sent to him for circulation.

Scores of individuals in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania still have petitions which they are circulating among their friends and neighbors. These volunteer workers are obtaining hundreds of signatures daily in their respective communities.

You may become a volunteer worker also. All that is necessary is to obtain petitions from the League Court Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, and present them to your freinds for signatures. Petitions are still available for any person who wishes to join this patriotic duty to help keep this country out of any foreign entanglement.

Boys! Girls! Here Is Some Great News: Prize Motto Trips Changed for Your Benefit!

By J. JAMES MOORE, Pittsburgh Wing Commander.

Greetings, Junior Birdmen. Here is some dandy news for you. So many members have been writing me that they feared, should they be a lucky winner in our motto contest, that their parents would not permit them to accept an air trip to Washington, D. C., or the grand prize of an air trip from coast-to-coast, that I have decided to make a radical change in your favor. I have cancelled the air trips and in their place we offer the same prize trips by fast limited Pullman train.

You know, members, I told you some columns ago that this is your organization and we will do just about anything that you say. And so when these many letters arrived, I decided it was best to be guided by your own wishes.

Of course, this will enhance the trips a great deal, for you will be taken on the finest trains in the country, traveling in luxurious Pullman cars and having your meals in the spacious diners with the unexcelled service that all Pullman dining cars give you.

This sure must be a good bit of news, for now everyone of you members, and applicants for memberships, can send your mottoes right along and be assured that you will be able to accept the prize if you are a lucky one.

National Winner to Travel By Train

Of course, it really only takes a few hours more by train than it would by plane from Pittsburgh headquarters of the Junior Birdmen to the hotel in Washington. So you four members who make the local trip will have the advantage of comfort without losing much time.

However, we will have to extend the grand prize, a coast-to-coast trip, from seven days to about 10. And that will be a real vacation treat, for, remember, this trip will be made starting early in July when school is closed. You will have no home work worries.

While I have not as yet laid out the new itinerary for this thrilling transcontinental trip, the lucky boy or girl will leave New York if he or she should be an eastern member, on the famous Twentieth Century Limited. A full day's stay in Chicago with a tour at the World's Fair and sightseeing around this great mid-western metropolis as the guest of our Chicago wing, is, of course, included in the program. The winner will then leave Chicago by another fast limited Pullman train for San Francisco, where he, or she, will be feted by our Junior Birdmen wing in that city. After a two days' stay the trip back home will be started.

I will give you the complete details of this unusual coast-to-coast trip in just a few days. In the meantime, be sure you send in your mottoes. Remember, you have only until Monday midnight to get them in the mail. That really doesn't give you much time.

Aviation Dictionary Number 3

Here is the third list in our series of aviation definitions. You will find several terms in today's list that are familiar, and others that are new. Be sure you study them all and clip them out for your scrap book.

Air Base—A landing field for airships and planes. It is usually differentiated from an airport or an airfield in that it refers to a temporary field constructed for expeditionary flights, such as the air base at Little America, built by Rear Armiral Byrd for his South Pole flight adventures.

Aircraft — Any weight-carrying device designed to be supported by the air, either by buoyancy or by dynamic action.

Aircraft Carrier—A boat or ship designed to carry aircraft and to permit their landing and take-off on open deck runway.

Air Duct—A tube, usually of fabric, supplying air for filling or for maintaining pressure in the air-filled parts of a balloon, blimp or other aerostat.

Airdrome—A landing or field for aircraft in England. In the United States we refer to them as airports or airfields.

Airfield—A locality on land used for the taking off and landing of aircraft. It also usually has facilities for shelter, a supply shop, repair hangar and a place for receiving and discharging passengers and cargoes to and from planes.

Airfoil—Any surface, such as an airplane wing, aileron, or rudder, designed to obtain reaction from the air through which it moves.

Airleak—The leakage of air from the intake manifold. This is usually due to improper packing around the manifold. The result is loss of power.

On Monday I will have the fourth list of definitions, including such terms as airline, air-minded and airplanes.

Happy Landings!

Don't forget those friends of yours you were going to tell about our Junior Birdmen. And don't forget to make preparations for the organizing of your own flight squadron! We will inaugurate this feature on May 7, and that isn't far off.

Happy cruising until tomorrow —AND HAPPY LANDINGS!

STUDENTS SCAN CONSTITUTION FOR FLAWS

Delegations from several Pittsburgh colleges and universities were in Harrisburg today, attending the intercollegiate constitutional convention, in session there today, tomorrow and Sunday. The University of Pittsburgh, Duquesne University, Carnegie Institute of Technology and Mt. Mercy College for Women were among the institutions which sent delegations to study revision of the 60-year-old Pennsylvania Constitution.

Pitt sent a delegation of more than a score, headed by John Bracken, who was chairman of the state committee arranging the convention. Duquesne University sent 15 students led by Edward J. Waldman, editor of the Duquesne Duke. According to Bracken, more than 30 colleges and universities were to be represented.

The Duquesne University group was prepared to advocate six important changes. The students would institute a state income tax, local home rule as to the form and structure of county government, a provision permitting the Governor to succeed himself, an easier and more workable amending process and other changes.

Views on Revision Due In Three-Day Session

HARRISBURG, April 27.—(AP.)—Students from 34 colleges and universities are bringing to the state capital their viewpoints on revision of Pennsylvania's constitution.

Gov. Pinchot may speak briefly at the three-day session of the intercollegiate constitutional convention, and Richard J. Beamish, secretary of the commonwealth, will explain his proposal to reduce the voting age to 19.

Beamish argues that opening of the franchise to youth will put youthful idealism into practical use in selecting officeholders.

Public meetings and committee conferences will be held.

Committees were to be named to meet late today with these chairmen:

Bill of rights and amending process, Dixon Herman, Bucknell; executive, H. Frank Petit, Swarthmore; Legislature, Ruth Sherman, Lock Haven Teachers' College; judiciary, Gilbert Cuneo, St. Vincent; elections and popular government, Robert F. Taft, University of Pennsylvania; taxation and finance, Richard Abbott, the Pennsylvania State College; local government, Edward A. Tappe, Duquesne; public welfare and social problems, Irving Zipin, Temple; education, V. Kovacs, California Teachers.

Jacob Tanger, of State College, and John H. Fertig, director of the Legislative Reference Bureau, are technical advisors for the conference.

DIES IN CHAIR DENYING GUILT

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., April 27.—(AP.)—Charlie Outlaw, 60-year-old gray-locked grandfather, early today paid with his life in the electric chair for the ruthless hammer slaying of Mrs. Frank McCall, 58, a neighbor woman, in January, 1933.

The bent old man, peering at the small group in the death cell, walked to the chair steadily.

Before he took his place in the chair, Outlaw turned to Warden W. W. Waid and said:

"I'm too old a man to die with a lie on my lips, warden. I didn't do it."

Outlaw also was accused of beating Mrs. McCall's invalid husband, her crippled mother and her little daughter. McCall died later.

Mine Boss Killed As Auto Overturns

GREENSBURG, April 27.—(AP.)—His automobile skidding and overturning, Ambrose Akey, 45, superintendent of the Salemville mine of the Keystone Coal and Coke Company, was injured fatally last night.

The accident occurred on the William Penn highway near the Five Points road east of Greensburg.

NAZIS REJECT SOVIET PACT

MOSCOW, April 27.—(AP.)—The rejection by Nazi Germany of a proposal to join with Communistic Russia in guaranteeing "independence and inviolability" of the Baltic countries, as revealed in an official Soviet communique, was the center of interest in diplomatic circles here today.

The communique, issued last night by Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff, revealed that the German government replied to Soviet overtures with a statement that the proposal "was lacking in political sense."

The German reply held that there was an inference that the independence of the Baltic countries would be endangered by one side or the other, and assured the Soviet Union that the Nazi government had no such fears.

SCHOOL DISTRICT MERGERS URGED BY DR. RULE

Would Aid System, Cut Tax Costs, Chief Says

The critical situation which confronts the Pennsylvania public schools today can be relieved to a great extent by reorganization of the 2,200 fourth class school districts in the state, Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of the State Department of Public Instruction declared during his visit here yesterday. Reorganization and consolidation of a number of the districts would go far as an economy measure, the state school head said.

Dr. Rule spoke before educational leaders gathered in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, the meeting being part of the observance of the hundredth anniversary of the founding of Pennsylvania's public school system. At present there is a committee of educators, working under Dr. Rule, making a complete investigation on the proposed consolidation and reorganization of the smaller school districts of the state.

Dr. Rule assailed the high cost of collecting taxes in the fourth class school districts, stating that this cost amounted to $3.10 out of every $100 collected against the cost of 19 cents for collecting the same amount in the city of Pittsburgh.

Commenting on the seriousness of school finances, Dr. Rule said:

"With the failure of realty taxes, the supports of public education are being rapidly washed out with a threatened collapse of schools in many districts next year and in the years that lie ahead, unless new sources of revenue are found."

The committe working under Dr. Rule hopes to have a concrete program on consolidation for the next session of the Legislature. The State Education Association also recently went on record urging merger of school districts in the interest of economy. For more than two years officials of the State Department of Public Instruction have looked with favor on elimination of the small school district. It has been proposed that the 2,587 districts in the state be cut to 500.

Consolidations of districts, officials point out, would mean an immediate savings of from 10 to 20 per cent in non-instructional costs, through elimination of more than three-fourths of the school board treasurers, secretaries, solicitors, auditors and tax collectors, all of whom are now paid out of school tax collections.

Such consolidatio, as has been advocated for the last several years would provide for the establishment of a more efficient budgetary control of school costs and would make possible the removal of artificial barriers set up by the small district boundary lines, with assignment of pupils to schools nearest their homes, educators say.

Glick Moves to Annex Patterson's Votes

By MARK SHIELDS

Retirement of Judge Marion D. Patterson, of Blair County, as a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination has put a different complexion on the primary situation in Western Pennsylvania counties.

Mr. Shields

This is especially true because of a statement by the Patterson campaign manager, Peter Glick, of Pittsburgh, indorsing Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon, and asking the farmer friends of the Blair County jurist to vote for him.

Judge Patterson had not created a ripple in Allegheny County.

He had accomplished little in Philadelphia, and was not a factor actually when he failed to secure support of the state organization.

But he has a backing of farmers and Grange officials, potent in politics, which would have brought him a substantial vote at least in this end of the state.

Now, if that vote turns to Gen. Shannon, or if he secures only an appreciable portion, it cannot help but build him up because it means strength in a circle in which he was deficient.

Gen. Shannon has finally come to a realization of a condition which is overlooked by most statewide candidates, including those now running.

It is that west of the Allegheny Mountains is the place where campaigns have been decided the last few years.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot always realized that, though some of his managers could never see beyond Philadelphia, where the Governor always lost.

A campaign such as Gen. Shannon must make, attacking the "vested interests," clicks in this section, and Gen. Shannon is beginning to appeal for it. He is doing so by words, rather than actual presence, of course.

He was secretary of labor and industry in the cabinet of former Gov. John S. Fisher and was placed there through the influence of the same elements now backing Attorney General William A. Schnader for the gubernatorial nomination. But he has bucked clear off the reservation, being especially bitter in his attacks upon the Mellons.

* * *

Slaps Schnader's Big Business Affiliations

A few nights ago in Altoona, before Judge Patterson had withdrawn, Mr. Glick made a speech and he said this:

"We are told Attorney General Schnader has the stamp of approval of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia's great magnates—Mellon and Vare. Are these gentlemen for Schnader because he has the qualifications for the office? No, they favor him only because he was able to buy a pot of gold with which to buy votes."

"There is no aluminum kettle of gold nor a beer keg of silver to help Judge Patterson."

Now, that is strong language, even from Robert Gray Taylor, running for the senatorial nomination on a platform of everybody is wrong.

Coming from Mr. Glick, whose brother has been doing the pioneering work for Mr. Schnader in this district, it becomes something sensational, and it is causing plenty of unchurchmanlike language within the Mellon circle.

The position of Senator Coyne continues to be a thorn in the side of the local Schnader committee.

If some managers had their way they would boot the Senator far into the night. Others would keep him in the background. Still others say keep him, for there has developed a situation where there isn't much of anything else.

It is no secret that the Schnader head men in this county feel the situation is bad, and that the status of the various factions was misrepresented.

They were under the impression that the independent Republicans would all go with the Attorney General, though he made no effort to determine that for himself. Some friends of the Attorney General, though they had been told otherwise, felt the independents here would rally to him because he had a Pinchot stamp.

But he never wore that stamp publicly, and in fact indicated he did not want to be known as the Pinchot candidate, though his advisers were jubilant to have him labeled as Mellon-Vare-Grundy.

* * *

Campaigner Shivers, Lacking Coal Money

The cold facts of the case are that the Schnader candidacy here is in pitiable shape at the moment, a condition which is in no manner attributable to William B. McFall, chairman, or other gentlemen who have recently stepped into the picture.

They were handed a political toadstool by representations that it was a mushroom.

Yesterday shortly before noon the sole tenant of the big room was a young man who appeared not to have reached voting age.

Presumably he was picked to stand guard because he had never had the opportunity of voting for Senator Coyne or some candidate backed by him, and thus could not be infected.

The young man shivered in a building which was without heat.

He shivered until well into the afternoon, and then he got orders to leave and lock the door on the headquarters of a candidate assumedly backed by all the money in the state.

The managers were without the ready funds to buy a few tons of coal.

Dickens' Pauperism Dismayed 'Fiancee,' Novel Revealed

Author's Letters Tell of Invitation From Father Who Rejected Him, Which Was Cordially Declined

Intimate light on the romance of Charles Dickens and Maria Beadnell, as provided in the novelist's self-revelations in his world-famous novel, "David Copperfield," were presented in yesterday's installment. Further evidence of the parallel between the real life of Dickens and Maria and the fictional life of David and Dora in "David Copperfield" are contained in the accompanying installment.

By H. H. HARPER

TWENTY years before, Dickens and Maria had agreed to do the same, but Mr. Beadnell had discovered it and she was sent away to Paris.

And later when David found it necessary to go to Dora with the story of his straightened circumstances there is another picture of Maria Beadnell's manner in the following:

"Dora came to the drawing room door to meet me; and Jip came scrambling out tumbling over his own growls under the impression that I was a Bandit, and we all three went in as happy and loving as could be. I soon carried desolation into the bosom of our joys—not that I meant to do it, but that I was so full of the subject—by asking Dora without the smallest preparation if she could love a beggar?

"My pretty little startled Dora! Her only association with the word was a yellow face and a nightcap, or a pair of crutches, or a wooden leg, or a dog with a decanter-stand in his mouth or something of that kind; and she stared at me with the most delightful wonder.

"'How can you ask me anything so foolish?' pouted Dora. 'Love a beggar!'

"'Dora, my own dearest!' said I, 'I am a beggar!'

"'How can you be such a silly thing?' replied Dora, slapping my hand, 'as to sit there, telling such stories? I'll make Jip bite you.'

"Her childish way was the most delicious way in the world to me, but it was necessary to be explicit, and I solemnly repeated: 'Dora, my own life, I am your ruined David!'

"'I declare I'll make Jip bite you!' said Dora, shaking her curls, 'if you are so ridiculous.'

"But I looked so serious that Dora left off shaking her curls and laid her trembling little hand upon my shoulder, and at first looked scared and anxious, then began to cry. That was dreadful. I fell upon my knees before the sofa, caressing her and imploring her not to rend my heart; but for some time poor little Dora did nothing but exclaim, 'Oh dear! Oh dear!' And oh she was so frightened! And where was Julia Mills? And oh, take her to Julia Mills, and go away, please—until I was almost beside myself.

"At last, after an agony of supplication and protestation, I got Dora to look at me with a horrified expression of face, which I gradually soothed until it was only loving, and her soft, pretty cheek was lying against mine.

"Then I told her, with my arms clasped around her, how I loved her so dealy and so dearly; how I felt it right to offer to release her from her engagement because I was now poor; how I never could bear it, or recover it, if I lost her! How I had no fears of poverty if she had none, my arm being nerved and my heart inspired by her; how I was already working with a courage such as none but lovers knew; how I had begun to be practical, and look into the future; how a crust well earned was far better than a feast inherited; and much more to the same purpose, which I delivered in a burst of passionate eloquence quite surprising to myself, though I had been thinking about it day and night, ever since my aunt had astonished me.

"'Is your heart mine still, Dora?' said I, for I knew by her clinging to me that it was.

"'Oh yes!' cried Dora. 'Oh yes, it's all yours. Oh don't be dreadful!'

"I dreadful!—To Dora!"

These little scenes have charmed millions of readers of David Copperfield and no doubt will continue to do so until the end of time. They are the sort of touch of sweet humanity that is not wholly imaginary. Even an inventive genius like Dickens could record them only from memory. They are the surprises of love, never foreseen and luckily never forgotten. His portrait of Dora is rich with them, and undoubtedly Maria gave him every one.

* * *

THE dream of Maria Beadnell had haunted him all through the most productive period of his life. Indeed, it was an almost constant obsession. This is plainly shown in the characters of Copperfield, Pip and others.

For instance, when Estella tells Pip that he will soon put her out of his thoughts he exclaims:

"Out of my thoughts! You are part of my existence, part of myself. You have been in every line I have ever read, since I first came here, a rough country boy whose poor heart you wounded even then. You have been in every prospect I have ever seen since—on the river, on the sails of the ships, on the marshes, on the clouds, in the light, in the darkness, in the wind, in the woods, in the sea, in the street. You have been the embodiment of every graceful fancy that my mind has ever become acquainted with.

"The stones of which the strongest London buildings are made are not more real, or more impossible to be displaced by your hands, than your presence and influence have been to me, there and everywhere, and will be.

"Estella, to the last hour of my life, you cannot choose but remain part of my character, part of the little good in me, part of the evil. But, in this separation I associate you only with the good, and I will faithfully hold you to that always, for you must have done me far more good than harm, let me feel now what sharp distress I may. God bless you, God forgive you!...All done, all gone! So much was done and gone, that when I went out at the gate, the light of day seemed of a darker color than when I went in."

If these portrayals of Dickens's love for Maria delighted the reading public, what effect must they have had on the woman who saw herself playing the little heroine in number after number as they appeared, recognizing episodes in her own love affair with this man whose name was on every tongue.

Married to a prosaic business men and living a drab, colorless existence, what must have been her feelings, hidden in the background, obscure and unknown, viewing these enchanting pictures of herself as the outstanding sweetheart of the century, loved by Pip, Headstone, David Copperfield and others in all of whom she easily recognized her old discarded lover.

The wonder is that she could restrain herself from proclaiming to all the world, "I—I am Dora, and Charles Dickens really loved me just as he has written!"

* * *

THE letters of 1833 must have become infinitely more precious as the story of David Copperfield was unfolding in its monthly parts; and it is not unreasonable to suppose that she had some difficulty in stifling the impulse to write this zealous lover and beg him to forgive her former cruelties. Lacking the courage to do this she very likely persuaded her father to make an effort to re-establish communications with him, as will appear from the letter next following.

Dickens, in obedience to his picturesque inspiration of "splendid strolling," had formed a company of famous writers and artists into an amateur theatrical troupe, playing with pomp and circumstance in London and some of the larger cities for a worthy charity.

Word came that this galaxy of great names, on a glorious tour, was coming to play in the city near where Maria's father was living in retirement, and he, who had rejected and ejected Dickens from his home, wrote inviting him to spend a night with him in remembrance of old acquaintance. In answer Dickens sent a cordial note declining on the grounds of time, but inviting Mr. Beadnell to visit the Music Hall.

And if the facts could be known they would probably show that Maria herself was then at her father's home, awaiting Dickens' answer with no less eagerness and excitement than he had felt when waiting for her answer to his last love message nineteen years before. There is nothing to show that Mr. Beadnell accepted the inviation to call at the Music Hall, which lends color to the hint that he wrote to Dickens at the behest of Maria and not upon his own initiative.

Remembering that Maria is "Dora" and knowing something of her whimsical nature from the graphic pen portrait in David Copperfield it is a little pathetic to realize that she was trying in a childish way to be a good wife and mother, yet clinging to a golden memory and finding a little solace in a carefully preserved page whereon her "Doady" had written so many years ago: "Nothing will ever afford me more real delight than to hear that you, the object of my first and last love are happy."

Even though this wish were unfulfilled, she must have felt a bit proud to know that these words were written to herself alone by a pen that had become the most famous in all the contemporary world.

Three more years rolled by and as she was approaching what is said to be woman's "dangerous age," Cupid rekindled her imagination with retrospective fancies and hopeful aspirations. Unable to stand the strain any longer she was emboldened to break the long silence and attempt to open an avenue of approach to her old sweetheart.

CHANGES MIND WHEN 200 TAKE DARE

'Carrie Nation' Stunt Of His Honor Proves Idle Gesture

Mayor McNair turned from a lion to a lamb last night when 200 men and youths in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. offered to accept his dare and go out and smash all the "Pinchot liquor" they could find.

The Mayor had asked:

"How many are there here who will go out with me and smash all the Pinchot liquor we can find?"

From the entire assemblage arose the cry:

"I will."

Shouting "Let's go," His Honor leaped from the platform and started fiercely for the door, with the assemblage at his heels.

Then the lion became a lamb.

Meekly His Honor obtained his hat and coat, bid his amazed hosts a pleasant goodbye without explaining his metamorphesis, and walked out of the Y. M. C. A. to a car that waited to take him to Overbrook.

Previously, in his address before the Y. M. C. A. Thursday Night Dinner Club, the Mayor had taken a few whacks at his erstwhile friend, Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown. He said of him:

House by 3-2 Vote, Nearly Unanimous, Clears Everybody

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

House committee exonerated everybody, including itself.

It voted that Doc Wirt took off his winter flannels too soon. It voted that Doc's brain trust had no brains. It voted that everybody is good and there is no evil.

However, the voting was three to two. Which is practically unanimous if you never went to school.

A score of three to two is a close contest. Next time Doc might win if he wears smoked glasses in the sun field.

He has some consolation. The House committee didn't blank him.

Venezuelan War Chief's Son Studies Flying Here

Youth Who Served During Revolution Apt Student

Fernando Lopez Contreras, son of the Venezuelan minister of war, navy and air, is studying flying here; his ultimate aim—active participation in advancement of military flying in his home country.

Contreras, only 21 years old, saw five months of service in the army during a revolution before he came to the United States two years ago.

According to W. W. Murray, his instructor, he is an apt student, and will soon take a Department of Commerce examination for amateur pilot's license.

He will follow that with application for private pilot, the highest rating given by this country to aliens.

According to Contreras, in his homeland, there is no civilian flying with the exception of the through routes of Pan-American Airways.

STEEDLE DATA PRODUCED IN BOROUGH ROW

The threat of Controller Dan J. Buckley, of McKees Rocks, to jail Assemblyman Joseph G. Steedle, former Burgess, and others [illegible] enough records for an audit, brought results today.

Steedle produced the records of his office as did George W. Gast, Borough Secretary, and H. D. Supinger, Treasurer.

Buckley said Mayor W. N. McNair telephoned him last night that he had been retained as counsel for former Solicitor E. A. Sefler and promised that a statement of Sefler's activities for the borough would be forthcoming in 48 hours.

Buckley said he would proceed at once with an audit which he charges will reveal "gross waste and mismanagement" in the borough's affairs. An executive meeting of council has been called for Tuesday night.

The present solicitor, Leo J. Aaron, said damage suits would result for the arrest of Gast and indicated that a legal fight would result if Buckley tried to file a report of his re-audit of 1933.

CUDAHY WINS DIVORCE, SON

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 27.—(AP.)—After five years of separation from his child, Michael F. Cudahy, wealthy packer, has been awarded custody of his 8-year-old son, Dickie, and a divorce from his wife, Mrs. Alice Dickson Pinto Cudahy, on grounds of mental cruelty.

Mrs. Cudahy has had the boy at her home. The father was permitted to have the lad with him week-ends.

Cudahy left home in August, 1929, when, he told the court, he could no longer stand his wife's constant "nagging" of him, his son and Dorothy, Mrs. Cudahy's 19-year-old daughter by her marriage to Carlos Pinto in Paris.

On the day on which Cudahy left, his wife had abruptly discharged a cook the packer in court described as "the most competent we ever had." Cudahy listed among the many things which Mrs. Cudahy did to cause him mental cruelty "a constant disorganization of the household."

'Poor Little Rich Girl' Made Happy in Hospital

MARIE CORBY, 14 . . . . . ILL, SHE WON HER FORTUNE

Court Acts to Halt Fight Over Shrinking Fortune

International News Service.

CLEVELAND, O., April 27.—Marie Corby, Cleveland's 14-year-old "poor little rich girl," was in St. John's Hospital today, happy not only because she was recovering from an appendicitis operation, but also because of a court victory in the tangled litigation over the fortune that will be hers on her twenty-first birthday.

While doctors were performing the operation yesterday, Judge Nelson Brewer, holding a session in Probate Court at the same hour, ordered the girl's estate, comprising $300,000 in securities and $15,000 in unclipped coupons to be transferred to the jurisdiction of his court.

The securities were placed in a safety deposit box at the First National Bank, of Cincinnati, after Mrs. Madeline Corby Morgan Webber, mother and guardian of the child, removed them from a Covington, Ky., bank when court litigation threatened.

In fleeing with the securities from Kentucky, Mrs. Webber was indicted for conversion of the estate, but Gov. George White refused to grant her extradition to Kentucky for trial after it was shown that the securities not only were intact but that, under her care they had increased in value.

The little girl, daughter of the late Thomas Corby, millionaire Detroit capitalist, has been forced to sit idly by and watch her birthright shrink from $1,000,000 to $300,000 because of continued court litigation.

TUGWELL BACKS NEW DEAL

HANOVER, N. H., April 27.—(AP.)—Rexford G. Tugwell, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, told Dartmouth University students last night that in the past the autocratic theory in industry and the democratic theory in government had prevented "an intelligent approach" to technical and industrial change.

Tugwell said in an address that each "great technical and industrial change has had effects for which society was totally unprepared," and that "an intelligent approach to them would have required adjustment in all the institutions and situations they affected."

The former Columbia professor of economics said "the New Deal involves some of these decisions."

LOOK AT BOTH TYPES of Electric Refrigerators BEFORE YOU BUY!

The famous Monitor Top General Electric Refrigerator with its new distinguished styling is a refrigerator that you can justly feel proud to show your friends. Newly designed, and built for the future, assuring you of a modern refrigerator in years to come. A G-E Refrigerator will add a new modern note to your kitchen of today . . . and fits perfectly into the style theme of the kitchen of tomorrow. A once-in-a-lifetime buy. After all, a refrigerator is not purchased every year or so, it is something that requires your best judgment, and rightfully so. You want to know whether it will give you satisfactory service over a period. When you have a G-E, needless to say, you have this assurance: it is backed by the reputation of the General Electric Co.

Why Is the Unit On Top?

Many people have asked that question, and we are always glad to explain as follows: Warm air rises naturally, so the warm air of the cabinet is conducted through the stainless steel chilling unit to the monitor top. From there it is released into the air by natural radiation. All refrigerators must get rid of the warm air in the cabinet and by having all mechanism (only 3 moving parts) sealed within the Monitor Top this is done without the use of a fan, by simple, natural radiation . . . thus eliminating troublesome machinery. Furthermore . . . it is permanently oiled . . . you never need oil it, no belts to break, no leaky stuffing box.

The new de luxe G-E flat-top model has created a new style sensation in electric refrigerators. Beautiful in its simplicity of line, it has set a new standard in modern styling.

Patricia Pitt

From time to time we hear a bit of news about Pittsburgh daughters who've married, and gone to other cities to live. Today I've a bit about the former Lucretia Billings, daughter of Mrs. Frederic Tremaine Billings.

This past summer Lucretia Billings married Dr. A. Murray Fisher, of Baltimore, in Calvary Episcopal Church. Following their wedding trip, the Fishers have made their home in Baltimore.

They shared honors with the John A. Barker Fishers, also of Baltimore, at a dinner Dr. and Mrs. Robert T. Miller, Jr., of Baltimore, gave in their home recently. After the dinner the hosts entertained their guests at the theater.

Good News Expected for Participants in Mount Rushmore Competition

May Extend Closeing Date Of Texts

There is a possibility that the closing date when entrants must have their inscription texts submitted may be extended from May 12 to May 30.

A vast number of participants, many in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia who are participating through the Pittsburgh regional committee, have made anxious requests that a little more time be granted. The competition directors today are considering these requests.

It is probable that a full announcement of this and other details will be published in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, which, with associated Hearst newspapers, is sponsoring the competition for the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission. The competition is open to every man, woman and child. America's epic is sought in 600 words. The winning text will become the basis for the final inscription on the national monument in South Dakota.

Remember that no text can exceed 600 words. Remember, too, as the time is drawing near for the close of the competition that fancy writing is not at all desired. The text must be based on nine specific episodes of history. These episodes, along with complete rules and the list of awards, will be found in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. The complete information has been prepared in a handy folder which can be had free at the downtown Sun-Telegraph office, Fifth avenue and Market street. Participants may have it mailed to them by sending their request to the Pittsburgh Rushmore Editor, care of the Sun-Telegraph, and enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TONIC PRESCRIPTIONS FOR SPRING SUITS

By PRUNELLA WOOD

ANYONE WHO TOOK a saunter down the avenue on Easter Sunday learned just how clever and popular spring accessories are. There were lots of swanky new suits to be seen, but many a winter outfit was brave and alluring with its brisk, new gadget accomplices, identical with those on the later models.

* * *

GLOVES AND SCARFS, for instance. There is nothing slavish about matching them closely; they pull together a costume marvelously, and differing sets will give lots of variety to one basic costume. The string sets are nice just now, and those that are perked up with gingham trims, like the sets illustrated below. Later on sheer cotton gloves of organza and mousseline effect will add chic to hot weather cotton ensembles, in white or suit shades. The white ones will join forces with the lingerie touches on such clothes, and the darker ones will match or accent the tint of monotone wash frocks.

* * *

THE NEW CREPES, matelasse and those that are of smaller wiggles, seem more sophisticated than the familiar wash cotton gloves which are leather. Perfectly plain models, nicely tailored, could go anywhere.

String's the thing for swanky gloves just now. These above are white with ombre stripes on the flaring cuffs. The cuffs are permanently starched, and so are the ends of the scarf which completes the set.

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Snydicate, Inc.)

The scarf in this set is a nice propeller shape when it is adjusted. It is white basket weave string, cross-barred with color. The gloves with cuffs to match the scarf are white matelasse and very nifty.

Correct Manners

A Gift to the Graduate

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

An exceptionally good friend of mine is graduating from college this summer and I rather feel that I should present her with some appropriate inexpensive graduation gift. I have been asked to attend this affair, and naturally would be embarrassed by not presenting her with a gift, and, of course, I am tremendously fond of her. Will you be so kind as to advise me what the most appropriate gift would be for this occasion?

CARL.

The really appropriate gift for a man to send to a young lady graduate is a beautiful corsage. She will be proud of this . . . graduates compare notes, you know! Or, if you prefer, send her a beautifully-bound book, perhaps of the works of her favorite poet or essayist or travel-writer.

Children's Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

On two occasions my little boy has gone to a friend's home for a little party. The little boy's mother asked me over, too, and I accepted. She is a very sweet lady and I like her.

Now I am planning to give my little boy a party. I would like to have only children attend, because I don't feel that I can alone entertain children and ladies. (She had some relatives to help her). I could ask her alone, but I don't like to slight all the other mothers who are also my friends.

Could she feel hurt or insulted if I don't ask any one of them at all? She has never visited me yet. What should I do to act justly? READER.

Under the circumstances, and especially since you aren't inviting any of the other mothers, I think that it would be better not to make an exception of this friend.

However, very soon after this children's party, I would like to have you invite this woman who has been so kind to you, to come to your home, for luncheon or tea. She has made two hospitable gestures to you, and it would be gracious of you to make some pleasant indication that you appreciated them.

'DEVIL'S' KNIFE SAVES YOUTH

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., April 27.—(AP.)—Still staunch in his religious faith and scornful of medical science, Lewis Velie, who was ordered by a court to allow his son to be operated upon to save his life, today termed the operation and hospitalization "a manifestation of the devil's interference."

Over protest of the father, Raymond, 4, was taken to a hospital to have an operation performed on his shin bone. It was infected so badly, doctors testified, that permanent disability or death would have resulted.

Contract Bridge :-: HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Bagging the Adverse Trumps

Benedict Jarmel, of New York, is the hero of today's story. He sat South in a recent Duplicate match when the following hand came up:

North, Dealer.

	♠ Q 7 ♡ K 8 5 4 ◇ A K J 4 2 ♣ Q 5
♠ 4 3 2 ♡ J 10 9 7 6 3 ◇ 9 6 5 ♣ J	West North East South	♠ J 10 9 5 ♡ Q ◇ Q 8 3 ♣ K 9 7 4 3
	♠ A K 8 6 ♡ A 2 ◇ 10 7 ♣ A 10 8 6 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
3 N T	Pass	4 ♣ (?)	Pass
5 ♣	Pass	6 ♣ (?)	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

When his partner opened the bidding with one diamond, Mr. Jarmel, holding three Aces and a King, plus a reasonably good club suit, was justified in feeling that there was probably a Slam in the hand, and while in the later rounds of the bidding his partner's responses should have been rather discouraging, I think he was justified in this final slight overbid of six clubs. At any rate his masterful play made up for any possible error in the bidding.

The Knave of hearts was the Opening lead, upon which Dummy played the King, East dropped the Queen and South played small. The Queen of clubs was led from Dummy and allowed to ride. When the Knave fell from the West hand, Mr. Jarmel could see that his only chance of fulfilling his contract lay in coupling East's trumps. Toward this end he led the Ace and King of diamonds and ruffed a small diamond in his own hand. A spade was now led to the Dummy's Queen and a spade returned, after which he cashed his Ace of spades and ruffed the last spade in the Dummy. Another diamond was now led from Dummy, which East was forced to ruff and Mr. Jarmel overruffed. It will be noted that at this point the East hand was down to three trumps and the Declarer's hand down to the Ace and 10 of trumps and the Ace of hearts. The play of this latter card now forced East into the lead and Mr. Jarmel's trump tenace won the last two tricks. A good example of excellent technique combined with perfect timing.

TOMORROW'S HAND

South, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Universal Service.

PARIS, April 27.—Mrs. James B. Tailer, wealthy social-registerite widow of the late New York sportsman and banker, confided to friends today that she will marry Lord Doverdale this summer.

At that time Lord Doverdale's wife, the daughter of Viscount Elibank, was bringing suit against him for divorce, which was later granted on grounds of incompatibility.

Mrs. Tailer and Lord Doverdale, a large land owner and former alderman of the London County Council, will be married in London in July, when the present Lady Doverdale's decree becomes final.

CROSS STITCH AND CROCHETED MEDALLIONS — PATTERN 680

Varied Linens in Striking Design

Tulips in cross-stitch—gay in color—easy to do—make these lovely linens. The design comes in the square motifs shown, making it possible to work the squares separately and arrange them to form a variety of scarfs, cloths, pillows and other accessories. To add to the possibilities of the pattern, a chart of a filet crochet square in the same design as the cross-stitch is given. The cross-stitch can either be used alone or in combination with the crocheted squares as illustrated. Though the transfer pattern is given in squares, it need not be made up in these, it being possible to transfer squares next to each other on any width material. Then, too, the filet pattern can be used alone in twine to make handsome cloths or scarfs. The use of the pattern is greatly simplified by the step-by-step guide which shows by means of illustrations each step in the embroidering of the design, a color chart, the filet crochet chart with illustrated stitches, and arrangements for a variety of linens to be made of this pattern.

Pattern 680 comes to you with a transfer pattern of four 8-inch squares and the step-by-step guide.

NUDISTS READY FOR BIGGEST SEASON

By CORRINNE HARDESTY
Universal Service.

CHICAGO, April 27.—You can't keep a good nudist clothed, but that nudist in the United States Senate still persists in hiding behind a coat and vest.

While city fathers have fits, moralists wring their hands and smartly clad women say "never!" more than 10,000 devotees of nudism, in 10 camps from Maine to California and from Florida to Oregon, are preparing to shed their garments with the spring breezes.

GAINS CITED

Kenneth E. Krippens, attorney for the International Nudist Conference, issued a bulletin here. He said:

"Nudism has gained thousands of supporters during the past year and will be more widely practiced this year than ever before."

Although protests of clergymen, once emphatic, seem to be growing less violent, this was the comment of Dr. John Thompson, pastor of the Chicago Temple, anent the opening of the new nudist "season:"

"The Bible has a good deal to say about nakedness and the sacredness of the human body. I don't believe the nudists understand the true meaning of these passages. I don't want to be prudish, but I can't see that there is any moral uplift in nudism."

DARES CRITICS

Mrs. Alois S. Knapp, who brands those who go in for half-way nudism as "softies," was reached at her own nudist domain, Zero Nature Park, Lake Villa, Ind. She said things were virtually ready now for another "zero-nature" year, and hurled a challenge to critics. Said Mrs. Knapp:

"All this rumpus about trying to stop nudism is silly. Why can't people be let alone, in secluded places like this, to go without their clothes? The way some people are carrying on you'd think it was murder we were committing."

Paintings Returned Here for Shipping

Following a short tour to Cleveland and Toledo, 350 paintings shown here in the International Art Exhibit at Carnegie Museum galleries last fall will return here tomorrow by express for reshipment to their owners.

The foreign paintings, for ocean transport, will be encased in hermetically sealed tins. The paintings have an estimated value of $500,000.

Bombay Police Rout Mill Strike Rioters

TRICK HOLDUP GOES WRONG

MINOT, N. D., April 27.—(AP.)—It isn't safe for robbers to hold up a professor in a classroom here—even when the affair is a "frame-up."

Two masked and armed men jumped into a classroom at the Minot State Teachers College and "held up" Dr. Hugh Hetherington, an instructor.

What hadn't been contemplated or "framed" was the action of four husky students, who piled into the two robbers as they were frisking the instructor's pockets, pounded them and took away their guns.

It had all been arranged that the two were to hold up Dr. Hetherington and afterwards the students were to be asked to describe what happened—just to see if they all agreed to the details.

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe these hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is vastly more important to bathe on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

10,123 INSANE STERILIZED

PASADENA, Cal., April 27.—(AP.)—A total of 10,123 insane and feeble minded persons have been sterilized in California in the past 25 years—or more than half the number of all patients known to have been sterilized in the United States since the 1890's, it was reported today.

The report, by the Human Betterment Foundation of Pasadena, showed about 100 eugenic sterilization operations are being performed each month in California state institutions now.

Since the California sterilization law went into effect April 26, 1909, 5,146 men and 4,977 women have been sterilized by the state, said the report. About three-fourths of these were insane and one-fourth feeble minded.

Noting that the law provides for compulsory sterilization, the report said in actual practice the written consent of the nearest relatives is sought and nearly always obtained.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

I got my money's worth on my new all-wave radio set Monday morn, by golly . . . What a walloping and breathless thrill for nearly an hour! . . . It was about 4:10 when I threw the juice on and turned the switch to the band for police calls and the planes . . . Can't get the planes often any more since the mail mess down in Washington . . . But ah, those police calls when they're blazing! . . . "Attention, all cars!" barked the basso before the microphone from WPDX, which is Detroit, "be on the lookout for 1930 Ford sedan, Wisconsin license plate number 20562-1934 plate . . . Between Grantsburg, Wisconsin, and headed for Pine County—watch all roads leading to the Twin Cities, St. Paul and Minneapolis! Watch for a Packard following—it's the Dillinger gang!" . . . He kept intoning it, and the skin on my face toughened and my whiskers stiffened . . . Then I kept toying with the dial up and down slowly, getting the same thrilling warning from police all over the Middle West . . . I thought sure they'd grab John by the time I read the afternoon gazettes—but dawgawnim—he got away again! . . . The dial was on fire and packed with excitement! . . . Buffalo and Rochester kept yelling to apprehend stick-up experts . . . Oklahoma City and Tulsa were hot, too—and Kansas City police were fingering their gats . . . And then again, the Michigan call: "1930 Ford sedan, plate 29562—between Grantsburg, Wisconsin, and the Twin Cities—it's the Dillinger gang! . . . Stop all cars, stop all cars—it's the Dillinger gang . . . the Dillinger gang!" . . . What a thrill!

Talk about aggravations and things to make you ashamed of being a New Yorker—that damb case about the mother and her tot being jailed because her child "dug a hole" in the park grass—makes me considerably ill . . . The hero of our little story happens to be a cop named Albert G. Learock, of the Arsenal in Central Park . . . What a soft beat his is—Central Park—to frighten mothers and children! . . . The little boy had a tiny shovel and a bucket—and his daddy is jobless, and his mother is wearing a coat her husband made . . . The kid is wearing clothes given by neighbors . . . So Judge Overton Harris in Yorkville Court fined her two bucks—and because she didn't have two bucks—and Judge Harris decided she was "well-dressed," he let her and her child stay a day in the smelly jail of the court . . . Well, now, ain't that something for his "Honor" to be proud about? . . . And will Policeman Learock get a pretty ribbon to put on his chest? . . . Judge Harris, you see, is a bachelor—he doesn't know what it means to have a child . . . I don't know if Learock has any children—and the fewer times I mention his name the less my nostrils will be stifled . . . And that goes for Judge Overton Harris, too . . . What good is a park—if children can't romp in it? . . . The irony of it all is what throws me . . . It will be perfectly all right for that little boy to be buried under grass one day . . . But he mustn't play on it now!

There go Wayne King's delightful rhythms . . . Anybody gabbing to me while I'm at the typewriter detracts my attention from the keyboard—but not that guy, King, and his tunes . . . Wonder what the tiff is about between the Casino de Paree girls in rooms four and five? . . . Seems so silly, they're all such pleasant persons off stage . . . Heard the wildest story yesterday about some stick-up merchants, who were caught . . . You can rent a revolver for the night for only $3—a sawed-off shotgun for $10 and a sub-machine for $20—at a 42nd Street store! . . . At least, so they told the gendarmes—but they wouldn't reveal the joint's name . . . Imagine! . . . Wonder if Dillinger tunes in on Sunday nights? . . . Probably does—to hear what the papers are saying about him that night—the papers said he had a radio in his car.

My idea of a composer is that Rube Bloom lad—"Soliloquy," frixample, and "Song of the Bayou," which won for him that $5,000 prize . . . I like Buddy De Sylva's tjtle for his new show—"Better Than Gold" . . . They tell me the Forrest Theater doesn't care if you pay rent so long as the theater stays open—the same owners of the adjacent hotel figure its dining room will prosper between acts.

Meeting Father Coughlin for the first time was pleasant . . . He's shelved 15 pounds in the last few weeks—since his illness.

Restless man—worried about the country . . . Listening to him relate this and that about monetary conditions makes you shiver a little . . . "With all the chaos in Germany and England and France," he said, "they haven't had a bank failure. In the United States 900 banks are still closed!" . . . He pointed out that hundreds of thousands of families in the country "are on the dole"—but conditions, he added, are supposed to be jake . . . It is spurious prosperity, he argues, there is no base or foundation for the money—and within a few years—things will go bingbang . . . Knowing how close Father Coughlin is to President Roosevelt, I queried: "Does the President know all that?" . . . The Reverend nodded solemnly—and seemed distressed about it all.

Ah, here comes "Fats" Waller through the microphone with his "Rhythm—and Rhythm"—certainly an appropriate title for his routines . . . "I wish that I wuz twins—so I could love you babykins twice as much I dooooo" . . . Get the pianner playin' of "African Rhythm"—too marvelous! . . . Wonder why I feel so high tonight? . . . Wonder why that Sunday night in the night clubs was, as some of the impresarios admitted: "The worst in a long time?" . . . It was good at the Cotton Club . . . There goes "Fats" (better'n Louis Armstrong) doing "Don't Let Yer Love Go Wrong"—a low-down and contagious tune—packing a combination of Rumba rhythm and Harlem Dixie-doodling . . . Haw! That's very funny! They bill that rascal as: "That Harmful Li'l Armful!" . . . And now comes the Radio Press Bureau's news reports . . . "Dillinger is still at large!" says the voice . . . No kiddin'? . . . No wonder the Jimmy Durante program was so gay—he has Milton Raison and Jack Harvey writing it. I like the nifty they sent me—"The trouble with Hollywood people, who try to blahzay, is that they never get beyond the first syllable!" . . . But I am sad about that midget with Marty May's act in Rochester . . . Her name is Sarah, and she is the tiniest of his midgets . . . She tried to commit suicide in her dressing room by jumping off her make-up table!

Hardie Gets Good Role In Film

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—Hello! Get your spines ready for one of the best mystery yarns ever to startle an audience into chills and screams—"The Rear Car," which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will shortly put into production.

Russell Hardie, for whom M-G-M has great hopes of building into stellar material, and Mary Carlisle get swell breaks as the romantic couple, while Ted Healy (minus his stooges), Una Merkel and Charley Butterworth will be in charge of the comedy. Harry Beaumont is slated for the megaphone department. Harvey Thew and Al Boasberg dished up the script.

* * *

Wandering Around Hollywood . . . Grace Williams, who sued Mary McCormic for a slap, is back in town and going into the movies. She's slated for a small part in "Barbary Coast," the Sam Goldwyn film . . . Betty Healy, Ted's ex, was heard on a radio program . . . Robert Lord, nine years with Warners', got a new ticket as associate producer . . . Eddie Welch says he has an idea for a Joe E. Brown story—the guy's a tunnel salesman! . . . Jacques Duval is in town to write "Angel" for Margaret Sullavan at Universal. Maggie's a-headin' for New York and Europe any minute! . . . Since Sally Eilers got her release from Fox and since hubby, Harry Joe Brown, is at Warners', I wouldn't be a bit surprised to hear that she had signed with the Burbank Studio.

* * *

George Sidney, the comedian, was a tragedian—for a role in "Manhattan Melodrama" at M-G-M . . . Nils Asther and Bill Powell are a-frolicking among the cactus in Palm Springs . . . Gene Austin, Evelyn Brent and Harry Fox clicked in grand style with their personal appearance in San Francisco.

* * *

A paragraph from the past—while autoing it around the movie village t'other eve seeking a place—something different for dinner, you know—I just happened to stop at Willard's Steak House.

A tall, good-looking Italian greeted me with: "Why, I haven't seen you for 13 years!" He led the way to a table.

Thirteen years ago Luigi Liserani (I never could remember his name) played a French officer in "The Four Horsemen." I was but the office boy in the old Metro Studio.

* * *

Movietown meanderings . . . J. P. McEvoy writes all his comedy dialogue at Paramount in long-hand on telegraph blanks, a habit he acquired rewriting "Follies" skits for the late Ziegfeld . . . The latest to return to the grease paint is that super vamp of yesteryear, Theda Bara. She'll do a stage appearance in "Bella Dona" next month for the Beverly Hills Little Theater . . . Laugh Twice In Four Plays

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Six people were drowned, two died by the bite of a venomous spider, two were murdered, one was hanged, and a pair of candlesticks were stolen last night at the Irene Kaufmann Theater during the second series of one-act dramas presented in the Drama League tourney. During the four playlets there were only two laughs, but many gasps and shudders and some capital acting.

Mr. Seibel

First came "Submerged," by Stuart Cottman and La Vergne Shaw—presented by I. K. S. Players—which takes place in a wrecked submarine, with six men who are doomed to death. As the curtain drops the ocean is pouring through a leak in the steel casing, and the plight of the actors is as bad as that of the outsiders of Noah's Ark. The play was done with gruesome emphasis.

Then came the Epworthians with "The Singapore Spider," a thriller by Edward Finnegan, in which H. B. Trautman as a heartless old wretch is killed for $7,500 by his housekeeper and her husband, who are then poisoned by the spider hid among the bills. It was grim melodrama well acted.

Third came the Dracomtra Players—in "Vindication," by Lionel J. Hines and Frank King—in which the family of a condemned boy are gathered in their home while he is being hanged. The little drama is largely narrative and character study, but very gorgeous acting was done by W. H. Bergheimer and Adelaide Hunter.

Last the good old bishop of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables" made his appearance with the Little Theater group of Beaver. The playlet is called "The Bishop's Candlesticks," by Norman McKinnel, and Edwin Schaughency was vividly realistic as the convict who steals the candlesticks, while Norman Webster was convincingly benevolent as the Bishop who thinks one "must do a great deal for the devil to do a little for God." They made the playlet ring true.

Tonight the contest closes with three more dramas—"Casualties," by the Calvary Masquers; "Hans Bulow's Last Puppet," by the Beaver Woman's Club, and "Riders to the Sea," by the Emerson Club of Sacred Heart. As the closing bill, not competing for the prizes, the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind will present a little miracle play, "No Room at the Inn"—and then B. Iden Payne as adjudicator will announce the prize winners.

Alaska Line Ships Booked to Capacity

SEATTLE, Wash.—(INS.)—Increasing indications that Alaska will experience one of its most active gold mining years since early in the century are seen here by steamship officials and mining equipment dealers. Alaska lines report passenger reservations as the heaviest in years, being booked nearly to capacity weeks in advance.

Odds and Ends

I JUST had news of Jimmy Regan. The name will mean nothing to you at first glance. But the two or three readers who have been following me through the years will perhaps recall him a bit further on.

Jimmy Regan—or Burns, as I knew him—was the central character in one of the most amazing criminal stories of all time. It would make a swell movie, but the producers never saw it that way. I guess maybe it's too good.

During the winter of 1917, a young woman was found beaten to death in a New York rooming house. Another woman was arrested and charged with the crime. Because of an apple that had been bitten into and formed an important piece of evidence, the newspapers referred to the case as "The Apple Murder."

Up in Auburn prison at that time was Jimmy Regan, a convict in the first year of a 10-year stretch for burglary. Jimmy hadn't been there very long, but he felt that he couldn't stand much more of it. He determined to attempt an escape. If he was killed, what of it? The possibility of freedom was worth the gamble.

He confided his plans to another inmate. This friend was a much calmer individual, and he advised Jimmy against any such drastic course. He had a much better idea, he said, and if Jimmy wanted to attempt to carry it out, his chances for a successful escape would be much brighter.

"Down in New York," said the pal, "they are soon going to try a woman for the murder of another dame. The case is known as 'The Apple Murder,' and you don't know anything about it right now. But I do, because I've been following it pretty carefully. And what you're going to do is to confess to that murder."

Jimmy Regan's eyes almost popped from his head. Was his pal going nuts? The other man smiled.

"Look, Jimmy," he went on, and follow me closely. Try to escape from here and you haven't a chance. But if you confess to this murder and stick to your story, they'll have to take you to New York to testify.

"It's on the way to New York that you'll make good your escape. You'll have only one guard to fight then, and a little help will take care of him. You won't have to fight a whole prison. Don't you see what I mean?"

Jimmy finally saw. And late that night he sent a letter to the District Attorney of New York and confessed to the murder of a woman he had never even seen . . .

The plan worked beautifully. Three assistant district attorneys popped up in Auburn two days later and hurled question after question at Jimmy Regan. Well coached by now, he stood his ground firmly. The officials reported back that Regan unquestionably knew something about the case. And Jimmy was ordered to New York to attend the trial.

There was only one hitch in the matter—and it was that hitch that ruined Jimmy Regan. His pictures appeared in the papers. Not once, but 20 times. He was called a convict hero. He was confessing to a crime that might mean death in order to save the life of an innocent woman. And so on and so forth.

Jimmy wasn't able to stand off all that publicity. He read so much about himself that he began to believe it. He swelled up like a dizzy movie star. In the light of his present prominence, he forgot all about his original plan. And he rode to New York with one of the dumbest guards in Auburn without making the slightest effort to escape. The publicity had ruined him.

In New York, Jimmy Regan testified in the "Apple Murder" case. Everybody knew he was lying—except the jury. The woman was acquitted, but Jimmy was not returned to Auburn. Not just yet.

The District Attorney, enraged by the loss of what had started out as a simple case, started out after new evidence in connection with Jimmy Regan. He found it—and he placed Regan on trial for perjury.

The trial was short and sweet—for the District Attorney. Jimmy was found guilty. And they gave him twenty years more in the same jail for lying to save the life of a girl! . . .

That's my idea of one grand criminal story. But I told you in the beginning that I had news of Jimmy Regan. I have.

Once he got back to Auburn, Jimmy was never again close to freedom. Well, maybe that's a little extreme. He was close. He would have been eligible for parole this very week. But he died in the prison about four months ago.

He wanted liberty with all his soul. He was willing to die for it.

Numerous Protests Irk German Consul

John E. Loibl, German vice consul in Pittsburgh, is "getting sick and tired of hearing nothing but protests," he said yesterday after a delegation from the League Against War and Fascism called at his office to protest "the continued persecution of tens of thousands in Germany." They demanded the immediate release of Ernest Thaelman, Communist leader, who "we hear has been subjected to extreme torture in a concentration camp." Similar protests have been filed by the organization with the German embassy in Washington.

Players and Plays

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

This time o' year we generally have one or two Yiddish plays, and there's one headed this way now, "A Little Happiness," which will come to the Nixon for one performance only, Monday, May 7, with Misha and Lucy Gehrman at the head of the company. The Yiddish stage has many capable artists, some of whom play off and on in English plays. Among its many graduates are Paul Muni and Jacob Ben Ami. Miss Gehrman, however, who has been called the Yiddish Duse, has clung devotedly to the Yiddish theater. For years she had her own stage on New York's great East Side. She generally visits Pittsburgh annually in the spring. Miss Gehrman, who was married at 17 to her actor husband, is of Russian-Polish Jewish parentage. The Yiddish title of the Gehrman's new play is "Abisella Mazel."

* * *

Herman Timberg, whose new unit, "Temptations," is the current stage feature in the Pitt, is one of the graduates of that remarkable aggregation of juvenile talent recruited by Gus Edwards for "School Days," many of whom became stars. After leaving that "school," in which he played a little Jewish boy, he entered vaudeville, and his ability record now stands at comedian, dancer, singer, author, composer, picture star, picture director, gag writer and producer. With his company is Herman, Jr., following his dad's footsteps.

Melody-Pervaded Comedy Pleases in Fulton

By ZORA D. UNKOVICH

The spirit of spring, laughable and loveable, is in "Bottoms Up" in the Fulton. It's light enough and live enough, this melody-pervaded comedy, to put a smile on your lips and hail a dozen lilting tunes in your head.

Spencer Tracy, whose racket is never "against the law," is the dominating force of the piece with his well-carried off characterization of the [illegible]d hearted, one-step-ahead Smoothie. It is through him that the plot of success in gullible Hollywood is worked out.

With the aid of his keenly competent pals, Herbert Mundin, ever collecting—and copying—autographs, and Sid Silvers, of the unlucky baritone, Tracy skyrockets a half starving Toronto beauty prize winner, "Pat" Patterson, to success, at the side of her screen idol, John Boles. It's all quite on the level; very much so. It isn't their fault that everyone takes Pat and Mundin for Lord Brockelhurst and his daughter. Oh, no, not at all. They deny, not too strongly, of course, their royal standing to everyone.

Harry Green as Producer Wolfe, good for plenty of laughs, insists on getting high blood pressure until the bogey-man turns out to be a golden goose and fairy godmother combined.

Pat Paterson, the Cinderella of "Bottoms Up," brings to her initial starring role a charming appeal and loveliness. Her hero, John Boles, is handsome and debonair, but it is his voice, giving us such melodies as "Little Did I Dream" and "Waiting at the Gate for Katie," that imparts a real share of its effect to the film.

Fitting in with the musical feature are Henry Hull's "Pagliacci," beautifully done, "Bosom Friends," a fine animal life short, and Hearst Metrotone News. All in all, two hours of real entertainment and not merely glorified horseplay.

Gripping Drama In Warner

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

There is plenty of strong dramatic interest in the Warner's new screen feature, "The Lost Patrol," picturization of the tragic fate of a detachment of British soldiers lost in a desert of Mesopotamia, only one of whom is left when relief troops arrive at the oasis where they have taken shelter. It is a gripping photoplay, based on the novel, "Patrol," by Philip MacDonald.

There is no "plot" in the dramatic sense of the word, the story unfolding in its grim way without the intervention of play-making tricks to bring about a conflict. The fight is with the desert, itself, and what it hides, in this case hostile Arabs.

The drama is in the reaction of various members of the patrol to the terror that stalks them, and thins down their ranks, reflecting pathos, humor, romantic recollections, religious fervor, ambition, insanity, bravery and the determination to even the scores with the unseen enemy.

That vengeance is reserved for Victor McLaglen, the sergeant in charge, following the first death in the ranks, that of the commanding officer. When he alone survives relief comes, but there are only mounds in the sand with sabres at their heads to tell the story of "The Lost Patrol." McLaglen's characterization and that of Boris Karloff, a soldier who read his Bible and who goes mad, are the stand-out things of the film.

Wallace Ford, Reginald Denny, Billy Bevan and Douglas Walton, the latter the boy of the troop, also register strongly.

Here comes the bride (just watch her stride!). Anyhow . . . brides are in order these days, it being the time of year it is. And so if you're planning to take the leap, pause to consider these tinklings of the wedding bells.

For we have found white, ivory and eggshell satins that will enhance the faintest of bridal blushes. Lively slithery ones to trail demurely up THAT AISLE. A simple one in ivory with a criss-cross bodice effect that does things for your bridal bosom! At $25. And another at $35 with a whole toppage of fine lace.

Lanvin's own . . . a copy of course . . . with the square neck line and cuffs of braided satin — very very swank and suitable to wear long after the orange blossoms have been trampled underfoot. (Dye it, silly!) This is $39.50.

Or if you go in for lace . . . . see the gown with the detachable redingote effect that fastens around the dress at the waist and trails out behind. Shed the "coat" and behold! a stunning evening dress! This costume is $39.50 also. (We have chosen these at their prices because the average bride not only wants something nice but something that will see her through months of wear after the tumult and shouting has died.)

* * *

Now for a whisper into shell-pink ears. Lingerie! We know where a three-piece set exists for only $7.85. A set consisting of a white crepe slip with pearl lace medallions at the top . . . matching panties . . . and nightie.

But if you're going to do the job with a flourish . . . then why not GRAND gesture! To wit . . . a beautiful gown of white crepe with a georgette ruffle at the shoulder . . . lace be-frothed top and bottom . . . and a fit like nobody's business (but the bride's). It's $6.95 and well worth it.

* * *

We hope you aren't going to be a weepy bride either, but should your sniffles become imminent, then have a regular bridal handkie in your fist. And there are dainty bits of fluff to be had for this. Finest linen squares with a replica of Point d' Paris lace edging. Not much, it's true, but enough for a nuptial tear or two! 75c.

* * *

"Thrice a bridesmaid, never a bride!" Well, who cares! We wouldn't if we'd had three chances to wear bridesmaid gowns like the new Palmetto fabric ones! (This fabric, as we said yesterday, is the new "organza" or "mousseline.")

They're long and floating . . . in any shade you want (pinks, peach, green, yellow, in stock, and other shades can be ordered.) A sort of cape-jacket-gone-wrong fits over the top, covering the shoulders with pointy ends to flutter as Lohengrin tum-tum-te-tums, ... and a great bunch of flowers cluster at the base of the low decolletage in front. $29.75.

NEW RECIPES FOR CANAPES SUGGESTED

The next time you are having guests to dinner and plan on serving canapes with your cocktails get out your cookie cutter and go to work. A combination of the plain, ordinary things you have on your pantry shelf a" of the time and a dash of imagination will be all that you will need. Eggs, tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers, cream cheese, olives and canned fish—sardines, crabmeat—will be enough until you feel venturesome and brave the realm of caviar and anchovies pate de foie gras.

SPRING CANAPE—Cut circle of white bread, spread thick with butter and then with a thin layer of mayonnaise. Place ring of thinly sliced radishes around outside edge. Slice of cucumber in center surrounded by ring of green pepper.

WATER LILY CANAPE—Spread circle of whole wheat bread with butter and shape lettuce leaves on top, reasoning with mayonnaise. Cut petals by making narrow strips of hard cooked egg whites. Make the center of the flower with the yolks mashed and seasoned.

CHEESE AND OLIVE CANAPE—Cut bread in one-fourth inch slices and shape in rectangular pieces about two by three inches. Cut a small piece diagonally on each corner. Army Camel Dies Without Learning Of 'Cuss' Words

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—(AP.)—The death of "Topsy" set old timers talking today of the attempt of the federal government to replace cavalry pack mules and horses with camels during the late Indian campaigns in Arizona and California.

Topsy was very old and may have been the last survivor of the cavalry camels. Her teeth had vanished, both her humps were broken and she scarcely was able to move her broad feet. So yesterday Topsy was destroyed at the Griffith Park Zoo where she had lived in retirement for many years.

The camels served for a while in the Indian campaigns, but the Army soon learned to hate them. The packers complained:

"They don't understand cuss words."

ASKS NEW TEST FOR TEACHERS

ERIE, Pa., April 27.—(AP.)—A plan to revolutionize the present system of hiring and firing school teachers—cause of a score of student strikes in Western Pennsylvania this spring—is advocated by John C. Diehl, superintendent of Erie schools.

Speaking before the school board last night, Prof. Diehl strongly recommended a "merit system" based on the teacher's college record, teaching technique, experience and personality. These points would constitute 60 per cent in evaluating the applicant.

The remaining 40 per cent would be based on an examination to be given annually by the superintendent.

Should this program be adopted, every Erie teacher would be obliged to stand an examination before he or she would be hired for the coming school year.

FRENCH TRICKS ON U. S. WINE REVEALED

By R. W. JIMERSON

French wines are the chief competitors of California wines for the American market.

Once the wine consuming public in the United States realizes that the imports of truly great French vintages into this country are almost infinitesimally small, the common sense of the American people can be depended upon to turn to the dependably good, lower priced California types.

France produces enormous quantities of wine. But it is not so generally known that only about 5 per cent of this huge production is of outstanding quality. The bulk of it is ordinary wine, of no special merit.

The average American buyer of wine, so far as background and experience are concerned, is starting from scratch. There are a few "wine wise" souls who have lived much abroad or who managed to maintain their cellars throughout prohibition, and who are not to be fooled by labels. But the average American who is anxious to develop a sound taste in wine, and who is heartily sick and tired of the hard liquor era ushered in by prohibition, is in a quandary.

PROPAGANDA WINS

Those who know as little of wine as he himself, talk learnedly of vintages and years. He is confronted with imposing lists of imported wines—"Chateau" this and "Chateau" that, "grand wines" from here and "premier crus" from there. He notes that the prices are high, and wonders if American wines would not be just as good.

But eventually he succumbs, as it was intended that he should, to the foreign wine propaganda with which he has been delus[illegible] since repeal became a fact.

He doesn't know that his chance of getting veritable Chateau Yquem is considerably smaller than his chance of finding a needle in the proverbial haystack. This noble Sauterne comes from the Chateau Yquem, whose vineyard covers only 200 acres!

Every connoisseur in the Old World bids eagerly, and at prices soaring into dizzy amounts, for each case yielded by the vineyard of Chateau Yquem. Similar instances can be repeated ad infinitum. Chateau Lafitte, for instance, which produces a famous claret, has a vineyard of only 170 acres.

A MATTER OF LABELS

Veteran California wine men remember pre-prohibition days when millions of gallons of wine from California were shipped to Europe — chiefly France — each year. In France the California wine was bottled, the bottles were adorned with French labels bearing distinguished French names—and sent back to the United States for sale as French wine!

It indicates that even in the pre-Volstead era California wines had been perfected to the point where they were faithful and undetectable reproductions of the European vintages.

California wineries are making sure that none of their product will be so handled in the future. Every precaution is taken to protect the quality of every bottle—and to make sure that no imposition is possible.

Each winery does its own bottling at its own plant in California or in its branch plant in the East. The name "California" on a bottle of wine put out by a recognized winemaker, or identified by a reputable brand, means that the householder can purchase with assurance of sound quality and honest value.

California wines, furthermore, are good wines right now. Prohibition struck a heavy blow at the wine industry in this state, but 150 out of the 700 wineries in California continued to operate on a limited basis throughout the entire era, and they produced about 10,000,000 gallons a year—considerably more than the requirements for sacramental and medicinal purposes.

A surplus of aged wine has thus been building up in California for 15 years, and it is this stock which is being made available to the public today. It is establishing California's reputation anew as one of those favored spots on the earth's surface where a really superior wine can be produced.

During prohibition, that reputation was almost forgotten. Yet more than 20 years ago, after a half century of patient and costly development, California wines were being given official recognition as equal to those produced in France, Italy and Germany.

GETS HIGHEST AWARD

At Turin, Italy, in 1911, a California champagne received the grand prix, the highest award which a jury of international experts could bestow. In 1916, at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, 20 grand prizes went to California entries. At the St. Louis World's Exposition in 1903, California took three grand prizes and 19 gold medals.

Even in France, California wines carried off four gold medals, nine silver medals and nine bronze medals at the Paris World's Exposition in 1900, and this in spite of the fact that many of the state's choicest varieties were not allowed to compete.

Awards went to California wines at Paris in 1899, at Genoa in 1892, at Lyons, France, in 1894, at Bordeaux in 1895, and at every other exposition at home and abroad up to the prohibition era.

W. Va. Man Won't Run for Congress

SISTERSVILLE, W. Va., April 27.—(AP.)—Walter Sugden, attorney, said today he will not become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress from the Fourth District.

NEW WATERWAY PLAN URGED ON U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP.)—Abandonment of the system of rivers and harbors development that has prompted many a Congressional scramble for projects and substitution of a carefully drawn program for development of the nation's watersheds are among the recommendations that have been made to President Roosevelt by a special cabinet committee.

The members of the group are Secretaries Wallace Ickes, Dern and Perkins. They were named more than two months ago to draft a plan for broad national economic development.

Experts associated with the committee said today that all the material assembled had not been digested but that the bulk of the report had been communicated to the President.

FUND WASTE SEEN

There was pronounced disagreement on several subjects, but the cabinet members were in accord in condemning previous methods of handling inland waterways and in concluding that hundreds of millions of dollars have been spent with little return.

One predicted result of the cabinet study was that many rivers and harbors projects authorized or partly completed probably would be abandoned. The new policy, however, would not affect public works allotments.

President Roosevelt has asked that a rivers and harbors bill be withheld this session. Chairman Mansfield (Dem.) of Texas, of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee, has protested but there has been no change in the White House attitude.

ROOSEVELT'S PLAN

At the time the committee was named, President Roosevelt had in mind the establishment of a number of commissions similar to the Tennessee Valley Authority.

One was planned for the Atlantic, Pacific, Gulf and Great Lakes waterways and the east and west tributaries of the Mississippi.

Twelve Army engineers are already surveying the areas but the commission conception may be radically changed by the conclusions in the Cabinet report.

Members said they found that few of the rivers lent themselves to treatment as a unit, as in the case of the Tennessee. There are any number of problems on the Missouri, for instance, that cannot be treated as a whole.

Wise Choice of Dishes Aids Low Income Diet

Recipes Listed With Eye to Assisting Food Budget

Wise selection of recipes has much to do with planning a low income diet, but it is equally important, Prudence Penny observes, to be well acquainted with the stores in your neighborhood. Know exactly which stores offer the lowest price for the best products that will be suited to your needs.

Miss Penny suggests you first visit your community stores and shop for prices and then purchase your foods. Buying in large quantities is also best when the foods can be stored without the danger of spoiling. A few pennies saved here and there amount to welcome dollars at the end of the month.

Adapt the recipes the Sun-Telegraph offers you daily to menus that will lend themselves to a low food budget. Make the recipes offered the best possible by sending in your favorites to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Those she selects for publication will receive either a 55 or a $1 prize. No recipies are returned.

Major Gibbs Flays Relief Works Division

The Relief Works Division program is "fluting with human misery," according to Maj. Ralph W. Gibbs, candidate for Congress in the Thirtieth District. Maj. Gibbs, who resigned as director of the Federal-State Employment Bureau here, advocated an adequate federal unemployment relief program to alleviate suffering. He said:

"What the average man wants is a job. He has discovered the present plan puts a premium on relief. I will fight for jobs for all. The present RWD program, which gives jobs only to those eligible for relief, defeats its own purpose."

Candidate Favors Consolidation Plan

Charles W. Parkinson, candidate for Republican nomination for Legislature in the Fourth District, advocates reduction of unjust taxes on real estate. He wants consolidation of all administrative groups and units. He proposes a larger proportion of all revenue derived from taxes on autos, gasoline and liquor stores for Pittsburgh and Allegheny County.

Couple Celebrate 60th Anniversary

The sixtieth wedding anniversary of the Rev. and Mrs. F. S. Ford was being celebrated at their home, Highland avenue, Allison Park, today. The Rev. Mr. Ford, who is a member of the Allegheny Presbytery, served 35 years as pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in Michigan, uniting with the ministry of the United Presbyterian church in 1930.

He and Mrs. Ford were married in London. They have five children.

Urges Abolition of Real Estate Taxes

Abolition of all real estate taxes in the state is the keynote of the platform of Charles Hemath, Jr., candidate for Legislature in the Eleventh District. The elimination of such taxes would relieve the spectre of homelessness now facing the unemployed, he declared. He wants to substitute a state income tax.

149-Piece Wash with Only ¼ Package of Oxydol!

Clothes Come Out Beautifully Clean and White

READ MRS. WURTS' LETTER

Mrs. F. S. Wurts
Deerfield, Illinois

"Washday used to be such a problem. No matter what kind of soap I used, or how nice and rich the suds seemed at first, they gave out before half my clothes were washed. What a surprise when I tried Oxydol! My whole wash—149 pieces—washed clean and white in only one tub of Oxydol suds! I used only a bit more than a cupful of OXYDOL—about a fourth of a box. Using other granulated soaps I had always had to use over twice as much."

IF you, too, want the far faster, far whiter way in washing that Mrs. Wurts has found—then you are urged to try this latest discovery of the Procter & Gamble experts, makers of famous Ivory—the New and Improved OXYDOL!

It does 3 things no other soap can do or has ever done:

Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. Hence, gives you your afternoon free!

Gets clothes 4 to 5 shades WHITER, by the scientific whiteness-measuring Tintometer test. Whiter EVEN than other granulated soaps (heretofore considered "whitest washing") can do in TWO washings!

Yet, due to its utterly new and improved formula, colors won't fade; fabric won't wear out! Even cotton prints and children's dainty frocks are safe. Yet, despite its amazing cleaning power, it leaves hands soft and lovely.

It works without back-breaking rubbing. For it works by dissolving dirt—loosens it out in fifteen minutes soaking! So you never have to scrub and boil clothes clean.

Thick 3-inch Suds in Any Water

The New and Improved OXYDOL will make thick "soft water suds" in any water, hard or soft. Without added "softener" or washing preparations. This is why:

It is specially fitted to water conditions in each district where it is sold.

Water in this district, for example, has been tested for "hardness" by expert chemists. Hence, by special formulation, the OXYDOL you get has been "fitted" to it.

You can see the results in the suds. OXYDOL multiplies 500 TIMES in suds—suds as rich as whipped dairy cream! Which means at least twice as much "soap action" as from old-style soaps.

Equally important is the fact that OXYDOL, by dissolving completely, rinses out completely. Thus banishes "soap streaks" from ironing.

And OXYDOL is economical. In buying many ordinary granulated or flake soaps you may have to spend as much as 8% to 30% more to get the same amount of soap. By buying OXYDOL, you get, in some cases, as much as one-third more soap for the same money.

Make This Test

Get OXYDOL today from your grocer and make this two-way test: (1) With a ruler, measure OXYDOL's thick suds and compare with the suds made by your usual soap—note how long they last; (2) watch the clock to prove to yourself that OXYDOL does loosen dirt out in 15 minutes!

DUST STORMS MENACE CROPS

CHICAGO, April 27.—(AP.)—Black blizzards sweeping over the Middle West are menacing crops in huge areas of the "world's bread basket."

Dust or sandstorms are common events in many states west of the Mississippi River. However, vast clouds of flying dust recently have dimmed sunlight and cast a peculiar haze over many localities far east of the river.

Disastrous storms have been sweeping the wheat country, blowing dust and dirt for many miles, piling it up against snow fences until they were buried.

Eric Miller, federal meteorologist at Madison, Wis., attributes the "blizzards" to the past two or three years of drought. Strong winds are now picking up fine particles of soil pulverized by the hot sun. This dust, he said, falls when it becomes moist while traveling over areas where evaporation of lake, river or swamp waters is taking place.

Judge Admits Girls Know More Than He

Counsel for the plaintiff in a breach of promise suit had called the judges' attention to the many young people present, and asked that all persons be excluded.

JENNY DOLLY

DANCER STARS IN TAX CASE

PARIS, April 27.—(AP.)—Jenny Dolly, member of the American dance team of the Dolly sisters, yesterday made one of her rare public appearances since a motor accident in March, appearing in court to face charges of a failure to pay a luxury tax on a 4,000,000 franc (approximately $260,000) ring bought at Cannes in 1928.

The government demands a tax of approximately $32,500. At a recent auction sale of Miss Dolly's jewels, however, the ring brought only 1,625,000 francs—about $105,625.

The dancer, testified her secretary, who is now dead, was responsible for the entire transaction, taking the ring to England and bringing it back to France. Judgement was postponed for two weeks.

Untied Shoe Ends Violinist's Career

TORONTO, April 27.—(APP.)—An untied shoe lace has ended the career of John Langley, 27, as a promising young violinist.

Langley was practicing for a trap shooting contest when he tripped over the lacing and fell, discharging his gun.

The shot mangled the index finger of his left hand, the hand most important to a violinist.

Mrs. John Jennings, organizer of the new Courier Service, Inc., which "interprets New York to outlanders" and operate from Rockefeller Center, said there is nothing which furnishes quite the thrill to visitors from "points west" as being piloted about America's greatest city by a certified title.

The list of titled guides, said Mrs. Jennings, includes an entire Russian family, refugees obliged to earn their way. Other guides employed by Courier Service are Yale, Harvard and Sorbonne graduates who wear Phi Betta Kappa keys and can write Ph. D. after their names.

SPEAK UP, SISTERS

:-: Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance :-:

By MARION BRUNOT

Art, Wife Frowned Upon, Receives Acclaim

By MARION BRUNOT

He drew pictures, illustrating how he loved her, when he was courting her, years ago.

Pensive love ditties in pencil, no doubt. Cupids embarking on the river of tenderness. Pretty girl faces looking longingly up into stalwart men faces. Trysting by the brook and under the willow tree. And it seems wonderful! You and I would be ga-ga over it. Wouldn't we, sisters?

But she wasn't. Rather would she have had the real fat letter, written in lines close together, and ending with "love and lots of kisses," and maybe followed by x's and o's.

Miss Brunot

She was a practical sort. That enjoyed something tangible. And she knew the value, it is likely, of letters, ribbon-tied.

She married him, anyway. And now he is a middle-aged man, 58, if you please, and someone else, another woman, a big, important woman, has put approval upon his drawings. The new woman is none less than Mrs. Roosevelt. She wants to see more of this artist's work. She is going to manage that he be recognized.

Do you, sisters, go with me back over these years in between. The struggling years, the years when palette and brush swept up and down and over and across canvases. And the wife looking on, and wishing it were different.

The dismal years when often the little woman so envolved wished that palette was a shovel. Or longed to see the magic wand turn that brush into something really practical. Something that would supply the April bonnet. The June house dress. The summer bungalow by the lakes.

Perhaps she hadn't infinite faith in this man of hers. She hadn't the belief beyond all everyday realities, that the time would come when he would be great like Michael Angelo, like Orpin, like George Bellows.

She believed in what she could grasp, no doubt. She saw a thread weaving up and down a material only when that material was in her hands.

And so I wonder, were the two of them happy? Did they have enough of the grand passion to keep dark quarrel-clouds from lowering? Were there days of unbelief. Tension-times when everything was awry, and there were thoughts and things said that scarcely can be washed away now even that someone other woman, a bigger and wider-reaching woman, has recognized the man's ability.

UNBELIEF SHAMING

It is a shaming thing for anyone of us to fritter away our years in unbelief in someone near and dear. And then to have the laudation come from the other side of the fence.

It is a score against us, against our judgment, our wisdom, I might say, for some one of own family to plod along working in the attic or on the front lawn or slipping away for a two weeks' vacation, and sneaking in this time to do SOMETHING in which we see no FUTURE. And then suddenly, from somewhere maybe hundreds of miles away, the big booming voice comes in to us saying:

"Why, this man is a GENIUS. Where have you, you little two-by-four, been all this time?"

I wonder, sisters, if among those you hold near and dear, is one of those eager souls, laboring. "Just throw it away," you say at housecleaning time. And out goes John's or Mary's work, as if it were riff-raff. Talent in music, in dancing, in writing, in painting. These all are derided even in these wide-awake times. Because the pick and the shovel and the office routine and the job in the fields are all so much more tangible.

It was a great poet who said LIFE IS NOT LIGHT, BUT THE REFRACTED COLOR!

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am at my wit's end. I am 18 years old, good looking in a common way, intelligent, and popular with both sexes. Two years ago I was keeping steady company with a nice young man. Of course, we were both very young, but I was his first sweetheart.

COURTSHIP NOT MOONY

Ours wasn't a moony type of courtship, but he being further advanced in school than I, helped me with my lessons. And as we both were in the school swimming team, our time was spent beneficially to both. Now, for my real problem: In June the class gives a prom, and I want a handsome escort, and as this boy's countenance is anything but homely, I would like to ask him. I don't see any harm in doing so, do you, Miss Brunot?

My sister says I will give him the impression I am chasing him, since my last date with him was nearly 16 months ago.

I am looking forward to the publication of this.

Gratefully, FAITH.

By all means, Faith, call up this young man and ask him to the prom. I am sure he will be delighted to accept. No doubt your sister is saying what she does for your own good. Even so, I think her over self-conscious in your behalf. The reason you have not seen the young man, I am left to believe, is because he already has graduated, and is not with you in school. Outside of seeing you, I imagine, he will be eager to see the other younger pupils whom he knew. Wishing you all luck!

Miss Brunot will be glad to answer letters submitted to her by readers.

Fay King Charmed by Florists' Windows, City's Flower Gardens

By FAY KING

The florists' windows are the flower gardens of the cities.

We find them here and there in great canyons of steel and stone. Just as those who live in the country rejoice to find the seasonal blooms in their gardens, so do we of the cities rejoice to find them again in the florist's window.

Here we see the fine filigree of the tender fern unfurl. We see the rose, the lily, the marigold and pansy.

The florist's window is beautiful every day of the year, whether it is with the early buds of spring or the gay flowers and leaves of fall.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Don't Neglect Dog Bite No Matter How Slight

"Hydrophobia" or "rabies," as it is more commonly called, is primarily a disease of dogs. It is transmitted to humans by the bite of an infected dog. It is a tragic ailment and unless energetic measures are taken, it may result in a very serious disease.

Dr. Copeland

A recent investigation shows that since the depression more homeless dogs than ever are wandering around the country. This is discouraging news and really is of great concern to the health of every community. Homeless dogs are a menace to unsuspecting children and adults. No one will deny that the danger of hydrophobia is increased by this unfortunate circumstance.

Strange and stray dogs should be collected and given necessary food, shelter and hygienic care. Diseased dogs must be isolated and kept away from other pets and children. Of course, this is a harsh and often difficult measure, but accidents are all too frequent and the danger cannot be overstated.

Every dog bite should be suspected as having in it the menace of hydrophobia. The suspected dog should not be killed. Notify the health authorities who will take care of the dog, keeping it under observation to determine whether or not it is a victim of rabies.

In the meantime, the bite should be immediately cauterized. Do not be satisfied by simply applying an antiseptic. No antiseptic is sufficiently strong, and benefit is only derived by complete cauterization. This can be accomplished only by the careful application of fuming nitric acid.

If the dog shows suspicious symptoms or if special tests reveal the presence of rabies, the Pasteur treatment for the victim should be started at once. This method is the only means of preventing the development of hydrophobia. It has saved thousands and thousands of lives.

Unfortunately, many persons neglect dog bites, regarding them as unimportant. They treat the wound with mild antiseptics and neglect the proper attention. When this has occurred, the Pasteur treatment may be ineffective and the victim succumbs to an ailment that could have been prevented.

Hydrophobia has been known to mankind for many centuries. But it is only within the present century that man has been able successfully to combat the disease. Its occurrence today can in most instances be traced to unnecessary negligence and carelessness. It is hoped that more careful attention will be paid to this disease so that it may be eradicated eventually.

Mahogany should be washed with vinegar or cold tea.

Attach your latchkey to a small piece of rounded elastic, one end of which is sewn to the lining of your handbag. This will be found helpful when your hands are full.

Scorch marks on linen may be removed by rubbing with a freshly cut onion and soaking afterwards in a solution of cold water and a little peroxide of hydrogen.

To remove perspiration stains, soak the garment in water to which a teaspoon of ammonia has been added; then rub the stain with a freshly-cut lemon and wash thoroughly.

Guard Against Attempt on Life

As Philip Veritzen told Avis Arlen that it was utterly impossible for her to go to the hospital with those who were accompanying Dicky there, and that she must go back with him to her mother, I was reminded irresistibly of the old adage concerning the "iron hand in the velvet glove." The great theatrical producer's voice had lost none of its mellowness, was as gentle as that of the traditional "cooing dove;" but there was something hidden in it which completely conquered even Avis Arlen's stupendous effrontery.

She hesitated only the fraction of a second, then slipped her arm through his and smiled up at him with the coquetry which she shows to everything masculine.

"Of course, Uncle Phil," she said prettily, "your word is law with me."

"I am so sorry I can't go with you, doctor," she said sweetly, "but when Uncle Phil speaks, there is no one rash enough to dispute his decisions."

"So I see," the young man replied. "Never mind; another time."

He smiled at her, dropped her hand and was gone, hardly altering his stride the while. I saw by the faces of the others that I was not the only one to conjecture that the young medic was exceedingly grateful to Philip Veritzen for extricating him from a situation that might have proved exceedingly uncomfortable for him.

ASKS FOR MADGE

"Mrs. Graham, if you will go with your father in another car, then Mrs. Bickett will have plenty of room to care for Mr. Graham."

"You talk as if I were a bally baby, who had to have his bottle at a certain minute," Dicky grumbled, and at his intonation I lost all fear of anything save a possible injury to his arm. A person in danger of death, as I at first had feared my husband to be, could not speak in that irritated fashion.

"Madge goes with me," he went on, the obstinacy of a pampered child in his voice. "Katrina can sit on the other side of me if she craves my company. I don't care a tinker's dam where anybody sits or rides, so long as I have Madge close at hand."

I never have had a headier thrill than that which his words gave me.

"He needs me; he wants me!" my heart was singing so loudly that I did not at first hear the surgeon's instructions to me, and was jerked to my attention by my father's low voice saying "Listen, Margaret! The doctor is speaking to you."

"Oh! I am sorry," I said contritely, and the young surgeon patiently repeated his directions.

"If you'll just climb into the rear seat," he said, "so that you can be ready to steady him when we lift him in, it will minimize the chance of touching his arm. No," as I put my hand upon the car door, "the other side, please. Then you will not be next the wounded arm."

BESIDE HUSBAND

I was too happy to tell him that I had meant to slide over to the other side of the car, once I had entered it. I meekly walked around to the other side, climbed in, and in another minute felt the blessed burden of Dicky's body resting against me.

"If you'll climb in with Maj. Grantland, Mrs. Bickett," the surgeon said, "Mr. Spencer can come with me."

Hugh Grantland's voice struck in authoratitvely.

"Katherine! Is there room back there for you to sit without touching Dicky's arm?"

Katherine looked at the empty space critically.

"Plenty," she said laconically.

"Then please sit there," Hugh returned, "and Chief, I'd like to have you sit beside me. I'll explain later, Katherine."

"Then, or never, as you like," Katherine returned with a smile.

But I felt that I knew, without waiting for the explanation, that Hugh wished to have a woman on each side of Dicky, and my father beside himself, because he believed such an arrangement would deter even the half-crazed brain of Lee Chow, should he be planning any further attempt upon Dicky's life.

JUDGE SMITH TO CAMPAIGN FOR SHANNON

Judge Ralph H. Smith, leader of the Pinchot forces in Allegheny County, today said he would support Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, and "campaign in his behalf."

Coincident with the Smith statement, County Controller Robert G. Woodside, leader of the original Shannon group here, said his friends would pool their interests with Gov. Gifford Pinchot, candidate for the senatorial nomination against Senator David A. Reed.

Smith assailed Schnader, member of the Pinchot cabinet, because of his support by the Mellon-Grundy-Vare-Coyne alliance, and Woodside said that Pinchot like Gen. Shannon "is opposing further domination of the party by the combination of great wealth and special interests."

PINCHOT SPEAKS HERE

Merger of the Shannon-Pinchot forces preceded by only a few hours the mass meeting at North Side Carnegie Hall tonight, at which the Governor will make the first public speech of his campaign. Judge Smith will preside.

In his statement today Judge Smith said:

"When the Schnader candidacy passed under the banner and leadership of the Mellon-Vare-Coyne-Grundy combine it ceased to afford an opportunity for rehabilitation of the Republican party. That can mean only one thing—a glorification of the 'old deal' that has failed so miserably. Gen. Shannon has courage, integrity and ability that will make a good Governor and an able administrator. I shall support him and campaign in his behalf."

Woodside's statement read:

"The original forces in Allegheny County of the Shannon-for-Governor movement have decided to pool interests with Gov. Pinchot in his campaign for the United States Senate. This combination is a logical one, for Gov. Pinchot like Gen. Shannon is opposing further domination of the party by the combination of great wealth and special interests, which seek to elect a Governor of its own mould and selection.

HARRIS BACKS PINCHOT

Senator Frank J. Harris today announced for Pinchot, and will attend tonight's meeting. Harris said:

"I shall support Gov. Pinchot and do everything possible to help him in his campaign."

Harris, who is backing Attorney Charles J. Margiotti for the gubernatorial nomination, will take the stump for Pinchot next week.

County Treasurer Robert S. Cain, active in the Shannon movement, is scheduled to make a speech for the governor and on the platform will be other Shannon followers, including County Controller Robert G. Woodside and Recorder of Deeds Samuel D. Foster. County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, a veteran of Pinchot campaigns, and a bitter foe of Woodside in local politics, also will urge the nomination of the governor. He declared for Shannon earlier in the week.

UNEXPECTED LINEUP

The presence of this varigated assortment of political talent under one political banner is something no one ever expected to see.

Belated impetus has been given the gubernatorial campaign of former Congressman Thomas W. Phillips, of Butler. Randolph W. Childs, Philadelphia, who was active in the Butler campaign of 1930, has been named as state campaign chairman, and headquarters will be opened in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Harrisburg.

Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, will open a western tour Monday, starting in Pittsburgh. Tuesday he will be in Sharon, Farrell and New Castle; Wednesday, Westmoreland County, with a night meeting in Greensburg; Thursday, Washington county, with a night meeting at Eagles Hall, Washington; Friday, Pittsburgh, with night meetings at Peabody High School.

Ralph Marlowe, representative of Judge Bonniwell, in a statement today professed satisfaction with the progress of the campaign, predicting victory for the Philadelphia jurist.

KAUFMAN SUPPORTED

David E. Kaufman, Towanda, candidate for the Republican nomination as Lieutenant Governor, has been indorsed by Coroner W. J. McGregor. He said:

"I am glad to support and indorse the candidacy of David E. Kaufman. I know of his sterling record as a lawyer and as a United States minister both to Bolivia and Siam, and feel that he would add strength to the Republican ticket in the fall."

In Philadelphia 14 of the 21 members of City Council signed an indorsement of their Council president, Edwin R. Cox, as a candidate for Lieutenant Governor. William S. Vare is understood to lean to Kaufman. Many of Cox's supporters are expected to swing to Shannon because of an alliance formed between the two candidates Wednesday.

PROPOSES TAX TO AID SCHOOLS

Urging a tax on chain stores to aid school districts now unable to pay teachers, Attorney Alexander Cooper is a candidate for State Senate in the Forty-fourth District.

A graduate of Harvard College and Pitt Law School, Cooper advocates a constitutional convention to pave the way for changes in our taxation system and for numerous social reforms.

He opposes the "pickling" of bills in committee, and proposes that the votes of committee members should be made public.

A tea in honor of Cooper will be held Monday at the Morrowfield Hotel. Mrs. Enoch Rauh, former Public Welfare Director

SOAP-SCULPTURE AT PEABODY HIGH . . . . THE WORK OF THE POTTERY, MODELING CLASS

Soap Sculpture Lauded In Peabody High Exhibit

Ceramic Guild Shows Work of 100 Pupils; Orchids in Order

By PENELOPE REDD

The Ceramic Guild of Peabody High School sponsored an exhibition of the work of the hundred students of the department at the high school yesterday.

Miss Byrd M. Neel, who teaches the group, had as a special feature an exhibit of sculpture done in soap, representing about 50 figures and the accompanying furnishings to illustrate the various activities of the pottery and modeling room.

Judging from experience of models from the day of Dwight Franklin's first miniature historical studies onwards, we have not seen one that is more cunningly fashioned than this group project of a hundred Peabody High School students.

Miss Neel has a remarkable record in her work with students. Despite the fact that none of her pupils receive more than two and one-half hours' work a week, she is next to the art technical school in Detroit and Pittsburgh in the number of items accepted for exhibition in the National High School Exhibition now on view at Carnegie Institute.

Out of a total of 20 ceramics items accepted for exhibition from doubtless 500 subjects submitted, Miss Neel's students have contributed 15. One of her students, William Green, was awarded second prize and four of the five honorable mentions were given to Burgin Digby, John Flodine, Gertrude Millan and Bernard Leff. This last student had such general superiority over his fellows that it was impossible to reconcile one judgment with that of the jury, since he seemed to deserve first place.

Miss Neel's other students to be represented in the National High School Art Exhibition in the pottery section are: Ernest De Luca, Anthony Ditrovati, Betty Gauld, William Koch, Chales Radi, Ruth Shepherd, Stephen Sumpter and Joseph Walker. She has also two students in the sculpture group: B. Eckert and John Flodine.

The work that Miss Neel has accomplished with the young people in her classes deserves not a single Walter Winchell orchid but a whole bouquet.

ELLENBOGEN'S HAT IN RING

Asking re-election to carry on the job of national recovery, Congressman Henry Ellenbogen, candidate in the Thirty-third District, today stressed his record as the basis of his platform.

Stating that the present session of Congress prevented his doing much campaigning here, Ellenbogan cited his sponsorship of a national system of old age pensions.

He said he devoted much time and effort to home loan legislation; unemployment relief with federal aid, including direct relief, and continuation of the Civil Works Administration instead of the Relief Works Division, and a real program of public works.

Inauguration of a campaign to finish the Cathedral of Learning and activity in bringing the C. W. A. and Public Works Administration funds to the city and county were also cited.

2 CANDIDATES TO HOLD RALLY

A mass meeting and parade for Candidates Harold Lavine and Arduino Bove, for Legislature in the First District, will be held at 8:30 this evening at Fifth Avenue High School.

Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence heads the list of speakers. Others are Councilman John J. Kane, Prof. Marion K. McKay, Primo Columbus, Alexander Schullman, Frank Nerone and Arthur I. Zeiger, running for Congress, Thirty-second District.

It is useless to attempt beneficial social legislation without a revision of the State Constitution, according to Tom Mooney, candidate for Legislature in the Sixth District.

Mooney, in a statement, struck against "ox-cart government," which he said was perpetuated by antiquated state laws.

SWEENEY TALKS AT 3 MEETINGS

John B. Sweeney, president of the Allegheny County Democratic Club and candidate for Democratic county chairman, will speak tonight at meetings in Elks Temple, Homestead; Dixon High School, Schoyer avenue, and Carnegie Library, Braddock.

Others who will address the gatherings are State Senator Henry L. Snyder, candidate for Lieutenant Governor; Maj. E. Lowry Humes and Clarence C. Klein.

Sweeney will speak tomorrow night at the Wilkinsburg Independent Democratic headquarters, Penn avenue and Hay street, Wilkinsburg. Other speakers will be Mrs. Annettee Johnson, candidate for Democratic vice county chairman; Jacob Thomf and Arthur Neuburger.

NEW DEAL NEAR IN CITY PARK CONCESSIONS

A new deal has arrived in the city park concessions and with it a campaign to collect more than $8,500 owed the city by former concessionaires, including Michael DeRosa, Republican chairman of the Twelfth Ward.

The city records show that DeRosa owes $4,600 in rentals on various privileges, including the lake concession at Highland Park and refreshment stands in Schenley Park, at Willow Grove, the buffalo pens and Washington boulevard.

Public Works Director Leslie M. Johnston said he intends to send itemized accounts of the arrears of DeRosa and nine other concession holders to the city solicitor for collection.

Among others who are listed as behind with rent are Frank Petrolia, who had the refreshment stand at the golf course, Schenley Park, and Harry E. Sable, who operated the Brilliant Barbecue, Highland Park.

Two new concessionaires have been named by Director Johnston. M. J. Gallagher, of 4616 Fifth avenue, has been awarded stands at the lake, band stand and merry-go-round in Schenley Park. Joseph M. Slater, of 7032 Hamilton avenue, will succeed Petrolia at the golf house.

Six stands are to be eliminated entirely, according to Director Johnston. These include the Brilliant Barbecue, De Rosa's Washington boulevard concession, and stands at Willow Grove, one in Schenley Park, and concessions at McKinley Park and West Park.

M'Kay Challenges Primary Opponents

Marion K. McKay, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Thirty-second District, today challenged his primary opponents to state their political affiliations prior to the 1932 national election. McKay pointed out that of 17 candidates in the Democratic primary, only three were running on the one ticket.

He said that the selection of able men for Congress is as important as the selection of a Governor. The President, he said, needs Congressmen who can act as counsellors rather than mere followers. Qualifications rather than group affiliations of the candidates, should actuate the voters in their choice, he said.

Three Polls Moved By Bureau Orders

Pittsburgh — Twenty-sixth Ward, Fourteenth District, from 1913 Rhine street to the South Side Avenue Public School; Bellevue, Second Ward, Second District, from 619 Monroe street to 539 Monroe street; Wilkinsburg, Second Ward, Fifth District, from 832 Rebecca street to 744 Rebecca street.

Presidents Often Best Salesmen

By B. C. FORBES

AN ALERT business man who is always on the lookout for new ideas new things, new methods, visited the Burlington's new streamlined train in New York. He was much impressed.

Mr. Forbes

After being shown all its novel features, he reached the end car, where he found a man doing a very effective "selling job." Impressed by his personality, his persuasiveness, his ability, my friend wanted to learn his identity.

"I found," he tells me, "that it was Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad."

Ralph Budd, who climbed to the presidency of the Great Northern at an age when most railroaders are filling subordinate positions, has always had an eye to business, always been enthusiastic to make converts to his road. Learning years ago, that I was on one of his trains, he met me at St. Paul, rushed me into an automobile, showed me the home of James J. Hill and other landmarks of St. Paul and Minneapolis, and whisked me to the latter station in time to rejoin the train.

BUSINESS SUCCESS, as I see it, is going to depend more and more hereafter upon superlative salesmanship.

One reason why Henry Ford has dropped to third place in the automobile world which he once toweringly dominated, is that he could not be convinced by associates that it was necessary, after evolving the right kind of product, to devote tremendous energy to selling it. "If the car won't sell itself, it doesn't deserve to sell," was his attitude.

How different a policy General Motors has followed. And Chrysler. The first time I met Byron C. Foy, Chrysler's son-in-law, who is a veritable sales dynamo, Chrysler admonished me: "Button up your pockets, or this young man will sell you a car right here in my office."

INCIDENTALLY, how many companies, would you guess, were called upon to supply the materials entering into the new streamlined "zephyr?" No fewer than 116.

In my humble opinion, we are about to witness as thoroughgoing a transformation in railroading as the motion picture industry has undergone in jumping from silence to sound.

THIS COLUMN recently revealed that business leaders, absolutely silent heretofore under the New Deal, were getting ready to speak out. A. P. Sloan, president of General Motors, stepped forward yesterday and spoke thus:

"It is one thing to pool willingly our resources for economic recovery, and quite a different thing to be willing to sacrifice possibly those same resources to force fundamental changes of permanent character in the manner of our lives, the outcome of which not one of us can visualize with any assurance.

"We should be guided primarily by the principle that our progress is measured solely by the advancement in well-being. . . . If we accomplish that result, all other considerations will constructively effect their own readjustment.

"England enjoyed in 1933, not only the biggest year in its history, but a year which exceeded the best of all other years by over 25 per cent.

"I find myself entirely out of harmony with the thinking so prevalent that the hours of labor should be reduced to absorb our unemployment.

"If we could only instil in the minds of all that we were not at the end but at the beginning of our development there would result a tremendous broadening of our vision and an appreciation of the vast opportunities that are before us.

"The history of industry conclusively demonstrates that, left to his own individual judgment, the American workman has in general decided that his interests are outside of a national union rather than inside one.

"As our economic strength increases, I should like to see a relaxation of the restrictions and a curtailment of those things that we have accepted, rightly or wrongly, as the desirable and necessary instrumentality for industry recovery."

You are going to see many outspoken expressions from fillers of pay envelopes from now on.

STOCK MARKET FINAL TONE STEADY

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP.)—There were a few firm spots in today's stock market, but the list, as a whole, backed and filled without getting anywhere in particular. A fair rally in commodities failed to create any noticeable enthusiasm and dullness ruled throughout the session. The close was steady and transfers approximated 850,000 shares.

Silver futures came back ½ cent or more an ounce and the bar metal was pushed up ½ cent to 43 cents. Rubber established new high marks for the past four years following reports that a restriction agreement was soon to be announced abroad. Wheat recovered about 1 cent a bushel on crop damage news. Cotton also improved substantially. Bonds were irregularly lower. International dollar rates were narrow.

A few of the oils, gold mining shares and specialties moved up, but small fractional changes were in the majority. The public still remained aloof and floor traders accounted for most of the business that appeared. The news was fairly optimistic, but Wall street apparently was waiting for more stimulating developments.

A contra-seasonal increase of 10,616 freight car loadings for the week ended April 21, was a trifle under previous estimates, but was still highly satisfactory to proponents of recovery. The gain was principally in miscellaneous shipment. The seasonal rise shoud have been between 4,000 and 5,000 cars. The total of 589,453 was up 92,941 over the same 1933 week and 26,926 above the corresponding period of 1932.

Although the compromise reached between railway managers and union officials virtually "freezing" the wage situation until May 1, 1935, was viewed as highly constructive, guesses on the increased cost to the carriers for 1934 ranged between $15,000,000 and $25,000,000, depending on the volume of business.

On the other hand, transportation students pointed out that the roads are saving $60,000,000 to $75,000,000 by not having to restore the entire old wage rate as of July 1. What the cost of a general strike to the carriers would have been was a debatable question. If the current traffic trend continues throughout the year it was thought that the advanced payrolls could be absorbed without much difficulty.

Steel scrap prices have recently been causing some concern to trade analysts. Scrap rates at Pittsburgh now are around 75 cents a ton under the year's high and have slipped somewhat at other centers. Scrap movements were being watched closely for a clue to what may be anticipated for the third quarter in the steel industry. It was recalled that the sharp rise in scrap, which began in February and continued well into March, forecast the upturn in steel operations generally.

COTTON CLOSES STEADY, UP

NEW YORK, April 27.—A considerable volume of overnight selling orders was absorbed on a slight decline at the opening of the cotton market today and prices later rallied on trade buying and covering. The advance met sufficient liquidation to cause some irregularity, but offerings became lighter during the afternoon with July selling up to 11.07 or about 15 points net higher and 21 points above the low or yesterday.

Futures closed steady, 18@27 higher. May, 11; July, 11.11@11.13; October, 11.27@11.28; December, 11.39; January, 11.45; March, 1.54. Spot quiet; middling, 11.15.

CAR LOADINGS GAIN 10,616

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Loadings of revenue freight during the week ended April 21 totaled 589,453 cars, an increase of 10,616 cars over preceding week and an increase of 92,941 cars over the corresponding week in 1933. Loadings were also 26,926 cars ahead of the like 1932 week, according to American Railway Association.

Montgomery Ward Management Wins

CHICAGO, April 27.—(AP.)—The Montgomery Ward management was given its full slate of directors at the annual stockholders' meeting today despite the determined proxy fight by a minority group.

Sewell Avery, president of Montgomery Ward & Co., said mail order sales for the first 25 days of April were 58.9 per cent ahead of a year ago.

Mr. Avery stated that while prices are higher his own deduction is that business is improving and unit sales steadily increasing.

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Rout By Cards Unusual.
Favorite Prey of Fues.
Big Lead in Five Years.
Heavy Loss to Giants.
Holy Cross to Rebuild.
Penn Relays Take Stage.

It isn't often that the Cardinals make such a show of the Pirates as they did behind the excellent pitching of Bill Hallahan yesterday. That offers the hope that the Gibsons will get going again at once, in spite of their patched-up condition, for instead of indicating the beginning of a Pittsburgh slump the debacle may have meant only that the old law of average was asserting itself. Having previously won only one game this season, the Redbirds were due to beat somebody, and on the records they were overdue to trim the Pirates.

Bill Hallahan

For as a general rule, if the Rovers had only the Cardinals to beat, winning the pennant would be a romp. The St. Louis club in four of the last five seasons has been the softest picking in the league for the locals. In only one year during that stretch did the Corsairs fail to win the season's series, the lone exception having been 1931, when they were nosed out 12 games to 10. In the four other years, the Picaroons waxed fat on a Cardinal diet. In 1929, they won the series, 16 to 6; in 1930, 13 to 9; in 1932, 14 to 8, and again last year, 14 to 8. This spring the locals are leading again, three games to two. Counting in the final two contests of 1928, the Bucs have trounced the Redbirds 72 times in their last 117 meetings, against only 45 defeats, a percentage of .615 for more than five years of competition. There isn't much room to grumble about yesterday's slip.

LOSS OF PARMELEE HARD BLOW TO GIANTS

The pennant chances of the Giants are hit hard by the loss of Pitcher Leroy Parmelee, who underwent an operation yesterday for appendicitis. Probably it will be weeks before Parmelee can attempt to pitch again, and as he is a hurler who cannot work easily, but must bear down hard all the time, and besides is inclined to wildness for a long period after a spell of inaction, his form may be affected for the entire season. New York will be forced to desperate measures to get another pitcher.

It's a tough break for Bill Terry and his world champions, as they depend mainly on their pitching for success, and on top of the loss of another flinger, Watson Clark, their famous Big Four is now reduced to a trio, upsetting the regular slab working order. The Giants were called lucky last year, but certainly fortune has not been smiling on them this spring, what with Clark, Gus Mancuso, Hughey Critz and now Parmelee lost to date.

REBUILDING BASEBALL AT HOLY CROSS

Holy Cross, the capital of college baseball, had an unusual experience last year. For the first time within memory, the school lost money in the diamond sport. The team wasn't so good, the weather was bad, and Capt. John J. McEwan stressed football so strongly that interest and activity swung sharply to the gridiron pastime. But this year, under the new athletic director, Thomas J. McCabe, Holy Cross is going in to re-establish itself as the leader of all colleges in baseball. Spring football practice was cut short, and Director McCabe has other ideas on keeping the students baseball-minded outside the classrooms and building up the game again to its former position.

Blondy Ryan

One of his ideas was to seek the cooperation of organized ball, and the major leagues have been quick to respond. The Braves and Red Sox readily consented to play exhibition games with the Purple in Worcester, and the Giants and Dodgers will arrange for visits later. Not only do the big league clubs allow Holy Cross to keep practically everything that comes in through the box office, but the games have the added value of keeping up baseball interest in the district.

SCHOOL SENDS MANY STARS TO BIG SHOW

The majors are glad to show in this way their appreciation of what Holy Cross has done for organized ball by sending up more good ball players than any other college in the country. It's an impressive list when you look back over it, Blondy Ryan, the present outstanding diamond representative of the school being only one of many stars developed since Sockalexis, the Penobscot Indian, headed the parade by joining the Cleveland National League club in 1897.

You could pick quite a ball club from among the Holy Cross products. Among the men sent to the majors, in addition to Sockalexis and Blondy Ryan, were Jack Barry, Joe Dugan, Bill Carrigan, Doc Powers, Andy Coakley, Owen Carroll, Freddie McGuire, Jack Flynn, Arnold Statz, Doc Gautreau, Rosy Ryan, Gene DeSautels, Jack Hoey, Bots Nekola, Chick Gagnon, Eddie Gill, Jim Shevlin and Hank Garrity.

RARE CLASS AND COLOR IN PENN RELAYS

There is even more class and color than usual in the field gathered for competition in the fortieth edition of the Penn Relays at Philadelphia today and tomorrow, and the army of 3,000 athletes, representing more than 500 colleges and schools, gives promise of some brilliant performances and possibly new records during the long program of 87 events. Ten members of the 1932 United States Olympic team and numerous national and intercollegiate track and field champions are on the entry list.

Gene Venzke

If Gene Venzke is ever going to do the turning-worm act against Glenn Cunningham, the Penn meet on Gene's home track offers about the best opportunity he will get. The rival one-mile runners are to clash again in one of the 12 special numbers, and while Venzke has defeated Cunningham only once in their long series of contests, and took another beating from the Kansas star last Saturday in the Kansas Relays at Lawrence, Gene's followers are nursing the hope that this may be the time when he will turn the tables with a flash of his form of two years ago, or at least force the Kansan to approach record time. Certainly, Venzke would appear to be capable of doing better than the 4:12.7 with which Cunningham beat him by 20 yards last Saturday. Early in 1932 Gene did 4:10 indoors.

Perhaps an even more thrilling race may develop in the sprint medley relay, the last leg of which will bring together Bill Bonthron, of Princeton, and Charley Hornbostel, of Indiana. On even starting terms, Bonthron would have the edge, but Indiana has a better balanced team than Princeton, and there is a strong possibility that Ivan Fuqua, running the 440-yard leg for the Hoosiers, will give Hornbostel such a comfortable lead in the final leg that Bonthron will have to run one of the greatest runs of his life to make up the deficit. Bill Keller, of Pitt wont' have much of a chance in the closing leg on account of that same probable Indiana lead.

PIRATES-REDS OPENER HERE CALLED OFF

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Wet grounds and cold weather prevented the opening battle of the three-game series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Cincinnati Reds at Forbes Field this afternoon.

The postponed game will be played off as part of a double-header on Saturday, August 11.

The wintry blasts of the past few days are not conducive to good baseball and certainly the fans will not turn out with football zephers blowing. It is fortunate for the Buccos that only a small crowd saw them yesterday as they staged their worst exhibition of the young season and lost, 10 to 1.

It might be better for all concerned to say little about the cold weather spectacle of yesterday. True, the wintry winds were just as fair for the Redbirds as for the home boys, but only a few days ago in St. Louis, the Pirates were on the laughing end of a similar sight that left Cardinal fans in much the same mood as that of Buccaneer followers today.

INFIELD LOOSE

It's the future that counts with the Pirates and right at the present time that is none too rosy. The Pirate infield besides being much too quiet is rather loose; the outfield is becoming uncertain with Lloyd Waner already in a batting slump; Catcher Art Veltman is slow in getting the hang of things, especially at the plate, and the pitching staff is the same hit-and-miss proposition it was one year ago. Now there are sufficient "ifs" and "buts" to concern all of us.

Therefore, while checking off the debacle of yesterday to profit and loss, the average Pirate fan has cause to be doubtful as to what the future will bring.

Bob O'Farrell, new pilot of the Reds, brought his team here from Chicago this morning. The Rhinelanders, with Jim Bottomley doing the home-run honors, stemmed the rush of the Cubs yesterday.

SUPPORT POOR

Southpaw Ralph Birkofer pitched great ball against the Redbirds through six rounds yesterday, but the recruit's support was of the push-league variety and he eventually collapsed under the strain. The Cards made two undeserved runs in the early rounds and Birky was matching his skill effectively with Bill Hallahan, who allowed only six hits.

The Buccos scored their one run cleanly in the fourth. The Cards moved to put the game on the ice in the seventh after Lindstrom's fumble of Pepper Martin's single had allowed the Wild Horse

YAROSZ BOUT REWARD IF ANSON WINS

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Anson Green, Homestead Negro middleweight puncher, goes into the testing laboratory tonight, when an army of fans will assay him as he steps through a scheduled 10-round bout—his first windup—against Ben Jeby, of New York, former middleweight champion of the world, in Motor Square Garden.

The fans want to know whether they are right or wrong in assuming that Green is ready for a greatly-ballyhooed meeting with Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, the well-known uncrowned champion of the 160-pounders. It is a stiff test they are serving up to Anson, and, if he comes through in good fashion, the big plum is assured for him at Forbes Field this summer.

Jimmy Vaughn

Green's main asset is a heavy, sleep-inducing punch in either fist. The fans raved when he put Danny Hassatt, of Philadelphia, on the floor twice in the semi-final to the Yarosz-Jimmy Smith bout in the same ring, and later when he stopped Al Rossi, of Newark, N. J., in a punch at Duquesne Garden, after Rossi had gone 10 rounds with Yarosz in Newark. In between they saw him lose a 10-round decision to Tommy Rios, twice beaten by Yarosz.

Jeby fought a corking 12-rounder against Yarosz the night Green stopped Rossi, and, with his greater experience, will enter the ring the favorite to defeat the district star tonight. He will have to be on his guard every second against the Green haymakers, delivered with equal effect at long range and in close. It was in a semi-clinch that Anson brought up a short left hook which spelled finis for Rossi.

Christner Victor Over Lloyd Clements

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., April 27.—Myer (K. O.) Christner, of Akron, O., defeated Lloyd Clements, of Pittsburgh, in the 10-round main bout here last night. The decision was close, with Clements being the aggressor throughout.

CUBS SUFFER FIRST DEFEAT AS PHILS GET INITIAL WIN

ANSON GREEN

BEN JEBY

The most-talked-about fighter in Pittsburgh these days, as a result of an attempt by promoters to rush him into a match with Ted Yarosz, Green tonight faces the acid test in meeting Ben Jeby, a former world middleweight champion, in his first main bout, at Motor Square Garden. Jeby recently gave Yarosz a hard fight in Duquesne Garden, but many of the fans are counting on Green's punch to knock him out. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

REDS CAPTURE FIRST VICTORY OVER BRUINS

Associated Press.

With the first failure of a Cub starting pitcher to go the route, Chicago's seven-game winning streak that opened the National League season in sensational style has come to an end. And, oddly enough, the only flinger who has pitched consistent ball for the Phillies wound up that club's seven-game string of defeats at the same time.

The Cubs met their waterloo yesterday facing the Cincinnati Reds, a former "jinx" which had been thoroughly dissipated by five beatings so far this season. Charley Root ran into a streak of wildness in the second and had to give way to Bud Tinning, but even then it took a ninth-inning homer by Sunny Jim Bottomley with one on to earn Cincinnati a 5-4 victory. Previously Chuck Klein had walloped his fourth homer to help Chicago take the lead.

Fidgety Phil Collins, who had held the New York Giants to four hits in his first start, came right back at them with a five-hitter to pitch the Phils to their first triumph, 3-2.

Pitching also dominated the other two National League games as the Boston Braves turned back Brooklyn, 2-0, in a duel between old Tom Zachary and young Emil Leonard, in which each allowed six hits, and Bill Hallahan's six-hit flinging aided the St. Louis Cardinals in a 10-1 triumph over Pittsburgh. Spud Davis' homer in the seventh with two on ended a flinging argument between Hallahan and Ralph Birkofer.

A big shakeup at Washington, which brought a 10-7 victory over the Boston Red Sox, furnished the high spot of the American League's three-game program. Manager Joe Cronin benched Ossie Bluege, Buddy Myer and Johnny Stone in favor of Cecil Travis, Bob Boken and Sheriff Dave Harris, and came up with a combination that scored eight runs in the first two innings and pounded four flingers for 15 hits.

Vic Sorrell's expert five-hit hurling and some timely hitting by Hank Greenberg gave Detroit's Tigers a 2-to-1 triumph over the White Sox and sent them back into first place. A pair of rookies, Joe Cascarella and Frank Hayes, led the Athletics to a 3-to-2 victory over the Yankees. Cascarella pitched three-hit ball after relieving Roy Mahaffey in the fifth.

The Cleveland-St. Louis encounter was rained out.

RELAY MEETS ON AT PENN AND DRAKE

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—(AP.)—Headed for whatever the athletes' god of fortune has in store, collegiate cinder path aces today began the annual invasion battle of the twenty renewal of the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival.

An army of 3,000 from more than 500 institutions who will do battle on track and field in the two-day athletic meet.

DRAKE MEET OPENS

DES MOINES, Ia., April 27.—(AP.)—Fair weather and a colorful entry list combined today to honor Maj. John L. Griffith, founder of the event, upon the silver anniversary running of the Drake relays.

Relay officials predicted the largest opening day crowd in the 25 years of the classic, as 3,000 athletes from 17 states made ready to assault the records.

Among the outstanding performers are nine men who hold 18 national championships, and it is from them observers expect the major assault on the records.

Honus Says:

By HONUS WAGNER

To the Sports Editor: Wouldn't it be tough if we still had the pony express and no telegraph or newspapers? It would be July before we found out what the opening day scores were.

There's probably a lot of things to beef about the past few years, but there's a lot to be thankful for. Whenever you're feeling low just think how much worse off you could be. Say you're only batting .250 in your business. Well, just think of the poor chaps who are striking out every time they come to the plate.

Regards,
HONUS WAGNER.

STATE OPEN TOURNEY DATES SHIFTED

WOMEN'S CARD FOR SEASON ANNOUNCED

By TOM BIRKS

The Pennsylvania State open golf tournament, originally scheduled for June 11 and 12, will be played at the Oakmont Country Club July 19 and 20 instead. This announcement was made last night by George Flinn, president of the P. G. A.

With many of the leading lights of the golf world due to be on the high seas en route to Great Britain and the British open about the time the tournament originally was scheduled, the state officials decided to shift the dates.

Denny Shute was one of the stars who informed President Flinn that it would be impossible for him to compete in the state tourney in June, inasmuch as he is scheduled to sail for England June 13. Other stars found themselves in the same fix.

PRO TOURNEY JULY 24

With the National Professional Golfers' Association championship slated to get under way at Buffalo July 24, it is believed that the shift in dates will make it possible for a strong field to participate.

The Valley Heights Country Club will hold its inaugural program tomorrow, golf, a dinner and entertainment figures to attract a large number of members and prospective members. Ted Luther is making arrangements to show the boys a good time.

The first smoker of the season at the Chartiers Heights Country Club was held last night. A banner turnout of members put in an enjoyable evening. The Greensburg Country Club held its opening yesterday, Perry Del Vecchio reports.

CARDS ARRANGED

Mrs. Chester H. Lehman, president of the West Penn Women's Golf Association, has announced the schedule for the annual team match competition and one-day tournaments. The first tourney will be held at Allegheny May 29 and the first team match May 17. The schedules follow:

May 29, at Allegheny; July 9-10, medal play at Westmoreland; July 19, at Butler; July 27, four-ball match play at Pittsburgh Field Club; August 8, at Greensburg; August 21, at Longue Vue; August 30, at Fox Chapel; September 21, four-ball match at Edgewood; September 27, at South Hills; October 26, annual meeting at Pittsburgh Field Club.

TEAM MATCHES

May 17, Section I at Oakmont, Section II at Longue Vue; May 22 Section I at Butler, Section II at Youghiogheny; May 25, Section I at Westmoreland, Section II at Highland; June 6, Section I at Allegheny, Section II at St. Clair; June 11, Section I at Edgewood, Section II at Shannopin; June 26, Section I at Pittsburgh Field Club, Section II at South Hills; June 28, Section I at Fox Chapel, Section II at Pittsburgh Country Club.

Owing to unfavorable weather conditions, the ladies' opening invitation tournament of the season at Churchill Valley today has been postponed until next Thursday. Luncheon at 12:30 and 18 holes of golf in the afternoon will be the program.

THE GAME OF SOFTBALL

—What It's All About—

This is the sixth installment of a series on the rules of softball being published in connection with a district amateur tournament which the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will conduct this summer, the winner of which will represent Pittsburgh in the national tournament in Chicago in September. Players are urged to clip and preserve the series.

RULE 11—Dead Ball

1—A dead ball is any pitch which strikes a batter standing in his box, provided he has not struck at the ball, nor intentionally permitted it to hit him. A dead ball shall be called a ball, and a batter shall not take his base unless such a ball is the fourth ball.

2—Base runners cannot advance on a dead ball unless forced to do so if the batter receives a base on balls.

RULE 12—Block Ball

1—A block ball is a thrown or batted ball which is stopped, touched or handled by any person not engaged in the game. Base runners may advance one additional base on a block ball, the advance to be determined by the base last occupied by such runner before the block occurred, except on an overthrow as provided in Rule 21, Article 5.

RULE 13—Illegally Batted Ball

1—An illegally batted ball is a fair-hit ball batted by the batsman when either or both of his feet are on the ground outside of the lines of the batsman's box. In such case, the batter is out.

2—If a batter is called out for an illegally batted ball, no base runner can advance, and if he has left his base he may return without penalty of being put out.

Holdout Ferrell Under Suspension

CLEVELAND, April 27.—(AP.)—Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, made no comment today as Wesley Ferrell, the club's pitcher holdout, was suspended under the rule which automatically suspends any player who does not report to his club within 10 days after the season opens. He said simply:

"We had nothing to do with the suspension and have not talked to Ferrell or heard from him in months."

At his home in Greensboro, N. C., Ferrell said he doesn't intend to do anything about the suspension until May 15 "when I'll be on the voluntary retired list for the year."

Ferrell has refused to accept the $5,000 salary offered to him this year by the Cleveland club. To become reinstated, he must appeal to the club, the league and to Commissioner K. M. Landis.

Swetonic Goes On 'Retired' List

Pitcher Steve Swetonic, returned by the Boston Braves to the Pirates and sent by the latter to the Albany Club, of the International League, to which he refused to report, has requested that he be placed on the involuntary retired list. He is suffering from a nerve condition in his pitching hand which he believes will respond to a rest period.

If Steve recovers he will apply for reinstatement. He remains the property of the Pirates.

CAPTAIN ELECTED

John Lutz, star Arnold school pitcher, has been elected captain of the school's baseball team for this year. He also is captain-elect of the football squad.

GREEN FACES BIG TEST

most spectacular fighter in the local rings these days. He is also the best club-fighter we have. None too fast in his movements about the ring, he strikes with lightning deadliness. His penchant for draping his opponents on the floor has earned for him the sobriquet of the "Black Destroyer." He will be ably seconded tonight by his manager, Dan Clark, and Frank Klaus, former middleweight champion.

The men weigh in at 160 pounds, give or take a pound, at 3 o'clock this afternoon. This is an easy poundage for the Homesteader. Yarosz will be at the ringside to get a line on Green.

AMATEURS TURN PRO

Dominic Mancini, local lightweight, boxes Jimmy Vaughn, of Cleveland, in the 10-round semi-final. Elmer Wilson and Johnny Durso are in a six-rounder and Johnny Birek meets Ray Eberle and Ralph Gizzy, brother of Battling Gizzy, opposes Harry Krause in two four-rounders. Gizzy, Krause and Eberle will be making their first local starts as professionals, after serving amateur apprenticeships.

BIG NIGHT FOR M'GIRR

Jim McGirr, the McKeesport promoter, had better draw some $2,000 or so for his Joey Bazzone-Tiger Joe Randall return bout seller next Monday night or he'll be a very disappointed man. He's ordered a lot of extra chairs to cover the entire floor space and fixed up his gallery and says that the interest suggests a return of boom times for his arena.

Jake Goldstein, former manager of boxers around Braddock, is reported about ready to take over the Meyers Bowl for boxing purposes. A former local newspaperman, it is said, will be associated with him.

P. T. A. DIVIDES LEAGUE INTO THREE PARTS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

For the first time in perhaps two decades, the Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League this summer will consist of three sections instead of the usual two. The radical solution to problems arrising from the addition of new teams and desire on the part of the officials to equalize the competition to a greater extent than has been the case during the past several years was reached at special conclave of the P. T. A. executive committee at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club yesterday.

The original plan, released a fortnight ago, was to split the first division of the loop into two groups. As the roster shaped up, however, this did not prove feasible, the result being that, instead of a large top circuit, with upper and lower brackets, and a sizable second division cavorting as a unit, there will be found in action when the campaign gets under way late next month a trio of graded sections labeled Divisions A, B and C and boasting five, six and seven entrants, respectively.

According to the announcement of President Bob Schmertz, Division A will be composed of P. A. A., Stanton Heights, University Club, Rockwood and Westmoreland Country Club; Division B will comprise College Avenue, Westinghouse, Stanton Heights No. 2, Rockwood No. 2, Belmont and Washington Heights, and Division C will line up with Westinghouse No. 2, Emsworth, Minnetonka, College Avenue No. 2, Consolidated Canoe Clubs, Edgewood and Westmoreland No. 2.

Assurance that Westmoreland, sponsored by Fred Weil and the veteran Elias (Sunny) Sunstein, will be in the milling was given definitely last night after a meeting of the W. C. C. board.

It likewise decided at yesterday's session that the P. T. A. one-night doubles tourney and buffet supper, staged so successfully last spring, will be repeated at the Pittsburgh Golf Club during May.

The executive crew of the racquet body gather again on May 12, at which time the league playing rules will be redrafted and probably revised.

In the varsity court realm, Pitt was scheduled to meet West Virginia at Morgantown today, but the match was postponed because of cold weather and wet courts. Tomorrow the Panthers visit Bethany. In the meantime, Washington and Jefferson travels to Bethany this afternoon. On the morrow the Presidents will busy themselves with Geneva at Beaver Falls, while Duquesne opens the local college campaign by striving to stave off invaders from Grove City.

PIRATES-REDS GAME OFF

of the Osage to complete the circuit of the paths. Later in the inning Spud Davis solved the troubled Birkofer for a three-run homer that took the game out of the doubtful stage.

Leon Chagnon, on the slab in the eighth, wild-pitched a run over, and the Cardinals had a batting jubilee at the expense of Hal Smith in the ninth. They walloped Hal for a triple, a double and two singles to score three safety runs. So the ladies, sad to relate, had little to cheer about in their first holiday of the new season.

Chillysauce

Lloyd Waner has not made a hit in his last 11 trips to the plate. Lloyd still wears a bandage to protect his stone bruise of the hand. If he doesn't swing into a better stride soon, he may be rested with Jensen doing center field duty.

Birkofer and Hallahan—the two fastest southpaws in the National League to the point of speed. Moreover, each is fortunate in owning a fast curve ball. The Pirate recruit was swapping punches evenly with Binghampton Bill when the crash came.

Vaughan started the Pirates the wrong way when he fumbled Martin's grounder into a two-base error. Then after Rothrock had been retired, Arky and Lavagetto allowed the Wild Horse to get a long lead and he swiped third. It is a bit strange that none of the Pirates in the dugout could discern what Pepper was up to. If they did they failed to get either of the two kids to act.

When Scoops Carey starred for the Pirates he had a yen for swiping the hot corner with one out. It is a winning play. Carey pulled it on Walter Johnson in the last game of the World Series in 1925.

Capt. Traynor batted for Leon Chagnon in the eighth and came through with a smoking single to right. Frank Frisch made a diving stop of the ball. Frisch seems to be better than he has been in several seasons.

Bill Klem, rated by many veterans as the game's greatest umpire over a stretch of 25 years, is back on the job looking fresher than ever. Years mean nothing in Bill's young life. He is as spry as a rookie.

Despite all the instruction he has had, Vaughan finds it hard to get the jump on the ball. He was leaning the wrong way twice yesterday as hot smashes were cracked in the opposite direction. Any of them will be fooled occasionally, but so if the crack hitter and runner has failed to pick up this important point. And that is why a slow runner like Thevenow will cover more ground around short than the speedy Vaughan.

Spud Davis, home-run hero of yesterday's game, is having a hard time acquainting himself with his new surroundings after having been in the jug with the Phearless Phils all these years. Said Spud:

The St. Louis boys tell a nifty on Bill which developed during the games in the Florida Grape Fruit circuit. A casual acquaintance of Sir William shouted from the stands informing Bill that a fan in the same box had just paid Bill a big compliment. Klem heard the sally, but said nothing. The noisy one again yelled to Bill to tell him about the other fan's remark. Bill turned around and addressing the first fan shouted:

"Well, what's so unusual about that?"

STOEFEN LOSES TO VAN RYN

HOT SPRINGS, Va., April 27.—(AP.)—In one of the season's biggest upsets, John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, defeated Lester Stoefen, of Los Angeles, the nation's third ranking amateur, 10-8, 9-11, 6-0, 6-4, today in the semi-finals of the Virginia state tennis tournament.

The two stars battled on spectacularly even terms for two sets which they divided, but Stoefen weakened in the third and although he rallied in the final set the Philadelphian, ranked twelfth nationally and not a candidate for the Davis Cup team, had too much power for the Pacific Coast player.

Landini Stopped By George Bittner

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER LV.

"Are you still working?"

"Yes. Make a sandwich, will you?"

"Can you wait till I change my dress?"

With a little uplifting joy, Pippin went into her room, put the beautiful orchids in a bowl of water and got into one of the gay, gaudy kimonos Bill had brought. It was purple, lined with blue and embroidered in all shades of the two colors. She tied the wide sash in the Japanese fashion, took one look at her reflection and thought: "No wonder Cho Cho San was lovely!"

She went to the door of her father's study and saw with shock he was alone.

She said with her voice flat: "What kind of a sandwich do you want? Would you like something to drink? Is Kevin gone?"

"Yes—we finished with the paper around 11. Kiven left then. He has to go to Los Gatos tomorrow morning—to the Carew's, you know."

"Oh!" said Pippin. "Well—I'll forage around and see what delicacies I can find."

Pippin made the sandwiches with great dispatch. She moved quickly to keep pace with the deep, gnawing ache in her mind. Spending Sunday with Jane Carew again! She was ready to weep because the light, tender movement when his lips whispered against her ear had meant so much.

Alone in her room, Pippin folded the kimono deftly. She knelt a while fingering the silks in the camphor wood chest. She was seeing Bill's face with the lips smiling but the brown eyes intent, questioning, a little sad.

Thinks About Love

"You're not listening to me, Pippin—you're off in a dream somewhere—I wish you'd come back."

She closed the chest and thought darkly: "Well—that's that! And that's all of that!"

She lay in bed, her thoughts centered about the ache in her heart. What is this strange, terrible, compelling power one human being exerts on another? Is it really nothing but a chemical attraction? And are the older people right? She had often heard them talk—with such sweet disdain. Young love! Nothing but a wild infatuation; an insane physical magnetism. It soon passes. Nothing remains; no companionship of the spirit, no community of interests. And of all the men in the world, the one who has this binding power on you, may be the least suitable as a life mate. Because you are madly attracted is no proof you should be attracted.

But this was too dismal, too calculating a view. Pippin didn't at all believe it. Older people forget. They look back, but memory is not the same as the living moment.

Yet that week she was very sweet to Gregg and she did not fight against the attraction Bill had for her. Every evening she went with him in the plane. Once he let her handle the wheel alone. When her eyes, beautiful with excitement, looked into his, he shouted: "Like it? What did I tell you? You'll be good at it! You'll be great!"

Thursday they were returning from an unusually long flight. Below them the rhythmic shore line of Monterey swept down from the vast rock cliffs of the Highlands past the deep pine forest to flare open on the bluest of blue bays.

"The most poetic spot in the world. Shall we stop off and have dinner? Be afraid flying home in the dark, Pippin?"

"Not afraid! Let's stop!"

Forced to Land

"Next week if you're game!"

She smiled and tried to make out the sand dunes. They were so glistening white. But even the high spray dashing on the rocks was but a momentary bubble that she half saw and half fancied she saw.

They sailed north, then eastward till they were over the valley and the rough, hulking mountains in the background of Livermore. The peaks were purple. Far out toward the sea a mist had gathered. The sunset sky was full of flowers that gradually fell to pieces, strewing petals of flame from the highest cliff to the far faint horizon line.

"Look out, Bill—all living color!"

He nodded. His face had a set, anxious look and he didn't take his eyes from the gauge.

"Engine's a bit hot. Don't worry!"

But she saw that he flew lower; they were circling about, and all the land below them had a wild, desolate aspect as though no human thing had ever traversed its gaunt, unfriendly reach.

She said nothing. She thought: "It's so lonely!" and her heart stretched a bit.

Bill took up again, making a wider circle. He flew down again, then went high. Pippin watched his profile. It seemed to grow thin, pale, grim.

Pippin Not Frightened

They came nearer. "Yes—an old road. I can make that!"

He came down slowly, gingerly, landing with a succession of jerks and bumps on the rough ground. He sat very quiet; then took out his handkerchief and wiped his face.

"Were you very frightened, Pippin?"

"No, I think I was sure you could handle it."

A light went over his face, but he had a spent look: "There might not have been a road—Landing in that field wasn't pleasant to contemplate."

Pippin gave a sudden, delighted laugh: "Did we really have a narrow squeak? And I didn't know it!"

"There'll probably be thrills enough yet."

They climbed out of the plane into an utter unmurmuring, echoless silence. The field stretched seeming miles to the right of the road. On the left the hills rolled upwards, tier after tier, till they shut away the sky. Not a house; nowhere the sign of human habitation.

"I can repair the feed line. But too much oil is lost. We can't fly back tonight. I think we better leave it—find some farm house before it gets too dark." He looked down into her white face: "Say something, Pippin—are you angry or what? It's really not my fault."

"I'm not angry at all. I'd like it, Bill. It's so all forgotten here. There's not a house in a thousand miles. I don't mind except for the fuss and all the explaining if we don't arrive till morning."

Search for House

"I'll get you back before that. I saw some houses, I think I can find them. The field is newly plowed. Some one must live within a few miles. You don't want to stay here alone while I look?"

"You might never find me again."

He took her hand in his. They started down the road. He leaned down and said as though he were happy: "I'd find you, Pippin. There's not a place on the earth or under it where you could hide and I not reach you. Don't you believe that?"

"Isn't that a house or a barn off there? Hurry!"

Bill took his flashlight, put his arm around Pippin and said encouragingly: "I really saw houses from the air, Pippin. They're around here somewhere."

"This is wild country, Bill. Sparsely inhabited. I have friends who have a ranch in these mountains. You can ride for days and not meet a soul."

Her voice had a lonely wistful note that made him say quickly, tenderly: "Don't be afraid, Pippin. I'm lucky—I always get out of a jam — always!"

The darkness grew into a thick, black wall that closed them in and except for the flicker along the road they might have been in the deep center of the earth. The road was filled with ruts, with great boulders and the snags of dead trees. Pippin kept stumbling.

"We've walked about five miles or 10, haven't we, Bill?"

"About three. It's rough going. You wouldn't want to rest a while and let me go on alone?"

"And have a mountain lion eat me? Or a rattlesnake?" She gave an impish laugh: "I'll take my chance with you, kind sir, and this shell-shot road."

"You won't be angry if I tell you I've never been happier in my life, Pippin? I'm only worried for one thing — that you may get in wrong there at the house and that you'll be afraid to fly again. You won't trust me any more."

"Yes, I will! I love the touch of danger. It will be more exciting than ever!"

But as the road went on and on, and now on both sides of them the hills closed in and all the world was one flat, unending black shadow, Pippin leaned wearily against the bank.

"Do you see lights anywhere, Bill?"

"Not yet. But we will."

"It gets darker—more blinding—"

But they went on. A twig snapped under her feet, then a little mound of pebbles scattered. The sharp sound cut a path of terror to her already overcharged mind.

Abruptly they came to a cliff. The road ended.

GEN. MERCER MORTALLY WOUNDED AT PRINCETON, N. J. (JAN. 3, 1777)

Washington, after capturing 1,000 Hessians at Trenton by his bold attack Christmas night (1776), slipped from the grip of the superior forces of British Gen. Cornwallis and January 3 attacked the British garrison at Princeton. Washington succeeded with a flanking movement, but too late to save his Gen. Mercer, who, unhorsed and refusing to surrender, was bayoneted.

Cornwallis moved in haste from Trenton to (New) Brunswick to protect the British ammunition stores; Washington withdrew with his exhausted troops to Morristown for winter quarters.

ANTHONY ORATES OVER MURDERED CAESAR—HIS SUCCESS, DEFEAT AT ACTIUM—JESUS'S BIRTH

Courtesy of F. B. Nightech (Elliot Story of the Greatest Nations)

Assassination of Julius Caesar (44 B.C.) drew Rome again into civil war. Octavian, Mark Anthony and Lepidus formed the Second Triumvirate; their armies defeated the republicans at Philippi, Macedonia, 42 B.C. Dividing the empire, Octavian ruled in Italy and the West, Anthony in the East, and Lepidus, until 36 B.C., in Africa.

The dissolute life of Anthony and his passion for Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt, brought him into conflict with Octavian, his brother-in-law. At Actium (31 B.C.) Anthony was defeated at sea, fled to Cleopatra pursued by the victor, who also dispersed his land troops. Anthony committed suicide; Cleopatra followed him. Octavian became sole ruler; in 27 B.C. he received the name Augustus (sacred).

During his reign "Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod, the King" (under Roman domination). Jesus' life, teachings and crucifixion have profoundly influenced all succeeding generations. (World History)

RADIATION—WAVE AND CORPUSCULAR THEORIES

Courtesy of John Wiley and Sons (Whitman: Household Physics)

Radiant energy was formerly thought to be vibration propagated by an elastic medium, the ether, which fills all space. J. C. Maxwell described (1873) radiation, also light, as electromagnetic wave disturbance propagated through space. The velocity was determined (Michelson, Newcomb) as about 3×10^{10} cm. (about 186,300 miles) per second. As different kinds of waves have different wave length, there must be so many waves per second that their length together should make 3×10^{10} cm.; hence wave length x frequency = 3×10^{10}.

Radiation with shortest wave length and most penetrating power was called cosmic rays, believed originated by atomic disintegration in interstellar space.

Max Planck (1900) stated, radiating energy — as light—is not emitted continuously but in bundles, discrete atomic quantities (quanta or photons), each retaining its individuality until absorbed by some obstruction (corpuscular theory of light).

Albert Einstein reconciled the wave and corpuscular theories of light assuming that the electro-magnetic field has no energy in itself but only directs the photons—"acts as a ghost field." The intensity of the field at a given point is only a measure or probability of finding there photons. Above left: the different types of radiations characterized by the boundaries of their wave length and corresponding frequencies. Above right: the visible rays, consisting of all colors of the rainbow, are enumerated according to color, wave length. (Chemistry)

THE BIRTH OF "OLD GLORY"

After a Painting by J. L. G. Ferris

Upon request of a Congressional commission, Mrs. Betsy Ross prepared a flag "Old Glory," which showed 13 stripes, alternately red and white, and 13 stars arranged in a circle in a blue field. Congress, June 14, 1777, decided this to be the flag of the United States.

Previously the colonists fought under different standards, one bore a rattlesnake in 13 pieces: "Join or Die." Later the rattlesnake was coiled, ready to strike: "Don't Tread on Me!"

The first British surrender graced by the "Stripes and Stars" was at Saratoga (Oct. 7, 1777).

With the widening of the Union, the flag was somewhat changed, Congressional act (1818) ordered a star added to the flag for each newly admitted state. Today's flag contains 13 stripes and 48 stars.

RIGID AIRSHIPS—MACON, WORLD'S LARGEST

Inspired by the idea of David Schwartz, whose aluminum airships were destroyed, Count Friedrich von Zeppelin started to construct a rigid airship (1898) in a floating shed on Lake Constance, near Friedrichshafen, the present site of the famous Zeppelin works. His design was developed and finally proved itself reliable and airworthy.

MOLLUSCOIDEA—EIGHTH PHYLUM

Molluscoidea, mollusc-like animals (about 2,000 species), have a tentacle-bearing ridge (lophophore) about the mouth. One class, the bryozoa, are small sessile animals, often forming a moss-like covering on rocks in water. Another class, the brachiopoda, have bivalve shells; they are important as fossils. An Overdose of Supervision

The astonishment of a peeled amendment being stripped from the national bulletins makes us wonder what happens to other laws.

Nobody can use all the codicils, postscripts and ordinances we publish every year. In our efforts to make everybody good we sew too fine a seam.

Early and reliable tourists like Robert Louis Stevenson and Dickens remarked on the avalanches of bills hammered out every session by our legislatures.

For the same ills we have many remedies. That's because there are 48 busy little state hives improving our shining hours. It results in many strange scenarios and curious twists.

Just the other day we read of a statesman sponsoring a bill making it a federal offense to hi-jack a Federal Reserve Bank.

We always thought it was a federal offense. But it seems not. Otherwise, that statesman wouldn't have bothered to report that spring morning when cherry blossoms were so beautiful on the Potomac. If putting the finger on a national bank ain't a government felony we would like to know what is. But it ain't.

You can apparently stick up one of those institutions and have nobody to fear but the city and state. The Secret Service, the Department of Justice and the Coast Guard don't bother about it all, even the Marine Band plays more softly and sweetly to itself.

The law is not happy reading. But we all should look it over sporadically to find out just where we stood last. We average about fifteen thousand new rules and regulations every 12 months. Most of them are read into the minutes, are placed under lock and key and are never heard of again until some junk dealer buys a library at blind auction.

If scolds and threats were efficacious we would be the most law-abiding nation in the world. But tell a man he can't do a thing and he does it twice just to prove he can do it once.

The oldtimers say a land least governed is best governed. That doesn't stop the state legislatures from turning out a bumper crop of bills. Those boys are almost in the newspaper and book businesses. They use up plenty of paper pulp.

The laws don't memorize long. The new law is sort of a memento to remind you of the law you forgot. It becomes an endless chain without an anchor. And out of all the warning and chastizing paragraphs the only ones we understand are the red and green lights.

Shirking Responsibility

Representative McLeod has worked out an intelligent formula for bringing relief to depositors in closed banks, and, in view of the surpassing importance of the subject in connection with economic recovery, it behooves members of Congress to consider the bill on its merits.

Thus far there has been no disposition to do this.

Likewise, such unreal bickerings mean nothing to the millions of idle who would be re-employed if the normal processes affecting the flow of bank credit into business were resumed.

There is small consolation for those who are undernourished amidst plenty, as the politicians in Congress sidestep Representative McLeod's sensible proposal to build up national purchasing power.

The original McLeod bill would authorize the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to lend against the assets and double liability of stockholders of closed banks sufficient sums to enable them to pay off depositors in full.

The effect would be electrical.

Frozen, inert deposits would forthwith be restored to life, and the normal exchange of goods and services, which spells prosperity, would be resumed.

Under the terms of the bill, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, eschewing hurried, forced selling out of assets, would be authorized to wait as long as 10 years for advantageous opportunities to liquidate.

In effect, the McLeod bill would make retroactive the deposit insurance which is now in effect in the United States.

The measure would restore necessary buying power to the thrifty, who were hoodwinked by government-supervised banks, which they trusted well but not wisely.

From the standpoint of the country as a whole, the plan would lift the gross volume of business and employment.

Quickened economic recovery PER SE would enhance the market value of the frozen assets now held in closed banks.

Thus, the government might be able to accomplish all the manifest benefits of the plan without ultimate cost to the taxpayers.

Headed Right

Many Signs Point to Business Improvement in the Pittsburgh District.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue reports that Western Pennsylvania cigar makers produced 4,692,645 "nickel" cigars last month, as compared with 2,422,270 in March, 1933.

The Pittsburgh Motor Club states that 67,097 more autos were registered in Pennsylvania during the first three months of this year than in the first quarter of last year.

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company announces that orders received in the first quarter totaled $20,237,588, compared with $12,847,801 for the corresponding quarter of 1933, an increase of 57 per cent.

The Iron Age says steel production has risen during the past week to 56 per cent of capacity and continues to rise.

Brotherhood Day

The Plan for Special Exercises to Promote Good-Will Is Commendable.

Under distinguished auspices Brotherhood Day is to be observed throughout the land next Sunday. Pittsburgh, we are glad to say, will participate in the observance.

There is a noble purpose behind Brotherhood Day. It is designed to help Protestants, Catholics and Jews to "rise above old suspicions and prejudices, look for ways of effectively working together, and maintain and safeguard the American ideal of religious freedom and brotherhood."

Gov. Pinchot deserves credit for calling on all Pennsylvanians to join in the observance. His proclamation is a valuable contribution to the promotion of a fine spirit of religious tolerance.

Deathless Dickens

His Love Letters Reveal the Strength and Beauty Of the English Language.

What must impress many readers who follow the first real romance of Charles Dickens, as revealed in his love letters now appearing in the Sun-Telegraph, is the perfection of expression which the author attained at so early an age. He knew what he desired to say and precisely how to say it.

He shows in the letters that the English language possesses strength, flexibility and color for any writer able to see through the simplicity of its grammar and vocabulary.

He has been called "the authors' author," but that title is unjustly pedantic. True, every line he wrote was a lesson in writing, but the lessons called for no study or explanation, and his words reproduced his thoughts with crystal clarity, comprehensible at sight to the commonest of men.

If proof were needed that Dickens' artistry was a gift God-given, the love letters supply that proof. They read as timely today as when they were written. Even as a youth, before he dreamed of the fame before him, even when writing informally for the eyes of a single person, he was a master—yes, the master of letters!

Station USA Talking

Again, by a parliamentary ruse, a vote on the McLeod bill has been prevented in the House of Representatives, making it necessary for a new petition to be circulated demanding ACTION on May 14.

The McLeod bill recognizes that the depositors in closed banks belonging to the Federal Reserve System relied on Federal protection, and the Federal Government owes them a MORAL obligation.

The bill will permit the Government to take over the frozen assets of these banks, pay the depositors and gradually liquidate the assets.

As a recovery measure the benefits of such a procedure will be immediate and nation-wide.

This constructive bill should PASS. Telegraph to YOUR Representative and urge him to support the McLeod bill.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 27.—Thoughts while strolling: Has anyone ever seen Mr. Katharine Hepburn? Will and Betty Rogers' daughter Mary resembles Joan Bennett. And Edna Best and Betty Starbuck look alike. Guthrie McClintic never slips his arms into his overcoat sleeves. Jaunty like.

One word description of George Arliss—trippy. All the aviators say Lindbergh will never die in the air. Morris Gest answers the phone with a French "Allo." The new kid star, Imogene Coco. That legless Broadway beggar, Juju. I like to hear Dorothy Hall's petulant whine.

Cholly Knickerbocker thinks Elin Mackay Berlin the most intelligent woman in New York society. And the most distinguished looking, if you ask me. The depression brings more people than ever to the park zoo. The first time I saw a tiger I wanted to stroke the "nice pussy!"

The fuss over Bock beer and I know no one who really likes it! An autographed Poe book in Putnam's for $2,500. What the author could have done with that sum! The Germans call daylight saving sonnenuntergangverderbenpraxis. Frank Crowninshield's lapel cornflower.

One of my favorite people—Cobina Wright. I rarely fail to flich a headline passing a newsstand. Grantland Rice's nickname is "Granny." Vincent Astor seems the only one left with a yacht. Sign on movie front: "Our ushers let you alone!" Hooray! That white dot is my hat sailing over Passaic!

* * *

Just as everybody who goes to Hollywood pants to meet Charlie Chaplin, so do most visitors to New York want a peep at or a handshake with Al Smith. This is especially true of foreign visitors. While Smith has been forced to raise certain barriers, he probably meets more out-of-towners daily than any other man in New York, due largely to the fact his offices are in mid-town and that several thousand a day ride up to the Empire Tower. For some time he used to loiter in the lobby to smoke an after-luncheon cigar, but word got about and he had to abandon that.

* * *

Another celebrity focal point is the Algonquin dining rooms at luncheon time, where extravagant log-rolling has exploited in the magazines and press that all the literati may be found there. There is a refreshingly pepperminty gathering always, but as a matter of fact more distinguished authors and contributors to magazines are found in the sedate Coffee House Club and The Players.

* * *

At the Lambs luncheon hour there is also a round table, rimmed by the leading actors of the day. This is usually presided over by Gene Buck, who has not missed lunching at the Lambs, when in town, for 21 years. Wilton Lackeye once boasted that he had never lunched but three other places in New York. While the Lambs midday meal is called luncheon, it is mostly breakfast for those filling engagements.

* * *

But for racketty kix ko-ax ko-ax, give me the clattery uproar of any mid-town automat at lunch time. Everybody is immediately denuded of false grandeur by becoming at once his own waiter. And do not imagine for a moment the patrons are all from some vague obscurity. I have seen C. B. Dillingham there in his most opulent days. Also W. C. Fields, Jerome Kern, Berton Braley and Sime Silverman. And the oddities of chance of Monte Carlo's roulette are no more diverting than the automat's nickle-in-the-slot clicks, and certainly far more expensive.

* * *

For the young lovers of an older New York, to my notion, there was no luncheon place equalling Claremont, now being converted into a cheaper wayside eatery. It is an old white colonial day structure deep in years but living briskly in the motor tide of today's life. Beautifully set on the left bank of the Hudson, it was as sparkling with romance as the river below. One of the very few places where Mrs. Fiske and Maud Adams were ever seen in public when they were at the peak of careers.

* * *

* * *

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

If you want love and companionship in your home, there must be mutual confidence among its members.

To do a kind and thoughtful thing and have it taken as atonement for some wrong done is discouraging.

Women have been heard to remark: "I knew my husband had been up to something, when he brought flowers home," or "he was planning to do something when he insisted on taking me out to dinner."

When a wife asks, "What have you been doing now?" when her husband presents her with a gift, naturally, his future favors to her will be few.

If the fact that he is trying to be kind and thoughful gives his wife the impression that he is trying to square his conscience, he will desist from extending such favors.

He will feel that if his wife thinks thus of his kindness to give her something is to accuse himself of an act of which he should be ashamed.

Of course, there are some husbands who have use for "peace offerings," but they are in the minority.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Have Your Thoughts and Feelings Become Habits?

BUT HOW LONG IS IT SINCE YOU HAVE HELPED ANYTHING TO HAPPEN?

HOW LONG IS IT SINCE YOU HAD A NEW EXCITING THOUGHT OR FEELING ABOUT ANYTHING?

"But I'm having new thoughts and feelings all the time!" you protest, indignantly.

Are you? I wonder!

If you are, you're a rare human being. Most of us cease having new thoughts and feelings when we are still very young. Indeed, few of us ever start to do any original thinking or feeling—

If we were left to our own devices, as children, we would think and feel deeply about this amazing world. Children are naturally curious, naturally emotional—eager, enthusiastic, quick to rejoice or rebel.

But before we are out of creepers, Papa, Mamma and Organized Society lay molding hands upon us. We are told just what we should or shouldn't think about every subject—just what Nice Little Girls and Good Little Boys should or shouldn't feel. Before we have a chance to ask the questions the answers are ready, all cut and dried.

AS A CONSEQUENCE, FEW OF US ARE PERMITTED TO WORK OUT OUR OWN NATURAL EMOTIONAL RESPONSES OR MENTAL ATTITUDES. We think and feel what the family thinks and feels; what our best friends think and feel. We are little "yes men" and "yes women" before we've lost our baby teeth.

Of all this we're usually unconscious until we begin to develop. Then, at 13, 15, 17, we turn moody—decide we've "never been understood," decide to "live our own lives." And, for a while, we have a grand time hating, doubting and defying Everything and Everybody.

During those brief years before 20, most of us feel life more keenly than we ever will feel it again; most of us do our only REAL THINKING and REAL FEELING. Then, with 20, we are forced to face that life . . . and immediately we discover that it takes courage and tough perseverance to do one's own thinking and feeling.

For, unless you think and feel as the rest of the herd thinks and feels, many unpleasant things are apt to happen. Your family may raise Cain with you. Your friends will get sore at you. Your boss may fire you. The whole community will undoubtedly consider you a nut.

So what?

So, if you're the average lazy, cowardly, conceited human being, who loves peace and comfort at any cost, you speedily fall in line. You restrain restless curiosity and disturbing doubts, your inconvenient enthusiasms or rebellions, your distressing anguish over the cruelty of life. You say to yourself:

"Aw, what's the use of getting all hot and bothered? I can't change anything, no matter how hard I try. I'll just get myself laughed at—or start something I can't finish. Then everybody will blame me. What'll that buy me? Nothing but grief. So I'd better cut it out and stop working myself into a lather!"

So you fall in line. You stop thinking or feeling for yourself. You do not know you are ceasing to feel. To the contrary, you believe that you are feeling as much as ever—as much as anyone else—only YOU have decided to think and feel "practical, sensible things."

But the simple fact is, YOU HAVE STOPPED DOING ANY REAL THINKING OR FEELING. YOUR THOUGHTS AND FEELINGS HAVE BECOME HABITS—MEANINGLESS, AUTOMATIC HABITS.

The vast spectacle of life passes before you, with its thrilling challenges, its heart-breaking tragedies, and you believe that you regard it as you did once, when life was fresh and free.

But you don't! Your thoughts and feelings have become mechanical reactions. There is no more significance to them than there is to the unconscious gesture with which you brush away a fly from your nose.

Why are you bored? Why has life become stale? Why does "nothing happen any more?" That is why. You aren't letting anything happen. You are afraid to let anything happen. Life, for you, has become a series of gestures—meaningless mental and emotional gestures. YOU HAVE NO MORE REAL LIFE THAN ANY ROBOT.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

When Love Goes 'Maying'

Sometimes a woman hesitates to divorce her husband, because she can't bear to relinquish the daily exhilaration of bawling him out.

Why is it that a man never discovers that a hat or a frock is the "most becoming thing the Little Woman ever wore," until it has gone completely out of style and she is talking of getting "some new clothes?"

* * *

If a man could paint a portrait of his Ideal Wife, it would probably resemble the Statue of Liberty—a beautiful woman standing perpetually, patiently and SILENTLY, waiting for him to come home!

* * *

Once love is dead, there is no use trying to nag it, argue it or even to coax it back to life again—because there is no pulmoter made that will revive it.

Only a very wild and reckless bachelor would dare to fly as high and as far as a staid old married man, who has suddenly been let out of his cage for the summer.

* * *

* * *

As soon as a man makes enough money to enjoy life, he acquires a lawyer to keep him from saying the things he wants to say, a doctor to keep him from eating the things he likes, and a wife to prevent him from doing the things he pleases to do.

* * *

Nothing so annoys most men as a husband who is publicly so devoted to his wife that other women envy her. Somehow, other husbands feel that he is breaking all the union rules and "scabbing" on them.

One of the pleasantest things about this modern generation is that it doesn't consider garters immoral or regard a stocking as "unmentionable."

* * *

Love, like a spring cold, has never been diagnosed. Nobody knows just how it started, how long it will last or how to cure it—and nobody regards it very seriously, except its victim.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Only of Joy

Only of joy can I sing today,
Though earth is somber and skies are gray,
Only of joy, for in all I see
Beauty and love are revealed to me.

Beauty which out of the shadow smiles
And love that can conquer long years and miles;
These are about me from hour to hour.

Only of joy, of joy I tell,
For the voices of joy in a chorus swell

For life is as lovely as any dream
And gladness runs through its whole vast scheme
For him whose soul is attuned to see
Beauty and love in life's tapestry.

By Edwin C. Hill

NIGHT on the harbor at Waivang, in the southernmost seacoast province of China. The hundreds of junks squat at anchor. A dead calm hangs over all—the barometer is falling and a heavy swell sets in on the water. Nature is warning before she strikes. But the fishermen pay little heed. Some have work to do and gamble they will have time to finish it. Others will match their skill, which must be great, considering the clumsy tubs they handle.

Suddenly a breeze stirs and and grows in briskness. The rain comes down in torrents, the wind roars and the waters are lashed to a fury. An unseasonable typhoon has come to Waivang, and before it runs its course, 300 junks and sampans have been pounded to bits and 800 fishermen have perished. The typhoon of the East Indies is identical with the hurricane of the West Indies.

They occur usually in the months of August, September and October, originating in the equatorial belt of calms or doldrums, forming slowly and moving northward, slowly at first, until their pent-up wrath is loosed upon the West Indies, the Gulf and our Southern coast, and in the Pacific to play havoc between the Philippines and Japan. And their path runs from 50 to 100 miles in width. This last typhoon gets scant notice in the headlines, for in the measure of the public interest 800 Chinese fishermen weigh but little.

* * *

Kublai Khan's Fleet Destroyed

THE Pacific has about 60 typhoons a year, 10 of which are serious, and the Atlantic has about one-third that number of hurricanes. All in all, they are the most destructive of nature's forces, drowning as many as 100 persons at one time, and in the Tokio earthquake and typhoon of September 1, 1923, being responsible, it is estimated, for 200,000 of the 300,000 deaths by spreading the flames. In the chronicles of China, the greatest of typhoons is set down in the year 1281 during the reign of the mighty Mongol Emperor Kublai Khan.

To punish the Japanese for executing an ambassador, this Grand Mongol loaded 100,000 men on 3,500 ships for an invasion of the empire of the Niponese. A typhoon struck the armada as it lay at anchor off the island of Kiushiu and just three of the 100,000 returned alive to China. Down through the centuries, year after year, the typhoon, or hurricane, takes the greatest toll of any of the manifestations of the wrath of nature.

Basques Talk Of Independence

NOW it is the Basques who have the bee of independence in their berets. They are adding a voice to Europe's symphony of discord, and their note is that they are sick and tired of the instability of government and shifting of political lines, especially in Spain and incidentally in France. As a result, they have ordered 100 airplanes in Czechoslovakia and a batch of machine guns for the training of their young fellows, all in case of eventualities not to their liking.

A strange people, the Basques—one of the strangest on the face of the earth. Your guess is as good as mine, or the next one's, as to whence they sprang. Some ethnologists trace them back to the Phoenician traders, others link them with the Georgians of the Caucasus, and still others believe them to be survivors of the 10 lost tribes of Isreal. Be that as it may, they speak a language which is both unintelligible and unpronounceable, like none other—although a Japanese can understand a few words and the Celts can see a strain of Gaelic in their music.

Farmers and seafarers, they have—since time immemorial—been holding forth along what is now the Franco-Spanish frontier, living their own lives, and keeping their blood strain pure, on the shores of the Bay of Biscay and back in the Cantabrian and Pyrennees mountains. Six hundred thousand of them remain there, 450,000 in Spain, and 150,000 in France. Still another 1,000 are to be found, mostly in the La Plata section of South America, and some in our own Southwest.

Everywhere—uncanny in their knowledge of the breeding and care of sheep. They tend their flocks, drive their oxen, wear their picturesque clothes, live in their ancient pueblos with narrow streets and gabled houses, watching sleek motorcars and airplanes go by, just as their forbears did 10 centuries ago, when it was Moslems and Visigoths who went by.

However, the Basque today is not bent on repelling visitors as perforce his ancestors were. Strangers are not welcome, but when they come, they find the Basque hospitable, courteous and willing to discuss the affairs of the world. They find a proud race, and why not? Since the kings of Castille had ordained that every Basque was a nobleman. The visitor sees, too, in the bold eyes and handsome features of his host that faraway, indefinable look of the mystic, a quality of mind and the soul which was so pronounced in those two great Basques—Ignatius Loyola and Ferdinand Foch.

Only New York, California Keep Schools Fully Open

By James T. Williams, Jr.

HOW desperate is the plight of public education in state after state of the Union is now in evidence before a congressional committee—the House Committee on Education.

Hearings before this committee on various proposals for federal emergency relief for public education were attended by superintendents of public instruction from many parts of the country and by represtntatives of various teachers and parents associations who know, at first hand, what a heavy blow has been dealt public schools by the failure of the state authorities to provide for their support.

One of the witnesses testified that only two states in the Union opened their public schools last September with an approximately normal educational offering. These were the states of New York and California. The only reason that California was able to do this was because her Legislature in the preceding June had adopted a sales tax to keep open the schools.

* * *

Sees Salvation In Sales Taxes

"If the United States Government, in co-operation with the states, had enacted a satisfactory co-operative program of sales taxes in which the support of the schools had come co-operatively from both the federal and state government, then no school in the Union would have needed to close for lack of funds."

Other witnesses told of the closing of the schools and the piling up of school indebtedness. These closings were due to the failure of the state legislatures either to modernize their systems of county and local government or to provide in other ways the revenue essential to operate the schools.

Prof. John K. Norton, professor of education, Teachers' College, Columbia University, gave the Congress something to think about when he drew this picture of the existing plight of public education:

"At the beginning of this year hundreds of schools failed to open and made no provisions for the education of their children. Some of these have since opened with the aid of federal funds and some have not. A much larger number of districts opened their schools but were able to keep them open only a few months.

"A county by county inquiry made this school year indicates that some 20,000 school districts will maintain school terms of from only one to six months. Other districts are keeping their schools open, but are unable to pay their bills.

"Hundreds of school districts are insolvent at the present moment. More than 200,000 teachers will receive salaries this year, which are less than the minimums of the blanket code of the Recovery Act.

"The educational situation in cities in some ways, however, is more serious than that found in rural sections. It is unfortunate to close a meagerly equipped rural school enrolling two or 20 pupils. It is even more unfortunate to cut the heart out of the educational program of a city enrolling 10,000 or 100,000 children.

"The school program of a large number of our cities has been seriously damaged during the last two years. Chicago is merely an exaggerated example of a situation which exists today in hundreds of cities and towns even in the most favored areas. The educational difficulties of Chicago and hundreds of other cities and towns are due principally to heavy tax delinquencies which are the outcome of the rapid drop in tax paying ability of many property owners, consequent to the depression.

Education Secretary Needed in Cabinet

NO federal emergency aid to public schools, however necessary it may become as a temporary measure of relief, can provide a permanent cure for what ails public education in this country.

This permanent cure only the states under the leadership of their federal leadership of the federal government can supply. By modernizing their obsolete systems of county and local government the states will be able to finance and administer an adequate and highly efficient system of public instruction provided they are assisted by federal leadership.

Federal leadership in this national field of endeavor can best be given by a Department of Education, headed by a Secretary of Education with a seat in the cabinet of the President.

Until education is placed on an equality in the federal system with agriculture, commerce and labor it will continue to be neglected throughout the Federal Union.
